HAUNTED CASTLE.

Hargrave took up a portfolio which lay near, remarking as he did so, 'I was taking a sketch of yonder mansion, and heading not the bellowing of the bull, when your screams startled me. In a moment Dash bounded over the stile and I followed.'

'Ah, what a beautiful picture of the mansion,' cried Mary, as she got a glimpse of the open portfolio. 'How correct, and how finely you have caught the glory of the summer evening—the golden sunlight in the woods, and the desolation that lies upon the building.'

'I am glad you like it,' said Hargrave. 'I was much struck with the pensive beauty of the place, and did my best to portray it.'

'And with perfect success,' said Mary gazing on the drawing with eager admiration. 'Do you know I feel a mournful pleasure in rambling in the vicinity of the deserted mansion, and view with a regretful pity its wasted beauty and idle grandeur.'

'I have looked on it with feelings not less mournful and sad,' sighed Hargrave. 'It seems to have been overtaken by untimely ruin. And yet how easily it could be restored, for wilful neglect rather than the ravages of time, have made it what it is.'

'It is but emblem of the entire estate,' rejoined Mary. 'Once it was the fairest and most flourishing spot in all the valley. Now, it is a place of wretchedness and misery.'

'Its owner resides in Scotland, I am told,' observed the youth. 'Surely his culpability is great in leaving the inheritance of his fathers to be wasted, and the tenants oppressed.'

'His conduct is to be regarded more with regret than blame,' returned Mary. 'Born in Scotland and brought up among his mother's relatives, it cannot be expected that he should feel any affectionate interest for the land of his fathers, or the place which yields him his income; and still less is it to be expected that he should come to live in that mansion and restore it to its beauty and its life. The place seems to be the subject of a sad but inevitable fate.'

Hargrave sighed again, and was silent; just then a long shadow fell upon the grass, and looking up, they beheld Jacob O'Brady standing close beside them. His dark eye glared angrily on the youth, and a scowl rested on his heavy countenance.

CHAPTER X.—HARGRAVE FALLS IN LOVE WITH MARY KENDAL, AND INCURS THE ENMITY OF MALVRIN BLANTIRE.

'Is that your dog?' demanded the factor, in a rude insolent tone.

'It is,' answered Hargrave.

'And are you aware, sir, that it has torn and injured my bull?'

'Is the bull going at large in that park yours?' asked the youth.

'Of course it's mine—whose should it be?'

'And are you aware, sir, that but for my dog, your bull would have gored this lady. Why do you allow such a dangerous animal to go about unrestrained?'

'By the powers, but that is cool impudence too,' said the factor, opening his heavy eyes to the utmost. 'Nobody has a right to go where the bull is, and if they do they must take the consequences. Your dog shall be shot, sir; and you must pay the damage he has done to the animal.'

'Oh, no no! Mr. O'Brady,' exclaimed Mary, 'this brave and noble dog saved my life; you would not kill him for that. Whatever damage has been done I will pay for it.'

'Will you, indeed, Miss Kendal?' said O'Brady quite blandly. 'Well, that's exceedingly handsome of you, and just like one of your name and breeding; only I would just take the liberty to hint that it's not for the likes of you to be sitting on a retired bank with a wandering artist fellow, whom—'

'Sir—Mr. O'Brady!' cried Mary, in great indignation; this gentleman rescued me from death.'

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE!
WILL RE-ASSEMBLE ON
Tuesday, September 3,
At 9 o'clock, a.m.,

WHEN all the pupils, resident and non-resident, are particularly requested to be present. On Monday, September 2nd, new pupils will be enrolled, and those who failed to pass the midsummer examination, will be re-examined between 1 and 4 o'clock.

Additional facilities are now offered to those pupils who do not desire a high Classical training, to join the English or Modern Departments, in which they are thoroughly prepared for Mercantile pursuits, and for the Civil and Military service.

The fact that during the last five years "old College boys" have carried off three out of every four Scholarships offered at the Matriculation Examinations of the University of Toronto, and a large proportion of those offered at the Trinity College, is a sufficient guarantee that Scholarship has not declined.

Very material changes have been made in the internal arrangements of the boarding house, to increase the comfort and secure the general well-being of the resident pupils.

Every boarder is required to bring with him a certificate of good conduct from the master or tutor under whom he has been previously educated.

Tuition fee, $10 per term; tuition and board, including washing, rest in church, and ordinary medical attendance, $24.

The commencement of next session on September 3rd, is the best time to enter College.

For prospectus apply to the Principal, U. C. College, Toronto.

SOUTH RIDING
OF THE
County of Wellington.
To the Independent Electors of the South Riding of Wellington:
GENTLEMEN,—
The time being close at hand when it will be your duty to elect a representative to the House of Commons of the first Parliament of the new Dominion, we have much pleasure in announcing to you the wish of over four hundred electors of all shades of political opinion, that Frederick William Stone, Esq., of Guelph, should be your choice for that honorable and responsible position.

Mr. Stone, as most of you are aware, is at present absent from Guelph, on a brief visit to the mother country; but previously to his departure, a number of gentlemen having requested him to place them in possession of his views in the event of his nomination for either Legislature, Mr. Stone patriotically authorized his friends to consider his services at the disposal of the Electors.

A resident of the Riding from his youth, Mr. Stone has been for many years known to us as a prosperous merchant and leading agriculturist. In the latter position he occupies a prominent position as one of the largest and most successful importers and breeders of stock in Canada; and to his judicious and persevering efforts, the agricultural interests of Wellington, and especially of the Townships of Guelph and Puslinch, are mainly indebted for the excellence of their stock, and the reputation it justly possesses.

But it is not Mr. Stone's success in trade, or his services in agriculture, which alone commend him to the electors. The committee feel a pride in presenting to all those electors who desire to witness the harmonious working of the new Confederation; a candidate who, if elected, will carry into public life the same sterling honesty of principle and action which has characterized all his private dealings; a man subservient to no political party, indifferent to the intrigues of party leaders; a man ever ready to support all good measures regardless from whom they come; in fine, a man of whom it may with confidence be affirmed that he has no object to serve in public life beyond the good of his adopted country.

Such being the man whom we ask you to unite with us in electing as our representative, we need hardly assure you that the gentlemen who form the present Government of the Confederation will receive from Mr. Stone that fair hearing, to which in common justice an untried administration is entitled, and which the representative of the Sovereign who has called them to his Council would of itself seem to dictate. With this line of action we ask you to contrast the declaration of the other candidate who is before you, that, if elected, he will record a vote of want of confidence in the government before even an outline of their policy is declared.

Follow Electors, we call upon all of you, whether Conservatives or Reformers, who view the actual progress of Canada under the new system as paramount to all mere party considerations, to join with us in returning Mr. Stone. A united and vigorous effort will place the result beyond doubt; and our exertions will be sufficiently rewarded by the knowledge that whatever factions agitate or disconcert politicians may find their way into the Commons, their efforts to undermine the Constitution will derive neither countenance nor support from the representative of the loyal electors of the South Riding of Wellington.

Signed in behalf of the committee appointed at a meeting representing over 400 requisitionists.
