STEAD THE TRAITOR.
That senile arch-traitor W. T. Stead, is again to the front with a base misrepresentation of England. In a four-column article, which he telegraphed to a New York yellow journal, an account of peace was declared on Sunday, he means maligns his own people—a people that have just concluded the most magnanimously conducted war in the world's history. He endeavors to belittle Great Britain in the eyes of half a million American newspaper readers, and lies when he asserts that the British have destroyed two republics in order to create two states ruled by absolutism from London. Did he admit the truth he would acknowledge that England will establish in South Africa that perfect civil liberty which is known only in the British empire. It is a dirty old bird that persists in fouling its own nest.

The World is not reactionary in its tenets, but we think that wherever in the British empire, whether in England or Canada, liberty of speech and action depends to the lowest degree a curb should be put upon it.

We would advocate the formation in England of an organization to tar and feather such specimens as Stead and the constitution in Ontario of shotgun clubs to cow the ballot box stuffers and burners.

THE RECENT ELECTION.
The editorial in yesterday's Globe about the recent election was a piece of "It is headed, 'Let Us Have Fair Play.' It is to this effect: If there is to be a struggle over the result of the recent election, if there are to be elections, let them be conducted absolutely free of fraud and corruption and supply and demand to the same effect.

Fraud and corruption have taken place, and the fraud-workers and the corruptionists must be exposed. The future keeps pure!

And it is good story for the marines, but the people want the machine and the machineists put out of business forever. The way to realize what the Globe desires is for Mr. Ross to resign. The people have asked him to.

If the Globe wants the public to accept its suggestion let it first tell us what it proposes to do with one Alec Smith, the Liberal organizer, and his band of workers.

FUTURE OF THE REPUBLIC.
In its latest work, "Commencement of Empire," Goldwin Smith exhibits much anxiety as to the future of the United States. He maintains that three forces, Plutocracy, Militarism and Imperialism, are arrayed against its continuance as a democracy, and in favor of its virtual conversion to oligarchy, he is ruled by a plutocratic oligarchy.

Concerning the prevalent military spirit in the United States, he points out the danger that it will lead to the saddling of the nation with a costly standing army, such as those Europe supports.

As to the Imperialistic spirit abroad he prophesies that the domination of the Americans over an inferior race will surely lower the moral and political tone of the nation.

But it is perhaps plutocracy that Mr. Smith most fears, for while it has its allies in Spain and Italy, it is in itself a threatening force, overhanging the democratic horizon.

The professor says in part: "A new force has come upon the scene, that of plutocracy, which, if its power continues to increase, must work a serious change in the spirit of the institutions, that it may be without disturbing the public forms and names. The production of a new and immensely rich continent  have given birth to fortunes unprecedented in their magnitude. There is now an apparent prospect of still further concentration, and the fortunes still more and more, 'That money can command leadership is too well known. Of this every day produces proof.  The influence of money in elections is not disguised. A Senatorship of the United States has been openly bought. To carry a Presidential election, the power of the rich puts a vast fund in skillful hands."

Proceeding along this line Mr. Smith says that it would be an evil day for the community on which supreme power should pass into the hands of accumulated wealth, but that to sell the rich puts a vast fund in skillful hands."

AMERICA TO ENGLAND. Nor does the little court at Ottawa fail to attract American courtiers to its shrine. * * * The craving for aristocracy goes so high that the furniture of a house in an American city, because a Duke has lived in it, fetches extraordinary prices. There is an American 'Burke' containing, we are told, upwards of seven hundred coats of arms of American families.

Whether or not inspired by Prof. Smith's book, a section of the American public and press has taken up a cry against the Senate as a body not directly controlled by the people. Twenty-three states have sent a petition to Congress asking that the Senate be elected by popular vote, and thus partially freed from millionaires and plutocrats.

The Senate, however, refuses to comply with the petition, and it looks as though the power of the plutocratic aristocracy will continue to grow.

ACCORDING TO THE REPORT OF MR. THOMAS SOUTHWORTH, PROVINCIAL DIRECTOR OF FORESTRY, THE POSITION OF AFFAIRS WITH REGARD TO THE PRESERVATION OF OUR TIMBER, WHICH IS SAID TO BE IN A CRITICAL STATE, IS AS FOLLOWS:

The war has revealed in Great Britain weakness, but not weakness. It has proved the military system a failure, her administrators ignorant, her leaders incompetent; but perhaps the most serious result of the war is the soldier against the void strategy of the Boers, might not have fared much better. No other nation could have mustered shipping to place so great an army upon a shore so distant, and to do so successfully for a war of invasion and of conquest.

No one in Britain heeded Kruger's warning, and the world should be ashamed of its stupidity. The world should be ashamed of its stupidity. The world should be ashamed of its stupidity.

STRATHCONA INTERVIEWED.
London, June 2.—Lord Strathcona, when interviewed to-day, said he regarded the conclusion of honorable peace with the greatest satisfaction. Canada must now prepare to take advantage of the splendid opportunity offered for extension of trade with South Africa.

Prof. Smith comes to the conclusion that if present tendencies in the United States continue, one of two things must result. Either an oligarchy of millionaires and military will assume control of the government, or the Republic will experience a second disruption.

Whether or not inspired by Prof. Smith's book, a section of the American public and press has taken up a cry against the Senate as a body not directly controlled by the people. Twenty-three states have sent a petition to Congress asking that the Senate be elected by popular vote, and thus partially freed from millionaires and plutocrats.

HOW "MACHINE" WORKED
farmers in some cases brought the money they had received into the nearest village and left it with well-known citizens, explaining at the same time how they came into possession of it. This last-mentioned man was the one who supplied the money.

Dr. Jameson was in the city yesterday, and he corroborated the above story in every particular. He added that it was partly because of the disreputable price of the Griks machine in South Africa that he secured such a large majority. The honest truth is in his riding are sick and tired of it.

UNSOPHISTICATED MEN.
Uxbridge, June 2.—Perhaps the most astounding case of business in the recent election was discovered yesterday morning by W. H. Hoyle, M.L.A., elect for North Ontario, and Mr. Clemmings, ex-M.L.A. for the same riding. The two gentlemen were on their way to Toronto, and while waiting at Blackwater Junction they met three deputy returning officers, one of whom was the clerk of Rama Township. The trio were taking the ballots, books, etc., of their respective divisions to the returning officer at Whitby.

Mr. Hoyle spoke to them and discovered that, instead of having the ballots and books sealed up in the usual way, the law required that they had them tied up in paper parcels. Two of these parcels were sealed and the third was left open.

When asked for an explanation of this unusual state of affairs, one of the returning officers said that he had taken the things out of the ballot box for the sake of convenience, and he could not return them.

There was considerable indignation manifested when this information was made known. The returning officers were immediately taken to the station and the parcels were sealed and the third was left open.
