THE EXHIBITION.

Despite the unfavorable weather of the first days of the exhibition, the show was well arranged and everything was carefully carried out. Each department was well represented with the exception of that for cattle, in which the showing was weak. The attendance was good, all parts of the province, especially the cities, sending a full quota, while Nova Scotia, P E Island grounds where they disbanded. They and Maine added materially to the crowd were led by a band and made a good dis-

The effects of the show must be far reaching. Farmers from all parts were present, exchanged views, formed acquaintances or renewed friendship, saw what their brother farmers had done in agriculture or stock raising, and are better

The president, J A Campbell and secretary Murray, upon whose shoulders the burden of the exhibition fell, must feel somewhat elated at the result which has attended their labors. Credit is due to the very efficient committees who looked after the minor details of the show, and with ready tact and skill performed their work with a just regard to all.

PRINCE WILLIAM RAILWAY.

The proposed scheme for a railway between this city and Woodstock, on the western side of the river, known as the Prince William railway, is to all appearances as dead as a clam. Now that election rumours are rife, it is probable that the scheme will be again brought to the surface, but it will not be pleasant for the man who talks railway to the people of the upper parishes. They have been humbugged so often that they will accept nothing now but the actual rush and roar of the train. Although Southampton, Dumfries, Queensbury and Prince William are largely farming communities, yet there were very few exhibits from them. On asking the reason, the reply was that exhibits could not be got here except by towboat and they did not care to allow anything valuable to go by that means of transit. It is time these people had some manner of communication with the outside world. It would be a benefit to this city and to Woodstock as well. There is no good reason why the railway should not be built. The statement is advanced that a road would not pay, but this is true of every road in the province.

SILVER QUESTION.

The silver question which is at presen the scapegoat for all the ills of humanity, is slowly dragging through the United J Thorburn, 4; George B Smith, 5. States senate, but it is believed that repeal is certain. President Cleveland has declared that he will accept nothing but unconditional repeal. No date has as yet been fixed for a final vote, although the senate has been asked to name a day. Both parties are busily at work securing votes, and longer sessions are called for by the repealers so that the question may be settled at an early day, and a vote is looked for about the first of October. Whether the change will bring a feeling of security to the many mercantile firms who are at present laboring under much fear and difficulty it is hard to determine, but a change cannot be worse than the present order of things. Since the discussion on repeal began with a prospect for its consu mation, the feeling has become general throughout the world that the lowest depth has been reached, and a revival in all lines of commerce and trade has begun. Many of the closed down factories have started again, most of them with a reduced number of employes or a cut down in wages, but even this is better than having the multitude of wage earners idle and living on charity, as was the case for some weeks in Chicago and other large cities. It is believed that so far as Canada is concerned the worst is over, and that no dire after effects will be felt.

AFTER years of suspense the mantle of lieut. governor Tilley has fallen upon the shoulders of the hon. Senator Boyd of St. John, and yesterday morning Mr. Boyd was sworn in as lieutenant governor of New Brunswick. Mr. Boyd was asked if Aitken, 2. he would prefer to wait and be sworn in by Lord Aberdeen, but he preferred the ministrations of the clerk of the privy Graham, 2. council. Governor Boyd should fill th office with credit to himself and honor to John A Campbell, 2. the province. He is now in his sixtyseventh year, and has been a senator for the past thirteen years. He is a man widely known, having been before the public, more or less, for forty years. No appointment could be made that would have been better received here than this, and governor Boyd will receive a hearty welcome to the capital at any time.

It is evident that the conservatives are determined to stick to their old policy of protection. Sir John Thompson, in his speech at the Montreal banquet, said that whether the present policy was popular or not, the government would adhere to the policy of protection, and that it would be a feature of the tariff so long as he and his party could keep it there. This has no uncertain sound. It is better to put the matter fairly. It is plain from this that Goodspeed. 2. the next election is to be run on the same old basis, the conservatives for protection ent, 1. and the liberals for the best interests of the people.

The Attendance The attendance at the exhibition was arge. All the hotels were full on Tuesday, with constant additions during the day. On Wednesday the train from Chatham brought in about five hundred excursionists while that from Woodstock by the Gibson branch brought as many more. At the race track when the runners were sent off it was the general opinion that fully one thousand people were present, most of them of the rner sex, as the weather was cold at the time and the ladies had taken shelter.
