ELMA CENTRE CEMETERY.

As will be seen by advertisement the committee of management of the Elma Cemetery, acting upon the suggestion of THE BEE, have decided to take steps toward repairing and beautifying the resting places of our dead; and accordingly for the nominal sum of thirty cents each the plots will be raised, levelled and otherwise repaired and made attractive. Orders for this work left at Wm. Forrest's furniture emporium, Atwood, will receive prompt attention. We would suggest, however, in addition to this, that the cemetery committee appropriate a portion of the several hundred dollars lying in the treasury toward making gravel walks through the grounds, planting balsams, cedars and other ornamental trees, and the general work of improvement be done at once. Parties specially interested should also contribute to the work, and by the united effort we would have a cemetery becoming a Christian community. Let us thus honor the memory of our dead.

HIS FIRST SPEECH.

Elsewhere will be found a clever speech by James Grieve, M. P. for North Perth, on the binder twine tax. It was his maiden effort, and we must add that it did him and his constituency credit. Some of the county papers, notably the Stratford Times, were prone to condemn and ridicule Mr. Grieve for not having made himself heard in the House earlier in the session. Be it remembered that oftentimes "Silence is golden." To be a voluminous talker or newspaper writer is not essentially evidence of ability, but too frequently crushing evidence of the gross ignorance and lack of sense of the individual. For a member, elected for the first time, to continually "shoot off" on almost every motion that comes up for discussion in the Commons without matured forethought and intimate knowledge of it would be sheer presumption. We think Mr. Grieve is quite capable of representing the intelligent electorate of North Perth on the floor of the House when occasion demands.

It may be your turn next.

Written for THE BEE.
Judge not too harshly, Oh my friend,
Of him, your fellow-man,
But draw the veil of charity
Around him if you can.
He once was called an honest man,
And may be so yet,
For circumstances is no sure proof,
It may be your turn next.

Fainting upon the great highway,
A suffering soul doth lie,
Go staunch his wound, go quench his thirst,
Nor pass him idly by,
God will not brook the swift excuse,
The thoughtless, vain pretext,
A fellow mortal bites the dust,
It may be your turn next.

You hear one day, a single word
Against a person's name;
Oh, tell it not from door to door,
To further hurt his fame.
If you're the man you claim to be,
Remember then the text,
To speak no evil, true or false,
It may be your turn next.

The world is bad enough we own,
And sorely needs more light,
Yet with true love to all may we
Help in the cause of right.
Lift up the sorrowing and the weak,
The soul by care perplexed,
Well knowing that to drink the gall,
It may be your turn next.
