FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

THE HOME OF THE REPUBLIC
By Andrew Dickson White

It is recorded in the annals of the most democratic republic of medieval Italy that, in her pride of institutions and arts, she decreed the building of a cathedral dome far greater and more beautiful than any the world had ever seen. The architect, Arnolfo, having laid the foundations, died, and no one was deemed worthy to finish his work. For a century the republic sought far and near, but an architect able thus to give glory to Florence and Italy could not be found.

Meanwhile absurd projects were multiplied. Some proposed a dome supported by a central pillar; but it was voted that a dome which must forever be artificially supported, is but a poor, sickly no-dome. Others proposed a dome of pumice-stone; but it was voted, that when a great republic rears a mighty monument for the ages, it may not be of pumice-stone. Others still proposed to heap a mountain of earth, to scatter coins therein, to round off the summit, to build the dome upon this as a support, and then to admit swarms of beggars who should carry away the mountain of earth to sift it for its money. This was voted impracticable. At last a plain workman, strong only in sturdy sense and a knowledge of his art, proposed to rear the great fabric of marble, and by appliances simple and natural. He was set at the work.

Then began the rage of rival architects. They derided his plan, reduced his workmen, stole his tools, undermined the confidence of his people. But still that plain, strong man wrought on, ever steadily, ever earnestly. Day by day the glorious creation rose; day by day some stone was added to give it height or mass; day by day some shrewd plan was struck to give strength on symmetry, until it towered complete, a wondrous monument to Brunelleschi, to Florence and to Italy. So in this glorious fabric of a restored union. The work is mighty; the chief architect is but a plain man. The envious cavil and the malignant howl. But day by day the structure rises; its foundations great truths far more lasting than mere granite; its pillars great rights, far more beautiful than mere porphyry; its roofs great hopes swelling higher than any dome of bronze and gold. And from its summit shall come light, beaming brighter, flashing farther than any ever flung into serf's eyes from crown diamonds; for it shall reflect that light of liberty and justice which cometh from the very throne of the Almighty.

ANNIVERSARY OF GUN POWDER PLOT IS OBSERVED

Orangemen Dine at White's and Hear Speeches—Parade to St. Luke's—The Day in Other Places

Guy Fawkes' day, or the discovery of the gun powder plot, was fittingly observed by the Orangemen of this city. On Saturday evening a banquet took place in White's restaurant, at which, besides the members of the different lodges, representatives of the city council and several clergymen were present. The spacious dining hall was prettily decorated and the dinner provided by the popular catering company was a most elaborate one. Charles M. Langford, the King, presided over the chair during the evening. There was an interesting list, which brought forth many eloquent speeches. The list was as follows: The King, The Rev. Mr. Maxwell, M. P. P.; The Day We Celebrate, Recorder Baxter, K. C.; City of St. John, Ald. Wegmore, Sprout and Vanwart; The Grand Lodge, George E. Day and Neil J. Morrison; St. John County Lodge, W. B. Wallace, K. C.; St. John District Lodge, Col. A. J. Armstrong. Addresses were also given by the following clergymen who were present: Revs. McCaskill, Hutchinson, Raymond, Wentworth, Graham, Anderson, Bishop, Milberry, and Foster. Entertainment was given by songs and readings was given by S. J. McGowan, S. C. Mathews and A. E. McKinley.

Yesterday morning the members of the different lodges accompanied by the Sons of England, turned out in parade, marching from the Orange hall, Simonds street, to St. Luke's church, where a special service was held. The parade, probably due to the fact that the local lodges were joined by the Sons of England, was large, and much favorable comment was made on the appearance of those taking part. The St. Mary's and the Carlton Cornet bands were in attendance, playing on route. The parade was under the auspices of the Dominion L. O. L. No. 141. The service was conducted by the Rev. B. P. McKim, and the sermon was preached by Rev. E. Purdie, curate of St. Luke's, the chaplain of the Orange order. In the course of Rev. Mr. Purdie's sermon he criticized the statements of Father Vaughan, who in a recent sermon in Montreal characterized the Protestant religion as "a soulless one."

The Eastern steamship liner Calvin Austin, which was due to arrive port Saturday afternoon, did not reach port until 6 o'clock last evening, having been delayed in Boston a whole day on account of the terrific storm which swept the New England coast. The Austin is in charge of Captain Pike, and brought seventy-five passengers.

(Judge.)
"Well," sighs the man with the wash tie, "now that the aeroplane is becoming popular the women won't spend so much money for automobile hats and veils."
"No," growls the man with the ingrowing mustache, "but they'll blow it just as they blow the silk stockings and high heeled shoes."

THE PATIENT BRAIN

A Tireless Worker So Long As Supplied With Rich, Red Blood.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work.

But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to lack of rest, but if the lack is laid on too hard it balks.

The brain insists on having plenty of good, red blood wherewith to renew its waste and from which to manufacture the nerve force supplied to the whole body.

Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared with that of a brain which is accompanied by depression and melancholy.

One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will overcome nervousness.

There is no other way. Stimulants arouse false hope. Narcotics deaden the nerves, and speedily follow by a condition which is worse than the first.

Get the blood right and the nervous system will adjust itself. Headaches will disappear, irritability will go, digestion will give place to new hope and courage, and vigor and energy.

Mrs. Geo. Fisher, Allegheny, Pa., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of nervous headache, from which I was a great sufferer, and I am no longer troubled with twitches of the nerves in the arms and legs."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE TORREY CAMPAIGN WELL BEGUN

More Than 2,500 Gather For Opening Meeting—Leader Delayed By Storm—Rev. Dr. Jacoby Takes His Place

The great soul-saving campaign which Rev. Dr. Torrey, the world renowned evangelist, is to conduct in this city during the next few weeks, opened yesterday afternoon in the Queen's rink with an attendance of over 2,500 people. At the evening meeting there was fully as large a crowd and this despite the fact that it had been announced in the afternoon that

Wm. McEwan

Dr. Torrey had been unavoidably delayed and would not reach the city until today.

The committee in charge of the work were somewhat alarmed lest the disagreeable weather would put a damper on the opening services, but the way the people flocked to the building soon showed that their fears were groundless.

Everyone apparently was delighted with the manner in which the committee have arranged the seating, heating and lighting of the rink, and the singing of the choir of 400 or 500 voices, representing the churches of the city, was a delightful and thrilling revelation.

It is doubtful if a finer chorus was ever heard in the city, and John Bullock, who acted as organist, is being warmly congratulated.

The singing promises to be a very important feature of the meetings. William McEwan, of Glasgow, Scotland, soloist and conductor, made a splendid impression on both audiences yesterday. He possesses a clear and powerful tenor voice and he handles the choir and audience in a masterly way, compelling all to sing.

He was delayed by heavy snowstorms in Pennsylvania, and though he made Her-clean efforts to try and get through, even to hiring a sleigh when his train was stalled in a drift, and afterwards being upset from the vehicle, so that he had to return to the train, he was unable to make train connections that would get him to this city. He will, however, arrive today at noon. The services yesterday were conducted by Rev. W. S. Jacoby, D. D., of the Moody Training Institute, Chicago, who is to assist Dr. Torrey in his St. John campaign, and he made a fine impression on the people. He is a man of splendid physique and a powerful speaker. His work after the arrival of Dr. Torrey will be mainly among the personal workers.

GIVE YOUR STOMACH A NICE VACATION

Don't Do It By Starving It Either—Let a Substitute Do the Work.

The old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," applies just as well to the stomach, one of the most important organs of the human system, as it does to the man himself.

If your stomach is worn out and rebels against being further taxed beyond its limit, the only sensible thing you can do is to give it a rest. Employ a substitute for a short time and see if it will not more than repay you in results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a willing and most efficient substitute. They themselves digest every bit of food in the stomach in just the same way that the stomach itself would, were it well. They contain all the essential elements that the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach contain and actually act just the same as do just the same work as the stomach fluids would do, were the stomach well.

They, therefore, relieve the stomach, just as one workman relieves another, and permit it to rest and recuperate and regain its normal health and strength.

The "vacation" idea was suggested by the father of a prominent lawyer in Chicago. Recalling he says: "I was engaged in the most momentous undertaking of my life in bringing about the coalition of certain great interests that meant much to me as well as my clients. It was not the work of days, but of months. I was working night and day almost, when at a very critical time my stomach went clear back on me. The undue mental strain brought it about and hurried up what would have happened later on."

"What I ate I had to literally force down and that was a source of misery as I had a sour stomach much of the time. My head ached, I was sluggish and began to lose my ambition to carry out my undertaking. It looked pretty gloomy for me and I confided my plight to one of my clients. He had been cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and he once went down to a drug store and bought a box up to the office."

"I had not taken a quarter of that box before I found that they would do all the work my stomach ever did; and as a rest or vacation was out of the question for me, I determined to give my stomach a vacation. I kept right on taking the tablets and braced up and went ahead with my work with renewed vigor, ate just as much as I ever did and carried out that undertaking to a successful issue. I feel that I have Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to thank for saving me the handsome fee I ever received as well my reputation and last but not least my stomach."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box.
