The answer was that these districts have decided by majorities in favor of the present Government, but so far as St. John's West was concerned, the majority had not decided, and it was to give the people a chance to it was to give the people a chance to ed, the majority had not decided, and it was to give the people a chance to decide that a contest would be held. So far as the Opposition was concerned, it was proposed to stand by the Labor Party's candidate, Mr. Linegar, on the floors of the Assembly, and he would pledge himself to-night publicly to that end, and as the campaign progressed every member of his party would individually do likewise. Sir Michael also dealt with the housing problem and other matters affecting the workingmen, and contended that an easy solution of these matters was possible. But from a Government hostile to St. John's and its interests, very little could be forthcoming. If in the coming contest, Labor wanted to be represented on the floors of the As-
