

FUEL CONTROLLER IS NOT NECESSARY

Premier Gives Reasons Why the Office Is Being Abolished.

LOAN OBJECTED TO Proposal for New Bond Issue Opposed by the Liberal Leader.

It was explained in the legislature yesterday that the government had abolished the position of provincial fuel controller because it was unnecessary, and that further the federal authorities had already taken similar steps with regard to its controller.

Conservative leader Ferguson told the house he was sorry fuel controller Harrington had been dismissed. The office was self-sustaining and a very necessary one.

Local fuel dealer Mr. Hay asked if the coal supply was not too bright and furnished a good reason for continuing the office. Coal prices had taken a tumble at the mine and the present was a good time for an energetic fuel controller to prepare for a reserve supply.

Expense Public Wellington Hay said it was true the fuel controller had not cost the province anything, but he had cost the consumers of coal in Ontario a very considerable amount. It was time the country got back to pre-war times and control everything.

Local fuel dealer Mr. Hay asked if he had received more for their coal during the regime of the fuel controller than ever before.

At the moment you begin to control anything you take it out of the usual channels of trade and the public suffer. For this reason I am utterly opposed to a fuel controller," concluded Mr. Hay.

The premier said in discontinuing the office the government was following the example of Ontario during war time it was necessary to have a fuel controller, but not during normal times. During the past year the fuel controller's office was clearly shown to be unnecessary.

Dewart Objects to Loan The announcement that the province proposed floating a six million dollar bond issue was referred to by Liberal Leader Dewart, who took the position that the government should be floating any more loans, take the house into its financial requirements for coming fiscal year were further, he objected when this question was a subject for discussion at the present session of the house, that the government should during the Easter recess announce it proposed borrowing a vast sum of money.

This issue should not be made," insisted Mr. Dewart. "The premier has first had a statement of the government's financial policy.

The provincial treasurer replied that the government's financial requirements for the present year would be presented to the house this week. He added that the Hydro would receive $25,000,000 and that a loan would be retired next month. Further details would be found in the promised statement now being prepared.

Col. Price Complains W. H. Price complained to the house regarding what he termed an unfair attack upon him because he had introduced an anatomy bill which provided for bodies being turned over to medical colleges for dissection. He specifically stated that he was introducing it on behalf of medical colleges, and did not agree with certain clauses. He would go fifty-fifty with the editor of The Star, and if the latter "when he has ceased turning the knife in those who live," would allow his body to be dissected, then he (Col. Price) was ready to give his body, and was sure "the students will find a better subject in me than they will have in the editor."

Legislature Notes The attorney-general's bill for the protection of the children of unmarried persons passed the committee stage, as did also his measure for the legitimation of children by the subsequent intermarriage of their parents.

The bill permitting the appointment of women magistrates was reported.

ALLOW GARAGES IN RESTRICTED AREAS Suggest Property Commissioner Settle Requests to Violate Bylaw.

Ald. Risk moved at the meeting of the committee on property yesterday to accept the report by the property commissioner on all applications for the amending of the residential by-law. He referred to the growing number of applications to the committee to violate the bylaw and he thought the work of the committee could be considerably reduced by letting the commissioner settle the bulk of these matters, leaving the committee to deal with matters of policy only.

Ald. Honeyford thought this was a move along the right line and he suggested that the motion be made to cover matters of a purely departmental nature governed by other bylaws. In order to comply with this suggestion Ald. Risk held his motion over for two weeks.

Immediately following the discussion of this motion, several citizens came forward with applications to amend the residential bylaw in their interests. Two or three wanted to establish repair garages in districts covered by residential restrictions and others wanted to erect frame structures in brick districts. Ald. Risk voted against these, supported by Ald. Baker, but several of the applications were granted.

Restrictions Lifted Subject to the approval of the property commissioner and the city architect, the committee granted the application for the lifting of the residential restrictions to permit the opening of a repair garage in the rear of 521 Brock avenue.
