Not Daunted by Signal Defeat of Labor Candidate in the Provincial Election.

It is hardly likely that any meeting of the executive of the London Labor party will be held this week, or at least until after the regular meeting of the party on Friday night next. After several weeks of practical inactivity an effort is being made to get the members of No. 1 branch of the party together for Thursday night, when prospects for future development will be viewed and in all prob ability co-operation with the central political body for the approaching municipal campaign will be definitely considered.

Now that Fair week is over and the municipal election but little more than two months away, it is proposed to enter into the fight with vim and punch Members of the party refuse to accept, they say, the ultimatum from rival political organizations that the recent provincial election in-dicated in a fair measure the collapse of the Labor movement in London.

WELLINGTON ST. WORK DEPENDS ON WEATHER

Plan May Be Made For Wider Sidewalks on West Side of Street.

Whether any real progress will be made with the construction of the new Wellington street pavement this fall is dependant upon the weather. City Engineer W. P. Near says every effort will be made to complete the work before the snow flies, al. go far toward producing a decorathough he does not exactly see "eye to eye" with Mayor Wenige's suggestion to rush the job through to completion regardless of the street railway's attitude. Although company officials have been notified by the city council that it is proposed to complete this work as speedily as possible, they have stated they will not be able to underthe lack of ready money. If the council proceeds with the paving, and leaves the track allowance in the centre, as proposed, the city engineer fears that the condition of the street will be similar to Stanley street, as it was before the company's portion was again paved this summer. Members of the board of works met in special session last night to consider the report from Ald. Greer. Douglass and McKay, who inspected the job in the afternoon. They explained that while the people on that street at first did not care for a wide pavement, wishing to avoid the

REROUTING THE CARS ON OXFORD ST. LINE

Change in Effect To Relieve Congestion on Richmond Street Strip.

During the repairs to Richmond street Oxford cars are being rerouted, in an effort to relieve the congestion along the single track between Cenral avenue and Oxford street.

The new plan, which went into effect yesterday, does away with much of the delay caused by cars piling up waiting to get through this section of the street, as many as eight and nine cars having been held up at one time.

Until 11 a.m., the Cxford cars leave Richmond street at Central avenue, and proceed to Adelaide street. From and proceed to Adelaide street. From 11 a.m. till 1 p.m. the cars reverse. Then they again reverse until 5 p.m. when for two hours they proceed via Oxford, Adelaide and Central avenue, Again in the evening, from 7 to 9 p.m. they travel via Central avenue, Adelaide and Oxford streets, and from 9 to midnight again reverse.

The explanation is that dufing certain hours the citizens in the district served by these cars wish to go downtown, while at other times noticeably noon, early evening and late at night, they wish to travel the other way.

ORCHESTRA PLEASES AT WINTER GARDENS

Tal Henry's Southerners and Lombardo Orchestra Provide Musical Treat.

The popular Lombardo Winter Garden Orchestra was augmented last night very successfully by Tal Henry's Southerners Orchestra, forming the first of a series of special musical treats which are to be arranged for the coming winter sea-

Patrons of the Winter Garden express themselves as more than delighted with the excellence of last night's performance. There were crowds of non-dancers attracted there by the novelty and variety of the program offered, and apart from its fascinating rhythm as dance music, the two orchestras playing in conjunction were first-class entertainment.

With the two orchestras playing intermittently from nine o'clock until one this morning, many new introducing fascinating and jazzy fox-trots and lively one-steps unique and novel were heard for the first time in London.

One of the latest features contained in the Winter Garden is the

"sounding-board" surrounding the OXFORD STREET PAVING the music does not seem crowded as it did in other years and it can be GAINS ONE SUPPORTER Here's an example of aldermanic heard very plainly in all parts of the building. Specially for the occasion a plat form was built to accommodate the visiting orchestra so that when one had completed its selection there was no need to change seats or other-wise cause any time to be lost.

The management stated that they are anxious to please their patrons, and introducing this orchestra from Washington was one of the ways that they intend to carry out their program. During the coming months many novel and entertaining features will be brought to the Winter Garden by the management and some thing new in the way of treats is in store for its patrons.

Drawing for the peanut tube radio set, donated by the Northern Elec-tric Company at the Western Fair, was carried out and the lucky stub, No. 1236, owned by Orville Hunt, of Glanworth, was drawn from the container by Guy Lombardo. perseverance.

The Oxford stret paving proposal has claimed the attention of the city council for days and days. Rate-payers petitioned against the job, and then changed their minds. Charges and counter-charges of misrepresen-tation were hurled at one another. The council conveniently referred the question from one meeting to another and there seemed endless delay.

Finally Ald. John Greer concluded just how the people on that street viewed the proposition, and he sent letters to more than a score of them, asking their opinion. As he expected, all did not seem sufficiently interested to even acknowledge his communication.

sult that Ald. Greer rose at last night's council session to explain that mind about the Oxford street pavement. He would change a negative vote to the affirmative. And he did. And/Oxford street is not in Ward, where Ald, Greer lives.
