Ottawa, May 11. to our future progress. In the House last evening, Galt resumed the debate on the Washington Treaty. He commenced by referring to the importance of the question under consideration, and regretted that the policy of exclusion of Amoricans from the fisheries had been adopted. He had ever right, and disturbances of our relations with the Empire. His fear had to a certain extent then more the fisheries. In the probletic, The more transform the probletic. The fisher more transform the more the fisher of our relations with the fisher determent of our relations with the more. The appointment of Judge Johnson has strendy been eancelled, and the public opinion has come to the conclusion that the feared it would lead to the loss of headland the fisher more the our relations with the fisher more the our relations with the more the fisher had to a certain extent In the House last evening, Galt resumed right, and disturbances of our relations with the position. In promptly acknowledging the mixed up our questions with their mistake, they have acted with discretion is now, who will probable the mixed up our questions with the is as on anous to the form the cellife from the cellifie dian claims. On this question England had spoker, more firmly than ever before and put her previous activition words. The removal of the troops from us, the Act of Confeder-ation, transferring of the North West, the and agreed to jurnish sixty tons of freight ation, transferring of the North West, the union of British Columbia, all pointed to one conclusion. He could well understand if the Imperial Government had said to our Govern ment, you must adopt the treaty. Canada must take her own political responsibility on hers If-how the Canadian Cabinet shrank from the responsibility thrown on them, and if the git a at D a r D public men in this country had conceal d the public men in the people. The time was trouble from the people. The time was trouble from they would have to decide as to SAINT ANDREWS, MAY 15, 1872. our future position Our Government yield "used up" to employ a slang phrase. All the ex .d, and he did not wonder at it, altho igh he planations in the Imperial Parliament, and Dowould have preferred they had adopted the al ternative. It would have been better to ac-copt of all responsibility of our position than cede away our rights. He, Galt, object are so preposterous that they have been refused by el last session, and now objected to the mana-cle clauses of the Treaty because they weak-ened our position, and it would be difficult to England, which will probably with traw from the Geneva Conference. Late despatches indicate, that megotiations retrieve it hereafter. He objected because he considered independence better than annexation. (Cheers.) In future if Canada could been entirely broken off. Congress have the mat-not be connected with Britain it should at least ter before them, and whatever they resolve will be
