Real Beer Banned; Mayor Wages War on All Booze

(By George Britt.)
Chicago—"Yes, we have no beer in Chicago."
And the man responsible for that bartender's refrain makes this frank public announcement:
"I would not have the people believe I am a prohibitionist, for I am not. I should like, indeed, if the law would permit that the people of Chicago might have the privilege of buying good, wholesome beer at a moderate price."
He is Mayor William E. Dever, who, simply as a law enforcement proposition and without personal whim or hurry, has plugged the flow of bars and breweries, and made the Windy City drier than a bone.

Mayor William E. Dever, with an inscription posted to his handwork in the window of a closed saloon above.

Gone Are the Days.
The knowing ones need not tell of having bought 5 per cent beer without introduction only last summer. Times have changed, and the unwetted thirst of thousands testifies.
In three weeks, Mayor Dever revoked the license of more than 1,100 soft drink saloons, influenced the voluntary closing of 1,600 more "for repairs" put guards over all the breweries, retired six police captains, cured thousands of cases of blindness on the police force—and he keeps on unabated.
A meeting of ministers adopts resolutions praising the drive, and the mayor, addressing them, explains simply:
"Law enforcement by a public official should be part of his work-day life. It ought not to be a cause for comment or enthusiasm any more than the wearing of a hat. This is not a question of wet or dry, but simply of obedience to law."
When the most reliable and protected of bars began to report the drouth of their trusted customers, there arose a chorus, from merchant, customers and bystander alike of "What's his game?"

One repeats the question to the mayor. That official, solid, gray-haired, square-shouldered and square-jawed, takes off his glasses, gazes steadily with his large brown eyes, and answers:
No. Axes to Grind.
"There is no exterior motive. If you are familiar with politics here, you know I didn't seek this office. And I am not now seeking either to gain another office or to raise a new issue. We are simply enforcing the law. We tried palliative measures, but they were ineffective. Absolute enforcement seemed the only solution."
"Police for years have been ordered to enforce strictly, and have gone out to overlook this place and that place. I think they are convinced by this time that this order is in earnest. When we get through I believe

Did Some Labeling Themselves.
Young Mrs. X is a very fine housekeeper. Everything in her little apartment is immaculate. It was with some misgivings, therefore, that, on going away for a couple of weeks with her husband, she turned over the apartment to her rolicking young brother and a bachelor friend. She was particularly proud of her bathroom, which had recently been done over, and as a hint to the boys she hung a piece of Turkish towel on the door with a tag attached which read: "This cloth is to be used for washing out the tub after you bathe."

Directly on returning home, she made a tour of inspection and here is what she found: Hanging on the bed in the guest chamber a card reading, "Life is what we make it. So is a bed. Please make this one."
"Above the wash-bowl in the bathroom: 'This bowl is not for drinking purposes. You wash in it.'"
In glaring print over the tub: "This is a bath—to be used with water."
Pinned on the bath gloves: "These are not for street wear."
On a tag tied to the nail-brush: "Beware! This is not a tooth-brush."
On a dish-towel in the kitchen: "This is not a bath-towel. Make no mistake in its use."
Over the wash-tubs: "This is not a patent bed. Don't try to sleep here."
From the entry gas jets: "Light this at night—the old man may need it."
Mauna Loa, on the island of Hawaii, rises 13,680 feet above the sea.

MISS MARY DOYLE.
(By N.A. Service.)
East Syracuse, N. Y.—There's a greeting in every home for Miss Mary Doyle here.
As this city's only woman mail carrier she's become an official Pollyanna.
At 21 she passed a federal civil service examination with a grade far above the ones chalked up by her male competitors.
Her route is 10 miles long. And she packs two heavy sacks over it every day.
As Cupid's courier, she likes her job best.
Scented billet doux entrusted to her custody receive special attention.
And she even makes folks smile on the first of the month—when the bills come due.

FRENCH AVIATOR SETS NEW RECORD

Paris, Nov. 1.—The barographs used by Sadi Lecoq, French ace, in his last altitude flight, made yesterday, have been subjected to verification tests in the laboratory of the Arts and Crafts College. The instruments, placed in the vacuum chamber gave a reading of 36,564.82 feet which will be submitted to the Aero Club for official acceptance as a world's record.
The former record also made by the French aviator was 35,178.88 feet.

SCIENTIST FINDS SHIPS LIGHTER WHEN GOING EAST THAN WEST

London, Nov. 2.—In the course of experiments to discover the origin of mountains, Professor W. G. Duffield, who occupies the Chair of Physics at Reading University, has found that ships traveling east are lighter than when going west.
He found that a 2,000-ton destroyer was four hundredweight lighter traveling east than when going west, because everything traveling east is going in the same direction as the earth is revolving and the centrifugal force is greater than when it is traveling west.
Therefore he says that a 50,000-ton Atlantic liner would weigh approximately five tons less on its journey to England than when bound to America.

STUDENTS TOLD NOT TO STUDY JUST BEFORE GOING TO BED

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Dr. Dudley Reed of the physical culture department of the University of Chicago started freshmen by telling them that studying just before going to bed would give them nightmares. He advised against it. Smoking he mentioned as a similar evil.
"Don't smoke or study before you go to bed," he warned, "or you'll have bad dreams."
The doctor also advised them to brush their teeth, have their tonsils out, keep their eyes up to standard and eat green apples.

RECORDED EARTH SHOCKS IN U. S.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Earth shocks beginning at 3:15 p. m. today and continuing until 6:22, were recorded on the Georgetown University seismograph. Father Tondorf, director of the observatory, said he was unable to estimate the probable distance or direction of the disturbance from Washington, but thought it might have been centered at a point relatively near.

DUE DAY MEETING HELD.

The Due Day meeting of the W. M. S. of the Queen Square Methodist church was held last evening at the home of Mrs. John Cope, 109 Carmarthen street. The attendance was the largest in several years. Mrs. Neil MacLachlan, the president, presided. The opening devotions were led by Mrs. H. P. Newcombe. After the regular business of the meeting the second chapter of the study book, "Building of the Nation," was taken up. The chapter dealt with pioneer missionaries. Miss Beale Thompson had charge of the reading and was assisted by Mrs. S. E. Logan, Mrs. Belle Bilsard, Mrs. William Sargent, Miss Sarah E. Smith, Mrs. T. O. Dales and others. Mrs. A. Carlos, Japanese; Mrs. Dales, Chinese, and Mrs. H. P. Newcombe, general missionary information. Mrs. Henry Robertson brought a book of views of the recent disaster in Japan taken by Miss Minnie Robertson, a missionary in that country.

HOLD HALLOWEEN DANCE.

A delightful Halloween dance was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morrison in Tower street, West St. John, for their son, Ronald. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. The Misses Pearl Howard and Dorothy Lanyon, the young ladies responsible for the enjoyable affair, were heartily thanked by all the guests.

ENJOY HALLOWEEN PARTY.

At the home of Miss Dorothy Wilcox, 62 Waterford street, on Wednesday evening, a Halloween party was enjoyed by some 40 guests. Appropriate decorations were used and the rooms were prettily arranged. Games were enjoyed and dainty refreshments served. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. H. McDonough, George McIntyre and Walter Brown, all of St. Martins.
