Do you know of any unusual way in which a woman can earn, either all her bread and butter or just a little butter to go with the bread which she may already be supplied?

If you do, please send the good word along, so that some little sister who has not yet found her niche in the world's work may profit by it.

That there is no need for the tremendous overcrowding of a few professions by women and the consequent lowering of wages, is a burning belief with me, and therefore I occasionally devote this column to fitments as to unusual occupations in which women have been successful.

Surely in all your acquaintances there is some woman who has found happiness and profit in some unusual occupation.

Then let me know about it. Flower-growing is an occupation which is attracting more women year after year. Those who think that simply a love of flowers is sufficient stock in trade for that business, are finding "in school of tribulation the folly of their expectations." But many women who realize that a good business head and indefatigable energy are also necessary, are making great successes as florists. Three women in a small town in New York, who are making a very good living growing carnations chiefly and other flowers as a side issue, tell me of earning very much better money than their school teacher and stenographer friends. "I once knew a lady who made a very nice sum of money by taking care of large private libraries," writes one of my correspondents. "Her work was placing books in their correct order and dusting them and their cases at regular intervals—say once a month. She also took care of bric-a-brac and fine articles that could not be left to servants."

That reminds me of a sign which I myself recently saw hanging in an employment bureau. I do not remember the exact wording but the sense was an announcement that the woman who name was signed would clean jewelry and silverware at the owner's house. The names of several of the best known women in the city were given as references. It seems to me that such an undertaking should be a great success. I know many women who dislike to allow their diamonds to go out of their homes for cleaning at a regular jeweler's because of their fear of substitution.

"What is greatly needed," another correspondent writes, "is a companion for the many elderly ladies who for a variety of reasons although well provided with money, are more or less alone in the world. A woman who would make a business of visiting and amusing these people, and at times accompanying them to places of amusement, ought to make a good living."

Personally, I have never heard of anyone engaged in just such a business but I present it as a suggestion which some reader who is of the cheerful and lively disposition requisite for such an occupation, might work out.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifles with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y., and the advice received will be well.

Household Notes.

A little grated cheese improves chicken soup.

If a wire clothesline is used, it should be painted.

Bolled meat should always be left in its own liquor to cool.

If lemons are peeled before squeezing, more juice may be had.

Seeded raisins cut in half, will help an apple and put salad.

In making a French dressing, use twice as much oil as vinegar.

Putting vegetables to cook in too hot water destroys their flavor.

A bay leaf added to a plain tomato soup will give it a pleasant flavor.

Iron napkins first on the wrong side and then on the right, until perfectly dry.

Chamois leather should frequently be washed if silver is to be kept bright with it.

Rubbing spirits of camphor on the lips morning and night will give relief from cold sores.

Laces, embroideries and all kinds of braided work are best ironed over a Turkish towel.

When frying mush dip the slices first in white of egg. This will make the mush crisp.

Snap fasteners cut from old gloves may be successfully applied to the flackets of skirts.

If the bottom of a kettle is slightly greased in making custards, the mixture will not stick.

A waxed floor should never be washed with soap and water except just before re-waxing.

Avoid use of strong soaps and soap powders in washing fine china on which there is gilt decoration.

Silk handkerchiefs should be washed in clear water with pure castile soap to make them look like new.

Hot chocolate, unsweetened wafers and crystallized prunes form a dainty course for luncheon or supper.

Always line a cake pan with medium weight yellow paper. Grease the paper, not the pan, except the edges.

Leather-covered furniture can be cleaned with pure milk rubbed on with a piece of flannel. Rub gently until dry.

Pots and pans to which foodstuffs cling will soak much more effectively if filled with cold water than if hot is used.

If silk ties or waists are wanted stiff, iron them while quite damp; if they are wanted soft and silky, iron when almost dry.

Revealed Heroism in Sleep.

A boy talking in his sleep has led to his being rewarded by the presentation of a testimonial from the Royal Humane Society. Some boys were bathing in Portmadoc Harbor, Eng., and 12-year-old David Evans was carried into a whirlpool eight feet deep near the harbor flood gates. Teddy Williams, who is only 13, swam to his rescue, and, after a hard fight, brought him ashore. The boys resolved to say nothing about the incident. The secret, however, leaked out through Evans, who had not missed school for eight years and had received a silver watch for regular attendance, being too unwell next day to attend school, and through Williams waking up, shouting, "A rope, a rope, to save David."

Keir-Hardie Openly Preaches Revolution.

Brussels, Oct. 10.—Revolution was openly preached to the Egyptian Nationalists by Mr. Keir Hardie, Socialist member of the British House of Commons.

Mr. Keir Hardie is extremely fond of preaching revolutionary doctrines to the various peoples who live under British Government, but it is seldom that he is quite so outspoken, as he was yesterday. For three days he has listened to much seditious talk from the Egyptian members of the National congress. His own chance came yesterday, and he evidently thought that as a member of the British House of Commons it was his duty to put the sedition of the native speakers in the shade. In this he succeeded.

"People ask me why I support the Egyptian Nationalists," he shouted. "It is because England who, have a sense of honour share these views. Mr. Gladstone's and Lord Salisbury's pledges about evacuation must be respected."

"LONG LIVE EGYPT!" "Sir Edward Grey, Mr. Roosevelt, and Mr. Balfour are a powerful triumvirate, speaking for finance. We speak for humanity. Egypt must be freed, but this can be done by neutralisation."

"I am not concerned with the means, only with the ends. Your movement must be revolutionary. Formerly you waited for evacuation, but Sir Edward Grey says no evacuation must change with the situation."

"Fight for a national system of education. Do not be sectarians. Do not cry, 'Long live Islam!' but 'Long live Egypt!'"

"Be concerned with your army; you will need it. Show you are ready for self government. Be united and strong."

Mr. Keir Hardie explained that he attended the congress to show that after the French interdiction all friends of the Nationalists should flock together.

"The interdiction violates all generous French traditions," he declared. "The friends of liberty in France regret it as showing that the idea of liberty has a tendency to disappear before the invasion of finance and capitalism."

"But do not lose courage," he concluded. "The young Egyptians will one day see the statues of Mustafa Kamel and Farid Bey in the streets of Cairo."

All Bey Jahmy Kamel, brother of the late Mustafa Kamel, in a long speech pictured the condition of Keir-Hardie Openly Preaches Revolution.

Egypt under British rule, summing it up by declaring that "in every domain British rule has been infamous and unjust."

RESOLUTION ADOPTED. Six resolutions were proposed and carried unanimously. They were as follows:

The occupation of Egypt by Great Britain being illegal, evacuation must take place immediately.

The Constitution must be restored. The Press Law must be abolished.

The Deportation Law must be abrogated.

Control over the Debt must be maintained so long as Egypt is the debtor of Europe.

The treaty of 1898 between the Khedive and Great Britain regarding the partition of the Sudan is void.
