Cattle Market Notes.

Messrs. James Mackay and Frank Mackay, brothers, of Creemore, both prominent farmers and live stock men of Simcoe County, were visitors at the market.

Master William Gillon, son of M. Gillon, the well-known cattle dealer, was on the market getting pointers. Mr. Gillon believes in the old truth that instead of the fathers shall be the children, and is preparing his son for the work.

Messrs. W. H. Stewart and W. H. Gardiner report having shipped three loads of live stock per G.T.R. from Powassan on Tuesday at T. p.m., which did not reach the market until to-dhy (Thursday) at 10.30 a.m., a period-covering 40 nours for 207 miles. They report several animals dead from starvation, as the stock had neither food nor water from the time of shipment. Trade, while inclined to be slow, was fairly good, considering the heavy deliveries. But there were six or seven loads of common cattle reported as being unsold.

In the food nor water from the time of shipment.

John Wright of Orangeville, a prominent live stock dealer and farmer, paid a visit to the market while down at the exhibition.

Hogs.

Deliveries of hogs were fair, about 1600. Prices were easy at Tuesday's quotations, that is $5.37½ for selects, and $5.12½ for lights and fats, fed and watered. There are too many lean stubble hogs being marketed. These are not wanted, and farmers and drovers are shortsighted, when they bring them forward. Why not put them in proper shape, thereby gaining in weight as well as price?

Nothing raised the moral tone of public life in England more than the two conscientious changes of Sir Robert Peel, attended as they were by sacri-fice of power. But treachery to princi-ple, calling itself poportunism, is an-other thing. The man who, to get your other thing. The man who, to get your votes, prefesses certain principles, and when he has got the votes slips out of them, is not a man in whom confidence should be renewed. When the French invaders were occupying Mexico some Mexicans went over to the enemy. A young Mexican lady was getting down from a high railway car. Two men offered her an arm. One was a French invader, the other was a renegade Mexican. She took the arm of the Frenchman, saying that she pre-ferred an enemy to a traitor.

Condition of Ontario.

Messrs. Burwash, Hyatt, Good, Armstrong, Hall, Beam and others spoke. One speaker considered the condition of Ontario quite as bad as New York when Rev. Dr. Parkhurst described it as hell with the lid off. It was said that corrupt water would cleanse itself if it had a depth of 14 feet. The waters of Ontario politics were 13 feet 11 1-2 inches deep at the present time. A vote of thanks was moved by Messrs. Macdonald and Coulson.

Dr. Smith replying, said he was quite overwhelmed with the kind things said of him. Lloyd Garrison had a long uphill fight against slavery, and had once been presented with a gold watch. Had it been a rotten egg, he would have better known how to acknowledge it. He was in a similar position, but

He was in a similar position, but he really did cherish the thought of their sympathy, which would always animate his pen during the very short time that pen could work. While there might be great and sinister influences behind the press in general, there was nothing behind their own journal but sincere interest in the country and the farm. There was certainly no desire for gain, and he might have sought distinction in other ways. He valued more the sympathy of honest men and true patriots. Jabel Robinson's Record.

Jabel Robinson M.P., the independent ent member from Elgin, had spoken and voted thru four sessions according to his feelings, and had never attended a caucus in parliament. Government should own, bulld and control the G. T. P. Railway from one end to the other. They already owned 1500 miles of the Intercolonial, but with two competing corporations had a deficit of two millions to meet. If the road had been continued west it would have regulated passenger and freight rates. He intended to find out how many independent electors there were for he was going to stand again. Sire.
