CLOUDBURST IN THE MOUNTAINS

High Water in Northern Rivers Due to this. Gold Prospectors Return to City

Word has been repeatedly received rom travellers in the north of the tremendous floods in the tributaries of the Athabasca, and in the Athabasca itself, during the month of July. Prospectors have been in danger of losing their lives in crossing the streams, survey parties have been camped for days on the banks of rushing torrents unable to cross, and at east two voyagers on the Athabasca have lost their lives on account of the mad rush of waters. An explanation for this has been offered by Wm. F. Kaeche and Harry Sommer, gold prospectors in the Yellowhead district, who have returned to Edmonton after an absence of several months. They say that or the night of July 7th an extraordinary cloudburst was general all through the mountains. The rain melted all the snow on the mountain sides and transformed the little streams raging rivers; which it was impossib at times to cross. The prospect

> > TOWN DEPENDS ON MINE Strike May Result in Springhill De-

ing Killed. Montreal, Aug. 11 .- "All quiet at Springhil," was the report received to lay by Mr. H. R. Drummond, presient of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company. "The company is going ahead makng arrangements for a long shutdown," he continued. "Our staff is quite complete, and, barring intimilation, which has not appeared so far, the mines have been kept clear of water, so that there is no danger in hat regard. However, there is, no doubt that the strike has imperilled Montreal, August 11.—When asked for Mr. Gwilt, who accompanied the whole duture of the town of them. Both Mackay's parents are Springhill, which is dependent upon the coal industry. We have made no plans in regard to shutting down any particular shaft permanently; quesions of that nature will have to decided as they arrive, and all will depend upon the length of the strike.
