The structure is to be located on Prince William street opposite the Bank of British North America building, and will cost, together with the other improvements to be made at St. John, in the vicinity of $75,000. CHATHAM, Dec. 10 .- A sad drowning accident occurred here on Saturday afternoon, a son of John H. Lawlor, stonecutter, bein gthe victim. If appears he was skating along in company with a son of George Johnstone (Canada House), a lad about of his own age, when both skated into an air hole. Lawlor disappeared at once, and was never seen again after the cold water of the river closed over him, while Johnstone managed to catch the ice and supported himself until he was rescued in a very gallant manner by Gilbert Perry, who was sailing an ice boat in the vicinity. Perry deserves the greatest praise for his heroic act, and it is rendered more conspicuous by the fact as it is related that this is his third rescue of persons in danger of being drowned. It is considere reasonable that these cases of gal lantry should receive some public re cognition. The boy who was unfortunately drowned was twelve years old, and was a youth of fine parts and above the average in deportment. His mother is dead, and his grandparents and father are inconsolable.

dangerous place in the ice had bee observed the day previous, and it is thought that action by our town authorities to have such places marked in a proper manner would be more commendable than the unnecessary removal of snow from our streets. The body of the unfortunate boy has not yet been recovered, although every effort has been made by a host of kind friends, nor has the body of young Walsh, who was drowned last fall ever been recovered. The "caribou case" has at last been decided, and adversely to the defendant. Comments upon the action of the local government, or rather its maction are frequent. The "faggot voter" case, in which the aid of the government was secured, is cited as a precedent for expected action in this where the offence, if any occurred, was echnical; but Dr. Cox was too independent and high spirited to humble himself to the position of a suppliant, and so the law had to take its course. The "Hansen case" is referred to in sustification of non-interference, Dr. Cox will hardly be offered a sinecure during his holidays which will re-

DIED IN EACH OTHER'S ARMS. Ideal Ending of the Lives of a York Co.,

N. B., Couple in Anaconda, Montana-

A double funeral took place at Anaconda, Montana, Dec. 3rd, when the mortal remains of Thomas Marshall, aged 82. formerly of Hanwell York Co., N. B., and Susan, his wife, aged 71, were borne to their last resting place. The old couple had been married nearly half a century, and since removing from New Brunswick had lived with their son, John Marshall, a well to do contractor. On the night of Nov. 30 the aged couple were found dead in bed, locked in each other's arms. Testimony at the inquest showed that Mr. Marshall had died from old age and natural causes, and that his wife, awakening and finding her partner cold in death, threw her arms about his lifeless body and then passed quietly away. The Anaconda Standard thus describes the funeral:

"Coming down Washington street, the two hearses, one containing the aged husband and father, and the other all that remained of the old partner of his joys and sorrows, moved alongside each other, suggesting the thought that even death was reluctant to separate the aged couple. When the entrance to the church was reached and the caskets removed to the altar railing, a wealth of floral offerings was disclosed, one magnificent piece surmounted by a dove with outstretched wings attracting most attention. The church was nearly filled with friends of the family and those drawn thither by the remarkable and even romantic occurrence.

"Solemn high mass was sung by Father De Siere. His assistants were Father Callahan, deacon; Father Harrirgton, sub-deacon; Father McGlynn, cope bearer; Father McQueeney, master of ceremonies; William McGovern, thurifer bearer; Frank Walker and John Duggan, acolytes. Mrs. Rooney presided at the organ, and Mrs. Donnelly sang two solos, one of them being that sweetest of all funeral songs "Nearer My God to Thee." At the conclusion of the mass the funeral proceeded on its way to the Catholic cemetery, where the last solemn rites were repeated." The pall bearers were: Chas. Mc-Donald, James Berry, James Leyden, Wm. Harrison, Geo. Broderick, J. A Canty, Peter Kelly, C. A. Lindsay John Layton, Jos. Crotter, M. G. Mc-Sherry and P. S. Harrington. The pall-bearers were all Canadians, St. John and the Basin of Minas Ports.

From the standpoint of St. John as a trade distributing centre, the sailing schooner as a freight carrier is almost a thing of the past. To keep abreast of the times steamship connection with Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne all out-ports is an absolute necessity. In old times busiress points on the coast had no communication save with other tide-water places. But railways brought about a new condition of things by rutting the coast places in direct touch with the busy centres in the interior. How to meet this new rivalry is the problem with which such seaports as St. John are DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE now grappling. They have still one advaltage. Water carriage is cheaper than land carriage, and if they can give as regular and reliable service as the railways, they will come out on top. Just now the opportunity presents itself to St. John merchants to not only retain but considerably enlarge their trade with Basin of Minas ports. The Messrs. Elderkin of Fort Greville propose building a steamer for the St. John route, to cost some $20,000, with 1,000 barrels of freight space capacity, and accommodation for 20 first class passengers, provided St. John will take a reasonable share of stock in the steamer.

At a meeting of St. John business men Wednesday puite a sice of the stock was subscribed on the spot, and a committee was appointed to wait on other merchants today and secure the necessary balance. A part from the direct benealt to their individual trade, stock takers are pretty certain to get a fair dividend on the investment. The Basin of Minas trade is a big thing. It covers such thrifty spots as Spencer's Island, Parreboro, Port Greville, Advocate, Windsor, Canning, Wolfville, Kingsport, etc., with all of which St. John needs direct and regular trade connection.

Some day a St. John company will be established for the operation of steamships with those outlying trade points down the bay and along the Nova Scotia coast iwth which trade is now carried on by schooners, and then the merchants will wonder why they had been so long asleep.

WROTE FAMED SONGS. Henry Russell, veteran composer of songs, died in England early this month. Had he lived until Christmas eve he would have been 88 years eld. Now he will endure in memory in the undying words of Cheer, Boys, Cheer, A Life on the Ocean Wave. There's a Good Time Coming Boys, Man the Lifeboat and many others in a list of songs numbering more than 800. By royal decree Cheer, Boys Cheer, is the only air played by the Guards' drum and fife band when a regiment leaves for abroad, and eleven years ago, by order of the British admiralty, A Life on the Ocean Wave was adopted as the special march of the royal OWNS A PET SKUNK

(Cor. Worcester, Mass., Telegram.)
FISKDALE, Dec. 5.—William Tatt of Sturbridge has a curiosity in a pet skunk, which he captured ten days ago in a henhouse.
The little animal was captured in the henery belonging to Fred Brown, who lives on the Charlton road, by Mr. Taft, who entered the henhouse, and, taking the intruder by the tail from one of the hen's rests, put him in a phosphate bag and carried him home and put him in a henyard that is not used for fowls.

This has a board floor and the skunk cannot get out. Mr. Taft then took an empty barrel and put a cover on it and cut a hole in the cover, so he could put a piece of stove pipe in the barrel to make a nest for his pet.

He then ran the stovepipe from the bar-for his pet.

He then ran the stovepipe from the barrel to the henyard and placed something to eat in the barrel, and the very first night the skunk went into the barrel and on the next night he took all the leaves from the henyard and put them in the barrel for his pest. Mr. Taft feeds the skunk every morning and of present feeds the black ning and at present feeds the black and white fellow from his hands. The pet has a big appetite, and when be ing fed, makes a grateful noise, which Taft says is a skunk's way of purring.
