Breeders' Notes

Have you sent in your order for the sheep you should commence to keep by this time on your farm? Orders close with the secretary, A. W. Bell, Winnipeg, on September 1, and should be received not later than that date.

The association, in the hope of assisting and advising farmers to go more and more into the raising of sheep, at considerable inconvenience to its many members who have gratuitously given their time to the selecting, has purchased in the past four years 2,000 odd sheep.

With wool at 20 cents and hind quarters of lamb retailing at 35 cents per lb., the prospect for the sheep industry in Western Canada for some time to come certainly seems very bright.

WILLOWDALE ABERDEEN-ANGUS

All stock men who have been following the summer fair circuit, and especially those who have leanings towards the breed of beef cattle which have been brought into prominence so much of late by the phenomenal success of a Western breeder at Chicago, will have recognized the outstanding qualities of the Aberdeen-Angus herd, owned by L. McComb, Willowdale Stock Farm, Huxley, Alberta. Just now a carload of the best registered cows and heifers is to be disposed of. These cattle are splendid young breeding animals, all bred to calve from January to May 1, 1915, and all belong to the leading families of the breed. The two well known aged cows "Erina of Clover Lawn" and "Fuzzy Pride," are also for disposal, together with six bull calves, all of which have plenty of quality and size. Fifty good Berkshire sows, April and May farrowings, are also for sale, and since the prices are always reasonable and the quality of the offering indisputable, any farmer who has any intention of obtaining some pure bred stock of the right kind would do well to communicate with Mr. McComb.

OLD BASING JERSEYS

The Guide is in receipt of a very interesting communication from C. A. Julian-Sharman, the owner of the famous Old Basing Herd of Jerseys at Red Deer, Alberta. This herd has been bred along the most up-to-date dairy lines, and ever since 1907 twelve months official tests have been made of several members of the herd. The results of the thirty-six tests conducted shows the age at the beginning of the test, the value of the calf at twelve months, the pounds of milk given, the pounds of fat given, the average test and the pounds of 80 per cent. butter made. The table gives the results of all the cows tested, either good or bad, but this cryptic note is added, "the poor ones are not now on Old Basing Farm." In looking over the table the outstanding performer is the famous "Rosalind of Old Basing," who has a four year record of over 3,369 pounds of 80 per cent. butter. Next to her comes "Victoria of Old Basing," with a twelve months' record of 538.448 pounds of 80 per cent. butter. Other excellent performers might be mentioned, but the most interesting fact of all to notice is the average result of all the tests. It shows the average yearly production per animal to be 7436.81 pounds of milk, testing 4.99 per cent. containing 371.151 pounds of fat, and producing 466.669 pounds of average butter. Nothing perhaps is more telling than actual figures and it will doubtless be surprising to some to learn that out of the thirty-six animals tested all that the owner bought cost $955. It is estimated that the returns for the cream sold in Calgary as "Jersey Cream" and the skim milk fed to the calves would average for each animal about $178.22, and deducting $60 per head for feed this will give a clear profit for $118.22. The owner estimated that the value of the calves from these cows, with the cost of feed deducted, would average 200 dollars each. Hence the average net returns from each cow for a twelve months test would be $318.22. Certainly it would not be possible for anyone to start in and make similar profits immediately. These results were only obtained after careful attention to the principles of dairying, but it is worth a farmer's while to consider the results which can be obtained with a dairy herd and to make up his mind as to whether the system which he is at present following can be developed to give as profitable returns as have been obtained by the owner of the Jersey herd at Old Basing Farm.
