ANIMALS, in general, need little care, except good pasturage or feeding. Fattening Bullocks that are to be finished off for the autumn trade, need a gradual increase of grain, as the weather grows cooler.

Sheep, also, that are to be sold, should be separated from others, and fed a little grain. Examine any that it may be necessary to have in moist pastures to check the very first appearance of foot rot. Shelter all during storms, and give access to water and salt. Swine, to be fattened this fall, will do much better if fed a little ground grain now while at grass, or being kept on thin swill, as is usual.

COWS AND BUTTER.—Fall Butter may be nearly as good as that made in June. As the pastures fail, feed a little grain, with turnips.

ROOT CROPS.—All kinds of root crops having become well established and full of leaf, keep on growing until freezing weather, and often swell with prodigious rapidity, as the season becomes moister and cooler. Keep the weeds down, and the ground open and loose, and pull for cow feed wherever they stand too thick.

THERE is a greater variety of labors to employ farmers in September than perhaps in any other month. We have manuring, plowing, sowing—if winter wheat is grown—harvesting, thrashing, feeding, marketing, all upon us at once, yet the labors are seldom pressing and of an anxious kind, except perhaps a little anxiety in regard to early frosts.

THE BLUE COLOR OF THE SKY is owing to the moisture in the atmosphere, this aqueous vapor partially absorbing the red and yellow tints of sunlight, and leaving the blue rays to be transmitted to us.

Why is the profession of a dentist a most anomalous one? Because the more he "stops" the faster he gets on.

What metamorphosis does a washerwoman undergo in the night? She goes to bed a washerwoman, and gets up fine linen.
