

Enemies of Tea

If tea is left open near oranges, soap, spices, matches, etc., the tea will take on the flavor of any of these articles.

In fact, tea absorbs odors as readily as does butter. This is because it becomes so dry and brittle in passing through the firing or drying oven that it becomes very sensitive to the moisture and odors in the air.

When loose in the chest or bin or bag it quickly loses flavor and strength. Tastes flat, weak, old; dear at any price.

This is why Red Rose is never sold in bulk—but always in sealed packages. The armour that keeps our dust and odors and keeps in the flavor and strength.

The price printed on the package protects you against overcharge. It is the lowest price for which a tea of Red Rose quality can be sold—a price which allows the grocer only a fair profit.

You will enjoy the distinctive flavor and rich strength of Red Rose Tea. Try a package.

Sold Only in Sealed Packages

HOTEL MAN SAYS BAR NOT A NECESSITY

Montreal Manager Shows Why Bar Trade Not Essential

Common Sense of Public Reduced Consumption and High Costs Lessened the Profits—Room Rental the Real Business

(Montreal Financial Times)
Mature deliberation and calculation, applied to the question of hotel profits as effected by recent temperance legislation throughout Canada, and factors leading slowly but surely to the realization that the elimination of liquor selling in connection with the business will prove neither a detriment to the trade, nor a source of anxiety for those who have invested their money in this sort of enterprise.

Discussing the question with a representative of The Financial Times, an official of Montreal's leading hotel stated that the stockholders of the company would not in any way be affected by the changed conditions.
"If I had all the rooms in this hotel rented," he declared, "it would be glad to eliminate the bar entirely. The impression seems to prevail among the public that the profits on liquor selling is enormous, and that it is an important branch of the business in so far as profits are concerned. This is an erroneous impression.
"And why? Because in these days when whiskey costs from $1.15 to $1.60 a bottle, and when the costs of operating a bar are so high, there is very little compensation, very little profit in the trade when other than good whiskey is purchased and retailed as good whiskey to the public, but a first class hotelier never deals in this kind of stuff—they must have the best for their customers.
Bar Costs Are High
"Now, in addition to buying the best liquor, there is to be taken into consideration the license cost, which is heavy; there are the overhead charges, the upkeep, glass breakage, payment of bartenders, and in the case of first class hotels the latter must be above the ordinary type of dispenser, consequently they demand a higher price, ranging from $12 to $100 per month—so that when the operating expenses of this branch of the business are taken into consideration, the margin of profit is greatly reduced, leaving as little, perhaps as ten per cent. This, of course, is small remuneration compared with the profits from the rental of the rooms. It is the latter trade which means money for the big hotel, and dividends for the stockholders. The dining rooms, for instance, are a break-even proposition considering the high cost of living at the present time.
Common Sense Helps
"Then again, it must not be overlooked that the very fact of all this temperance legislation is the result of gradually changed conditions. Common sense in the matter of drink is asserting itself to a large degree, and the tendency now-a-days is not to indulge so freely. Men will still continue to drink, but they will drink less. Suppose there are two 'glass', but I believe that as a result of the new order of things soft drinks, such as lemon-soda, two for the price of one, or beer, etc., will to a large extent take the place of whiskey. To my mind conditions will continue to exist themselves to such a degree that little effort will be felt from the abolition of the bar.
Tribute to the 'Drummer'
"Take for instance, the traveling man of today, he is more and more aggressive than ever, and while a few may be out for a good time, the great majority are trade hustlers who need that they are confronted with competition of the severest kind. And what is their idea on the question? Suppose there are two hotels in a town or city, one given to the practice of late drinking and a generally good time at night, the other being closed at the regulation hour, and operated on a quieter scale, my personal experience leads me to the conclusion that seven out of ten of these men will stop at the latter hotel. Yes, I would venture to say that nine out of ten would stop there, and after all the 'money-getter' for a hotel is the room rent, unless, as I have already stated, a man wants to run a cheap whiskey place, and depend entirely on the bar for his profits.
"Certainly our stockholders will not be affected by the change."

work, if they would volunteer to do so. There are other men, less familiar with farm work, but who would be capable of doing other classes of farm work. These, too, should be placed in a position to the country in its dire need.
It has been suggested that an appeal should be made to men who are engaged in warehouses, offices, banks, etc.—men who are in the habit of taking a vacation of one or two weeks—that they should spend their vacations working on a farm; that employers should grant each man who would volunteer for farm work an additional week's vacation, with or without pay, which, added to the customary two weeks, would give each man a working period of three weeks. It is thought that both farmers and men would mutually benefit, and accept the military wage of $1.10 per day and board.
The co-operation of the business men and workmen of St. John is earnestly sought in the carrying out of this plan.
The board of trade will co-operate with the agricultural department in having such volunteer workers as may present themselves placed on the farms.
By this means it is hoped that the labor difficulty which confronts the farmer will in part be removed.

A meeting of the principals of the city, Fairville and Milford schools was held yesterday for the purpose of arranging for the placing of school boys on farms in aid of the greater production movement. Dr. H. S. Bridges presided. Inspector McLean stated that it was the desire of the school authorities to co-operate with the board of trade. Dr. Bridges then asked the principals to form lists of the boys in grades 8, 9 and 10 who would be willing to work on the farms, provided that they could obtain their parents' consent. He went on to say that until this list was prepared and laid before the central committee, nothing more could be done. As soon as the list is ready it will be given to Mr. Armstrong, who will get in communication with the farmers and find out how many want the boys on their farms. The central committee consists of R. B. Emerson, chairman of the school board; R. E. Armstrong, secretary of the board of trade; William M. McLean, school inspector, and H. S. Bridges, superintendent of city schools.

The bi-monthly meeting of the St. John Deacons' S. S. Teachers' Association was held last evening in St. Luke's church. F. G. Scott, president, was in the chair. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. T. H. Perry of Halifax on the "Organization and Equipment of a Sunday School."
