

	PAGE
Construction :—
Early Contracts entered into	28
Progress of Construction	29
Length of Line under Contract	29
Miles of Rails Laid and opened for Traffic	30
The Line between Selkirk and Lake Superior	30
The Question of Cheap Transportation	30
Favorable Gradients Adopted	30
The Features of the Line in British Columbia	30
Rolling Stock :—
Standard types suggested	30a
Steps taken to secure uniformity and efficiency	30a
General Services :—
Water Stations	30b
Engine-houses and Machine Shops	30b
Elevators and Grain Stores	30b
Station-houses and auxiliary buildings	30b
Contracts :—
Nos. 43 to 67 inclusive	30b
Special provision in recent Contracts for Sections	30c
Total Expenditure under Contracts	30d
Estimate of the whole Line	30d
The Pacific Railway Telegraph
Its present condition	30d
Necessity of establishing the telegraph	30e
Different modes of completing the telegraph	30f
Suggested sub-marine extension to Asia	30f
The submarine cables already laid	30g
Telegraphic traffic of the world	30g
Obstacles to sub-marine telegraphy in southern latitudes of the Pacific	30g
Favorable plateau of the North Pacific	30g
Vancouver Island to Japan	30h
Advantages resulting from an Asiatic connection	30i