PERRY HASWELL GETS CROSSING RECEPTION

LONG UNUSUAL BUT PLEASING RECEPTION

Singing Irish Comedian, in "Macushla" at the Princess.

Added to Long List of Successes.

"Macushla" is one of those characteristic romantic Irish plays, Irish characters, Irish scenery, Irish costumes and a little Irish music. The story is light. As the plot develops some interesting situations are presented, but the tension never becomes severe. The plot deals with the old-time horse race and somehow the feeling is that the hero's horse simply can't lose. This was the case in the play in which Chauncey Olcott starred at the Princess last night. Mr. Olcott rendered a number of pleasing Irish melodies. A pretty little love story is interwoven with the plot, and these features with a number of interesting character sketches prove a rather happy combination of entertainment.

The story concerns the fortunes of a young Irish nobleman, who had somewhat unexpectedly come into a title, which bore a noble name, but had no material assets. His circumstances became so embarrassing that in order to recruit his finances he devised the scheme of entering the remnants of his stables, "Macushla," a horse whose prowess is unknown to the outside world, into the great national steeplechase. His chief creditor, an English nobleman of the land-greedy class, is his chief competitor for the trophy. In the course of time the Englishman learns that his opponent's horse is a "sure thing" and he immediately sets out to dope the animal—the same old story. After making several unsuccessful attempts he apparently accomplishes his purpose on the very day that the race is to be run. But in the final scene his designs are learned and frustrated. "Macushla" wins the race and replenishes the fortune of the Irish nobleman's estate.

Chauncey Olcott as Brian Fitzgerald, the Irish nobleman, was excellent as the dashing young squire. Katherine Ferguson as Patricia Boyer, the heiress of his boyhood days, had all the vivacity of the character she demanded; Robert Ferguson, as Sandy McNabb, a crabbled old Scotchman, was the chief mirth-provoker, but he was ably assisted by Jenn's Lamont as Mrs. Boyer; Charles Wellman as Warren Fairchild, an English nobleman, ably portrayed an insidious villain. The supporting cast was good.

In the audience were the members of the Toronto Baseball Club, who were guests of Mr. Olcott.

Witty Dialog

"Lady Frederick" is a three-act comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, who is favorably known as a writer of ingeniously constructed and clever plays. The dialog is witty and occasionally brilliant, and the theme, though indeed is essential to success. Lady Frederick is a beautiful widow, dreadfully in debt, who, when the comedy opens, is being wooed by Lord Mereston, 15 years her junior and enjoying $50,000 a year. His mother in despair appeals to her brother, himself an old flame of the charming widow, to come to the rescue. Lady Frederick's brother is also in trouble over a debt of honor contracted to the son of a money-lender anxious to get a footing in society by marrying her, and not in the least scrupulous regarding the means of accomplishing his purpose. But for all her financial propensities, Lady Frederick is sound at heart. She favors her brother's scheme, rescues him from his debt, distinguishes her juvenile admirer by revealing the secrets of her coffers, and at last is rewarded by the fidelity of her faithful lover. This is developed in a series of episodes which afford Miss Haswell many openings for delightful art.

One of Her Best

She acted the role to perfection and the audience followed with close interest the story of the comedy and the fortunes of the heroine. Miss Haswell's versatility, quick transitions of mood and temper and capacity to express the deeper emotions, all found ample scope in the role of Lady Frederick, and it will be held as one of her best interpretations. Miss Oden was excellent in the important role of Rose Carlisle and Miss Teresa Dale acted admirably the part of Lady Mereston. Miss Karra Kennedy gave a clever characterization of Lady Frederick's dressmaker.

In Earl Browne, Miss Haswell has secured a leading man of marked ability and fine clowning power. His rendering of the role of Partridge Foulde deserves high praise for its refined quality. Sumner Gardie's Lord Mereston was also a thorough good realization, and Regan Hughton and Jas. T. Galloway were very satisfactory in the parts of Sir Gerald O'Mara and Admiral Carlisle. Captain Montgomerie, the ambitious and unscrupulous squire, Kennedy. The comedy was finely staged and the minor roles were all competently filled. Laughter and applause were frequent and ever-lasting on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. There are some fine plays to be offered during the week, with matinees.

At the Strand.

Pictures of Western Life.

A wide range of subjects are shown on the films at the Strand Theatre this week. One of the best photo plays of the season is that depicting the devotion of a dog to his master, western timber. The miner discovers a rich gold claim, which is jumped by two others, who are thwarted by the sagacity of the faithful dog. Also shown are some excellent depictions of coarser life in London. There are some fine news of military camps and the big Hartford fire.

Miss Dorothy Stone and Miss Margaret Cunningham render several popular songs, and the Strand orchestra adds to the musical program.

At the Grand.

"The Deep Purple"

To handle the subject which Paul Armstrong has embodied in his famous stage production of "The Deep Purple," requires a cast of exceptional ability. In the presentation of the play at the Grand last night, one of the features of the production was the artistic manner in which the various characters were portrayed and the intelligent conception of the roles.

The story is founded upon the elopement of a young girl with a man who has a police record. She goes to New York with him and is given to understand that in order to bring about a tidy marriage, she must assist in the furtherance of a little scheme to win over certain opposition. Ignorant of the fact that she is lending the charm of her unsophisticated youth and beauty to the development of a "badger scheme," which is being interpreted simply the alluring of an unsuspecting stranger with money into a trap where he must pay to save his reputation, she aids the plotters. The young man in question is protected by a reformer, in whose house the girl has stopped for a day. The reforming engineer is the man selected for the "badger game" and forewarned and prepared, he turns the tables on his would-be captors and takes the girl home to his mother. He then investigates the girl's story and notifies the police, with the result that the operators of the "badger game" are arrested and given long terms in prison. The love story is interesting, ending with the young engineer marrying the country girl.

Mrs. Dalton, a charming little actress, presents the character of the country girl, and plays the part in such an artistic manner that one becomes interested in her future. Miss Lella Shaw as "Kate Fallon," the reformer, has a role that gains the sympathy of the audience. She has one every night in the character, never overacts the part—and is at all times captivating even in the most trying scenes. The cast which is a good one and deserving of a liberal patronage all week.

Besides the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees, a special holiday matinee will be given on Friday, Victoria Day.

At the Strand.

Clever Burlesque Sketch.

Bill Spencer, known to Toronto theatergoers as "Frogan," is here again at the Strand Theatre. Spencer is a show in himself, even if he does make a show of himself. Murray Simmons, a show of himself, Murray Simmons, but a few over that have never been introduced here before. Then again there is Miss Pearson, who has endeared herself to the patrons during the past weeks with her difficult, but popular songs. The other acts are unusually clever. Miss Charlotte, the singing comedienne, renders the latest catchy songs with a swing new in its character. The other acts are equally good. Joe Wilson, Eddie Daly, Miss Dale Wilson and Frank Williams, the Bostonians give a clever olio.

"Made in Canada" Train Visited By Thousands

Was Open to Inspection for Thirteen Hours at Port Arthur—City Council Pay Visit.

PORT ARTHUR, May 20.—(Special.)—Without doubt the stellar attraction of Port Arthur to-day was the "Made in Canada" train, whose exhibits were open for inspection from 10 o'clock in the morning until 11 to-night. Mayor Ray and F. S. Wylie, president of the board of trade, gave official recognition to the special on its arrival, and immediately thereafter the citizens began their tour of inspection.

For three hours this afternoon and four hours to-night by actual count people passed through the various cars at the rate of twenty per minute, or 1200 per hour, making the total number of visitors easily from 12,000 to 15,000 during the thirteen hours the cars were open.

To-night after the council meeting the mayor and council paid their official visit. The train at midnight moved over to Port William, where it will be thronged all day to-morrow.

FINE SHOW AT SCARBORO

Despite unfavorable weather, the patrons of Scarboro Beach yesterday were treated to a fine entertainment that is quite up to mid-season standards. The high diving of Speedy was the feature, and held the crowd breathless from the time he climbed his four-foot pole and pitched himself carelessly for his plunge to the tank for a moment. The Three Escardos gave a remarkable exhibition of acrobatic work, and Lockhart and Leddy contributed the comedy with a gymnastic touch. The 22nd National Guards Band of New York, under the leadership of Lawrence Marx, recalled memories of the days when, at the head of this band, Gilmore triumphantly toured the United States and Canada. It is a remarkable fine musical organization, and those who delight in first-class music, ought not to miss it.
