Mr. Edwin Cleary, manager of the French Pantomina Co., which is to play the "Prodigal Son" at the Grand Opera House next Monday night, is not a stranger to Canada. He was at one time a student at Upper Canada College, and his father, W. W. Cleary of Kentucky, was private secretary to the late Jefferson Davis while the latter was President of the Confederate States of America. The elder Cleary came to Canada.

The elder Cleary came to Canada at the close of the Civil War and lived in Toronto from '65 to '69. He was a warm friend of the late Archbishop Lynch and assisted in building the present Loretto Abbey. The son became a theatrical manager and actor and accompanied Salvini. Booth, Modjeska, Neilson and other great stars over the Umted States. He subsequently took up his residence in London and during the last few years has managed sevaral opera companies in successful tours through South America, where he has experienced all the discomforts attending shipwrecks and civil wars and has been rewarded with all the honors, emoluments and friendships which invariably chase and capture an operatic manager. Returning to Europe he obtained control of the "Prodigal Son" company, now making its first American tour.

Jacobs & Sparrow's Opera House, "Ole Olson" comes to Jacobs & Sparrow's next week, beginning Mouday night. Since here last it has nad a thorough revising by Mr. James A. Hearne, so well known in the spectfully requested for dramatic world as the author of such highly successful dramas as "Hearts of Oak," "Margaret Fleming," "Drifting Apart," "Shore Acres," etc. The changes in "Ole Oison" makes the play as strong in its sensational features as it has been heretofore in comedy.

The greatest alteration, however, occurs in the third act, which has been entirely rewritten, and is now one of the most dramatic scenes ever presented. Comedy is entirely obliterated from the act, it being the opinion of Mr. Hearne that with so much high class comedy in the other acts the play would be much Detter balanced in its new form, and he is undoubtedly correct.

This is how The Witness spoke of him: "In technique, phrasing and artistic conception, the playing of Mr. Marteau was pronounced a fluished performance, and comparisons made with noted artists previously heard here were in no way invidious to him, The brilliant artist did not spare himself in encores, and still it seemed that the audience could not consent to part with him."

It is an absorbing play of life in the Green Isle without any of the rattic-trap stuff that once passed for realism in Irish plays. The plot is a strong one and the story very interesting, and there is much to pleasantly illustrate life in the play. Mr. Power's company contains the talented young actor, Smith O'Brien, who has many friends in this city. A good week's business may be expected with "The Ivy Leaf."

"Antigone." "Antigone," the great play by Sophocles, will be produced by the University students in the third week of February.
