THIEVING FROM FISHERMEN
In a continued process of thieving from fishermen seeking to make an honest dollar about the harbor at Indiantown, nets and other gear valued roughly at $300 have been stolen lately. Some of the nets have been taken from poles where they had been hung to be dried or repaired, others were taken from boats, and even from the water where they had been set.
On Monday the latest theft occurred when two nets were taken from some men in the Narrows. Win Eagles of Indiantown lost one valued at $60 a short while ago, it being stolen from his premises. He placed the matter in the hands of the police; detectives scoured parts where the nets might have been in use, but neither this nor those owned by others could be found. Fishermen having motor boats complain not only of the loss of nets, but also of having had engine equipment stolen.

LOCAL NEWS

MESSINA IN PORT
The Furness liner Messina, from London via Halifax, is discharging cargo at Pottsville, where she checked this morning after an uneventful voyage.

LETTER SAFE
A citizen last evening found in Prince Win. street near Duke, a stamped letter addressed to Bombardier Ed. Tupper in England. The writer need not worry over losing the letter for the thoughtful finder promptly posted it.

TRAINS LATE
A wreck on the C. P. R. line caused by the derailing of a freight train west of Montreal, delayed for three hours the Montreal train, due here at 12:20 p. m. The Ocean Limited was held until the arrival of the Boston train which was thirty minutes late and passengers journeying east were enabled to proceed without delay. Connection will be made with the Island steamers.

MOTOR AMBULANCE FUND.
The Motor Ambulance Fund being raised in New Brunswick by the Women's Institute has reached $12,846.61. Miss Hazel Winter, the supervisor, has received a donation of $28 from the Grand Falls Institute, $25 from the Dover Institute and $10 from the Fredericton Institute, this amount having been raised by the sale of a motor car.

STAKEHOUSE-DUNLOP
A wedding of popular interest took place this morning at 7 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ida J. Dunlop, 137 Metcalfe street, when her daughter, Miss Annie J. Dunlop, became the bride of George Albert Stakehouse. Rev. R. P. McKim officiated in the presence of relatives and friends. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Walter S. Dunlop, was dressed in a grey traveling suit with hat to correspond. She was unattended. The wedding march was played by Miss Helen Miller. Following the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served, after which the bride and groom left on a motor trip through the New England states. They will remain there about a week and on returning will "hide a wee" at Loch Lomond, before taking up their residence in Bridge street. Many useful and handsome wedding remembrances were received. The bride is a former member of the staff of Wm. Thomson & Co., while the groom is a member of the engineering staff of the Atlantic Sugar Refineries. Both enjoy the best wishes of many friends for future happiness.
Among the guests at the wedding was Gordon Stakehouse of East Braintree, Mass., brother of the groom.

The Man In The Street

Great weather for injunction!
Let us hope that the newest one proposed won't mean the unnecessary closing up of rails.

But if it should help in improving some sections we know several people who wouldn't worry.

Summer still seems summer to the chap who hasn't yet had his holidays.

Safety First!
The barbers of the city are organizing now if they will only make a rule to prevent some of their numbers from talking so viciously about the German while wielding a razor. A razor about a fellow's throat, we'll all be in favor of the union.

Miss Mary Full-stomach, an Indian maiden, has been appointed to a position in Washington in the Interior Department. With a name such as that she could hardly be termed a hungry office seeker.

One Hundred—Is That All!
"I could name one hundred places where the rails are in bad shape in our street car lines," said Commissioner Potts yesterday. Those must be the places where the newspaper "jiggles" when you're trying to read it on your way to work.

But then how many places can you name where this street or that sidewalk is in bad shape in the city? Say Queen street.

"Rushing the Growler."
One way to punish the enemy through his stomach, especially if he has a falling for beer. England's latest dictum is against sending tin cans to Germany containing dainties for prisoners there. Cardboard must be substituted, but it is well known that a cardboard box won't hold a pint very long.

Von Bulow may be quite a diplomat after all. He says he made "earnest endeavors to bring Austria and Italy together." From recent cables it would seem as though his efforts had met with some success.

And the sporting ed. enquires "Who put the balk in the Balkans?"

Biographical sketch informs us that Mr. Lansing, new U. S. secretary, hails from Watertown, N. Y. This may mean a rival for Mr. Bryan in the prohibition party.

Women's Rights!
The two women had evidently been on a shopping trip yesterday afternoon. One carried home in the street car a small parcel, containing perhaps a spoon of thread, the other carried a larger one, possibly holding two spoons, thus having something to show for their visits to several stores. As they chatted amiably, incessantly, and volubly. The car stopped. Now it was nearing the next corner when one of them must get off. One of them pressed the button by the seat, and a few seconds later the car stopped. Two or three other people got out, but she still continued to whisper the last hurried words of gossip to her companions. The car started again. Then she got up, walked down the aisle, and berated the conductor for "carrying her part her story" and didn't mind words at that. Apparently they always think it safe to blame it on the conductor.

But neither of them considered that in continuing their "shopping" until just a little after 5 p. m. they were forcing working men to stand in the car all the way home, though they had been hard at work on their feet all day.

HELPED TO BURY CANADIAN DEAD

Belgian Now in City on the Limer Messina

TWO OTHERS ALSO ON BOARD
One of Them Has Not Seen His Six Motherless Children Since The Fall of Antwerp

Dominic Traasert, a native of Ostend, Belgium, and now a seaman on the Furness liner Messina which arrived this morning, was engaged in burying the soldiers who fell in battle along the western front in France and Belgium. "I buried lots of dead Canadians at Ypres," he said.

Traasert was in Antwerp just before the city was taken by the Germans and he left before the Germans entered the city. On reaching London, he offered his services to the Belgian consular there, and with nine of his fellow countrymen was sent to France to help in the work of burying soldiers who had been killed in the heavy fighting following the German drive. The party operated at Neuport, Dixmude and Ypres and interred hundreds of men.

Whenever possible, the bodies were placed in graves which were hastily dug during a lull in the firing; but often it was necessary to burn piles of German who had fallen in mass.

Accompanied by gens d'armes, Traasert and his companions crawled along the zones of flying shells and disposed of the bodies. They worked far into the night and were many times forced to stop before the movements of German cavalry.

The Belgians were many times hard pressed for food and depended entirely on the good will of farmers for supplies. Frequently after opening the day and half the night on the battlefield, they worked for farmers until morning in order to earn a living.

Traasert has been ordered to report to the Belgian consular on his return to London and he expects to be sent to the front with the Belgian army soon after he arrives in England. He said the military authorities were not ready for recruits when he first offered his services.

John W. Decimal, brother-in-law of Traasert and John B. Poeters of Antwerp, are also among the crew of the Messina. Poeters became separated from Traasert in the fall of Antwerp and the youngsters, the mother of whom is dead, are missing. Decimal went from Antwerp to Rotterdam when the Belgian port was taken and afterwards returned to his native city; but he was unable to find means of livelihood and escaped to England.

REV. MR. STACKHOUSE WELCOMED

Former Local Pastor Here on Vacation—A Ulica Rotary Club Story

His old friends were glad to welcome Rev. P. J. Stackhouse yesterday on his arrival in the city to spend his holidays. His presence and Nova Scotia. Mr. Stackhouse says that the great bulk of the American people are in sympathy with the allies, but points out that at a meeting of Germans in Ulica this week resolutions were adopted protesting against the last American note to Germany, and calling upon other German states to do the same. This makes the task of President Wilson more difficult.

Mr. Stackhouse says they have a live Rotary Club in Ulica. A lately entertained in a novel manner. A distinguished Italian had arrived in New York, and it was announced that a distinguished Italian would address the club. When the time came, a swarthy gentleman with curled mustaches and a strong Italian accent arrived and addressed the club. He said many nice things about America, and intimated that there were many Italians in America who would return to Italy to join the colors, and who would be all the more skilful in trench digging because they had worked with pick and spade in America. The speaker was given a great ovation, after which he took off his mustaches and revealed the fact that he was not a gentleman from Italy at all.

Mr. Stackhouse hopes to have some salmon fishing in Nova Scotia, and will certainly have fishing somewhere. He has come, he says, to the real fishing country from one where there are several fishermen for every fish, although they do get some fine trout there at times. Incidentally he observes that he had to deposit some dollars at McAdam in order to bring in his salmon rod.

Mr. Stackhouse will be heard in his former pulpit in Amherst during his stay in Nova Scotia. He is in excellent health and delighted to resist the province.

GREAT MANY AT CHURCH OF ASSUMPTION PICNIC

It is believed that the annual picnic of the Church of the Assumption in full swing at Seaside Park today will be one of the most successful in the history of the congregation. The ladies and gentlemen in charge of the departments expect to cater to more than 4,000 people. Ideal weather favors a record attendance at Seaside and a great crowd of pleasure seekers will no doubt enjoy the evening at the bay shore resort.

Reports from the picnic grounds indicate that the refreshment booths, games and other amusements are being generously patronized this afternoon. Tonight an exceptionally large number probably will attend. Included in the programme of entertainment are music by two bands and a baseball match.

MOTORED FROM NEW YORK
Rev. W. W. Duncan, pastor of a Methodist church, New York city, together with a party, motored from New York to Oak Bay, Charlotte County, where they were the guests of Rev. Thomas Pierce. On Monday morning they left Oak Bay at 6:20 and arrived in St. John shortly before twelve, and after a stay of some forty minutes, left for Moncton, arriving about eight o'clock Monday evening. They proceeded to Hillsboro, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Peck. Rev. Mr. Duncan is a son of Rev. Robert Duncan, who was once pastor of the Central Methodist Church in Moncton.
