

The Madrigal Singers
GIVE SPLENDID PERFORMANCE.

Practically every seat in the Synod Hall was occupied last night and the audience included His Excellency the Governor and Suite, but had it been known before hand that such a rare treat was to have been provided, the hall would have been much too small to accommodate those seeking admission.

The Madrigal Singers made their first appearance under the direction of Harry B. Wardell, and the evident pleasure of the audience must have, in some measure, repaid him for the trouble that must have been taken to prepare such a splendid entertainment. The songs and music were entirely English, some of the selections dating as far back as 1562, and all composed by famous musicians.

The programme opened with a chorus by the Madrigals, entitled "Strike the Love," composed by Cooke, which gave the performance a fitting send off. Miss Doris Withers is a familiar figure on the concert platform and is always well received. Her songs were rendered in a manner worthy of her reputation. They were "O Ravishing Light," Arne, 1710-1778; "Weep You No More Sad Fountains," Dowland, 1562-1636; "Nymphs and Shepherds," Purcell, 1658-1695.

A musical quartette, consisting of Mrs. B. Dunfield and F. W. Bradshaw, violins; B. Mayers, violin cello; and H. B. Wardell, piano, rendered "The Golden Sonata" by Purcell. The name already made by these performers is sufficient to warrant the excellence of this number. The next item was by the Madrigals, entitled, "The Silver Swan," Gibbons, 1583-1625. Sixteen years ago F. J. King gave his first song recital in this city, and during all these years he has given generously of his talent. His first number last night was the song cycle "Lords of the Sea" by Wallace. This was amongst those sung by him in his first recital, and it is probable that last night's will be his last appearance in the city as he purposes leaving the country very shortly for New York. He followed with "The Adventurer," "Sea Hawks," "Nest Thee My Bird," and "The Swordsman," all of which were excellently rendered. "Cavalry Arise" by Wood and "Full Pathom Fire" by Stanford were then rendered by the Madrigals.

The next item was a novel one indeed, inasmuch as there were gathered here a number of the city's noted musicians, most of them appearing in roles new to the public. The item was entitled Toy Symphony, by Gurlitt, the numbers being "Allegro and Fuoco," "Scherzo" and "Rondo." The performers were: piano, Mr. King; drums, Mr. Christian; trumpet, Mr. Hutton; triangle, Mr. Wardell; quills, Mr. Mews, Mr. Strling; cuckoos, Mr. Clapham, Mr. Lloyd; nightingales, Miss Ryan, Miss Tait; violin, Mr. Bradshaw; cello, Mr. Mayers. This item was a feature that was of itself sufficient to warrant the success of the performance. The Madrigals followed in a part song "The Goshings," by Bridge, and the last item was "The Passing Show" by Herbert Oliver in which the performers were Misses Doris Withers and Janet Anderson; Messrs. S. R. Steele and F. J. King. This included solo, duets, and quartettes, all of which were received in such a way as to show the delight of the audience.

A noteworthy feature of the singing of the Madrigals was that it was unaccompanied, thus departing from the usual course in vogue here. The concert was most delightful throughout, and Mr. Wardell is to be congratulated on setting a new role in musical entertainments.

Hamilton Story is Fine Picture

"ANOTHER SCANDAL" STARRING LOIS WILSON, HAS NEW ANGLE ON MARRIAGE.

Adrian DaSilva, the popular Tenor delighted his audience last night by his beautiful renditions of (a) "Aria" from Pagliacci; (b) "I Hear You Calling me." His songs quite captivated his hearers and the enthusiastic applause tendered him clearly showed the appreciation of the audience.

"Another Scandal," starring Lois Wilson, which opened at the Nickel Theatre yesterday, is a fine screen treatment of Cosmo Hamilton's great novel of the same name.

It is a story of marriage and brings out the fact that a girl may be a wife and a mother and still not have outgrown her "girl stuff"—and that the average man doesn't understand this a bit.

When Beatrix Pelham had a temperamental spree and sent her husband away from her, May Beamish stood waiting to take advantage of the rift in the lute. Any man would fall for May—provided that he was the "falling" kind, which is exactly what Pelham wasn't. Nevertheless, it took a good deal to squelch "our sweet friend, May," and she very nearly succeeded in making an ideal marriage and in disaster.

The picture is an engrossing one because it is so human and is so excellently acted. Lois Wilson as the wife, Holmes Herbert as the husband, Ralph Tucker as his friend, and Flora

Newfoundlanders at Dalhousie

Newfoundland students have always had a high reputation at this University, and this year a perusal of the final pass lists have more than a passing interest for our readers. Our students are represented in every faculty and the lists show that they have distinguished themselves in all of them.

In medicine Dr. S. P. Young of Curling graduates and is the most distinguished student of his year, and gains the University Medal in Medicine, the blue ribbon of the faculty. Dr. Young's success was expected by all who have followed his university career, and it will be remembered that last year he also led his class.

Dr. Roberts Bond also graduates, completing two excellent courses in Arts and Medicine. She is the daughter of the Rev. Dr. Bond and niece of Sir Robert Bond, and deserves congratulations on her success.

Another Newfoundland, Loughlan Macpherson, should have been one of the medical graduates but had a breakdown in health in the middle of his year's work and was unable to finish. All his fellow students sincerely sympathize with him at his disappointment and hope for his speedy recovery.

In this faculty Ray Bennett completes his fourth year most satisfactorily, having passed in all his subjects, and Leonard Miller has done well.

The Law Faculty has another Newfoundland as the most distinguished graduate of the year—Ray Guinan, who is first in nearly all his classes, is the winner of the University Medal and the Carswell Prize. Mr. Guinan has had a really distinguished course and with such intellectual gifts he should go far.

P. J. Lewis of Holyrood, a second year student in this faculty, has distinctions in most of his subjects, while A. J. Walsh of the same place seems to have first place in most of his professional course in the Arts Classes.

In Commerce, S. Sheffman finishes his course with marked success and is now a B. Comm. In Science, Wm. Cane of St. John's gains his B.Sc., and Dan Meaney has his Diploma in Engineering.

Anna Wilson in her second year of the same course passes highly in all her subjects with distinctions in two classes, French and Chemistry. The Arts students have also kept up the reputation of their country.

Hazel Garcia of Curling gains her B.A., while the names of Gladys Blackall, Marie Eriksen, Jack Harrington, Chas. Johnson and Arthur Jubien show well up in the lists of second year students, and the two Giovanettis from Trepassy also appear in the lists.

The reports of the other universities are not to hand, but George Roberts, son of Dr. Roberts, has passed well in all his subjects in the second year of his engineering course at Toronto University, and George Power of Grand Falls a Jubilee Scholar, has done well in his second year in Arts in the same University.

Ralph Stick has also completed his course in dentistry and graduates this year.

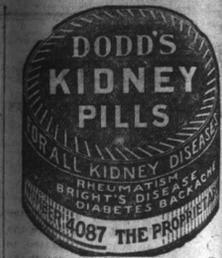

James Balleny, of Grand Falls, has won his B.Sc. in Electrical Engineering at McGill after an unusually brilliant course. For the past two years he has been second in his class, but the only information reaching here this year was of his graduation.

This is all the information the Telegram has of the Newfoundland students this year, but if marked copies of the pass lists to the different universities are sent to this office the Telegram will be very pleased to publish particulars.
