

June 22, 1931.

Professor Francis E. Lloyd,
Care Bank of Montreal,
Waterloo Place,
London, England.

Dear Professor Lloyd,

I am now enclosing money order for £12.16.2, being for $62.50 balance to you from the Royal Society in connection with attending the Centenary Meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in London in September.

The Royal Society have asked us to obtain from you a receipt for the full amount of $182.50, and I am therefore enclosing a form. Will you kindly sign this and return to me?

With best wishes,

I am,

Yours faithfully,

Secretary to the Principal.