

Blue Ribbon Tea.

Ask your friends about it.

MAJ. MARCHAND OFF FOR CAIRO

The French Commander Reaches Khartoum.

Press Comment on the Fashoda Situation.

Balfour Speaks of Britain's Egyptian Policy—The "Protectorate" Report Denied.

Cairo, Oct. 29.—A boat, recently dispatched to Fashoda, has reached Khartoum on its return journey, and with Major Marchand on board. The major deemed it necessary to personally bring to Cairo the unfinished portion of his report of his explorations. Capt. Germain was left in command of the French mission at Fashoda. Major Marchand left Fashoda on Sunday, and arrived at Khartoum yesterday morning. He will start for Cairo today. As the French men remain at Fashoda, Major Marchand's departure from there is not regarded as a settlement of the question as to the possession of that place, which is in dispute between Great Britain and France.

The French foreign office has received a dispatch from its diplomatic agency at Cairo, confirming the reported arrival of Major Marchand at Khartoum.

PRESS COMMENT ON MARCHAND'S MOVEMENTS.

London, Oct. 29.—The morning newspaper editorials regard Major Marchand's movement from Fashoda to Khartoum as indicative of a yielding on the specific question in controversy, although the position is officially unaltered. It is assumed that he will push on to Cairo in order to be in direct communication with the French Government, and that on reaching there he will report to Paris the impossibility of remaining at Fashoda under existing conditions, and will ask authority to withdraw his entire force. The Times says the desire ascribed to France to raise a general discussion ought to be in itself sufficient answer to the ridiculous rumor circulated in ill-informed quarters yesterday that we intended to play into her hands by declaring a protectorate over Egypt. Nothing could be more unlikely at the present moment.

The Daily News takes it for granted that Major Marchand will come to Paris.

PARIS REPORTS.

The rumor was circulated on the Paris boulevard yesterday that Major Marchand would be recalled from Fashoda, but on neither side of the channel—certainly on this side—is any serious attention paid to the rumor that England will declare a protectorate over Egypt.

The Paris correspondent of the London Standard says: I have excellent authority for the assertion that Major Marchand left Fashoda on his own initiative, but that he will demand permission to withdraw the mission, since his men are dying of hunger and disease. The special correspondent of the Daily News at Omdurman telegraphs: "Major Marchand is believed to have refused to accept the French instruction to withdraw the French mission from Fashoda."

The Paris correspondent of the London Times says: If France directs Major Marchand to retire from Fashoda, she will refuse to enter any ulterior negotiations, preferring to leave the question quite open and awaiting a more favorable opportunity to reopen it.

A cable to New York says: Advice from Paris this afternoon says President Faure has authorized the statement that no settlement has been reached between England and France regarding Fashoda.

COURTEL AT THE FOREIGN OFFICE.

Baron de Courcel, the French ambassador, had another long interview at the British foreign office yesterday with Sir Thomas Sanderson, permanent under secretary of state for foreign affairs, and there is no doubt that important matters were under discussion. There does not seem to be the slightest ground for the lower story that the British cabinet has decided to declare the protectorate of Great Britain over Egypt. It was based solely on a London dispatch to the Paris

Are You Ever Depressed?

And is it not due to nervous exhaustion? How can you have courage when suffering with headache, nervous prostration, and great physical weakness? Would you like to be rid of this depression of spirits? How? By removing the cause. By taking

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It removes the cause of your suffering, because it removes all impurities from your blood. $1.00. All druggists. To keep in good health you must have perfect action of the bowels. Ayer's Pills cure constipation and biliousness. 25c. a box.

Write to our Doctors.

Write us freely all the particulars in your case. Address: DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

Immense Crowd at the Funeral of Frederick Beattie—Magisterial Investigation To Be Instituted.

The papers do not comment upon the statement made, and the St. James' Gazette alone alludes to the subject, urging the government to adopt such a course.

BALFOUR AND SPENCER SPEAK.

The first cabinet minister to speak publicly since the cabinet council on Thursday is Lord Balfour of Burleigh, secretary for Scotland, who, when addressing a meeting at Galashiels, Scotland, declared that it was the settled policy of the government that the valley of the Nile must be Egyptian territory.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty in Lord Rosebery's government, in a strong speech at Greenock, endorsed Lord Salisbury's attitude toward the Egyptian question, and declared with great satisfaction to the prospect of an Anglo-Saxon entente.

THE CODERICH HOMICIDE

Jury Find the Accused Did the Deed in Self-Defense.

Immense Crowd at the Funeral of Frederick Beattie—Magisterial Investigation To Be Instituted.

Goderich, Ont., Oct. 29.—The inquest in the Cox shooting case was resumed yesterday afternoon in the court house here. Dr. Whiteley, Robt. Thompson, Geo. Parvener, Robt. Lusk, Richard Chambers and Thos. Gundry, constables.

The witnesses corroborated the evidence previously given and added points which favor the prisoner strongly. The coroner reviewed the evidence impartially and gave the case to the jury, who returned the following verdict, after an absence of about 25 minutes:

"That on the morning of the 26th of October, Frederick Beattie came to his death in his own orchard by a pistol shot, the pistol being in the hands of William Cox, and we further find, according to the evidence, that the said Frederick Beattie was shot in self-defense by the said William Cox."

Today the preliminary investigation will be held in the police magistrate's office at 2 o'clock.

According to evidence a bitter feeling seems to have been entertained by Beattie against his father-in-law Cox, and the other members of his family, with the exception of the unmarried daughter, Lily, between whom and the deceased there was every reason to believe that a strong attachment existed. On several occasions Beattie had been known to vent threats against Cox, at times going so far as to say he would be the death of the latter. On Saturday last, about midnight, the son-in-law called at Cox's house, and got his sister-in-law to leave the house with him and go to his residence. The girl was miles away. This action had the effect of entirely upsetting Mrs. Cox, the girl's mother, who became ill from the worry incident to the event, and the girl was coaxed to return, which she did on Monday morning. Beattie on Monday came over and endeavored to have the girl go back with him, but by this time she had come to a sense of the wrongfulness of her action on Saturday night, and refused to go with him. When she returned she omitted to bring a portion of her wearing apparel with her, and on Wednesday the father started for Beattie's farm with the avowed object of obtaining the clothing. The result was the fracas between the two men, and the shooting of Beattie. Mrs. Beattie heard the husband threaten his father that he would have the latter's heart's blood, and saw him raise his hand and spring at her father. Shortly after she heard a shot fired and saw her husband fall.

The funeral of Frederick Beattie took place yesterday. There was an immense crowd present. The procession was nearly a mile long. The pallbearers consisted of six members of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends, of which the deceased was a member. The order attended in a body. The service at the grave was conducted by Rev. Mr. Hamilton, pastor of Zion Church (Methodist). Leeburn.

WARLIKE.

The Daily News sent a special correspondent to ascertain the truth of the reported naval preparations at Portsmouth. He writes that the dockyard is full of unwelcome activity, and echoes from end to end with the noise of preparations. Fifty torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers are being rapidly overhauled, and can be made ready for service in a few hours. Thousands of tons of coal are being poured at the topmost speed into the bunkers of several vessels, and food and ammunition are going aboard as rapidly as the men and derricks can work. Outside the dockyard there is similar activity. Throughout the day there was a continuous boom on the coast, where the artillerymen were testing their guns. The forts at Spithead are taking in quantities of ammunition. The Southsea Common, close to Portsmouth, is dotted with tents which are occupied by engineers and miners, who are erecting searchlight stations at break-neck speed. The earthworks all along the sea front are being strengthened, and there is evidence everywhere that preparations are being made for the worst contingency.

SECOND GIBRALTAR.

The English Government is fortifying Berehaven, at the mouth of Bantry Bay, Ireland. The work will take years to complete, and will, it is said, make of the place a second Gibraltar. It will be made a strong naval base. It is an important place, as it lies on the direct route of food supplies from Canada and the United States, and possesses one of the finest natural harbors in the United Kingdom.

OLD ETONIANS DINE

Banquet to Lord Curzon—Citation Against a Rector.

London, Oct. 29.—The banquet of old Etonians, given in London last night, to Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the new viceroy of India, the Earl of Minto, the new governor-general of Canada, and the Rev. Dr. Wollaston, bishop designate of Calcutta, proved a remarkable gathering. The Earl of Rosebery presided, and the company of 220 guests included Mr. Arthur Balfour, first lord of the treasury, and government leader in the House of Commons; the Marquis of Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, and Earl of Roberts of Candahar and Waterford, commander of the British forces in Ireland, with many of the most prominent and brilliant men in the kingdom.

Lord Rosebery's speech was for the most part a eulogy of his guests of the evening, with many references to the importance of the respective posts they have been called to fill.

Th Earl of Minto responded to a toast to his health, and referred to the grave possibilities affecting Canada in view of the sympathetic kinship of the United States.

Lord Curzon, who, on rising, received a great ovation, spoke on Indian matters.

Lord Roberts, in proposing the health of Lord Rosebery, said the British nation owed him a debt of gratitude for breaking his four years' silence by a patriotic speech, which had relieved and satisfied the feelings of all Britons.

CITED THE RECTOR.

London, Oct. 29.—Proceedings have been commenced in the consistory court by Mr. John Kensit against the rector and churchwardens of the Church of St. Ethelburga, the citation demands the removal of the crucifix over the altar, and the tabernacle over the altar, and that the Ten Commandments shall be placed in a conspicuous place in the church. The proceedings will be resisted.

$10,000 SALVAGE.

London, Oct. 29.—Salvage to the amount of £2,500 has been awarded to the British steamer Marino for towing the Cunard liner Aurania, which she picked up at sea on Sept. 14 and brought to Queenstown.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again poured into the streets to witness the third and last of the great peace jubilee processions. Yesterday's procession was purely of a civic character, and was a most fitting wind-up of the week's jubilee, the emblems of peaceful industry following the display of the nation's prowess in war.

Philadelphia and their visitors again