GIACOMO SAVES GEMS GIVEN BY ROYALTY

Famous Italian Buffoon is Forced to Leave Most of Fortune in Russia.

Roma, Oct. 12.—Giacomo, king of Italian clowns, who is back in his native land after twenty-five years of wandering about the world, has had many strange experiences in that time. For seventeen years he was in the Russian Imperial Circus at Petrograd. He became a favorite of the late Czar's family and witnessed their departure for exile.

He carried a letter from Grand Duchess Maria Petrovna to the Queen of Italy half way around the world, and still possesses some valuable jewels presented to him by the Czar.

When the revolution came Giacomo, who had piled up a small fortune, found that he would have to depart with only a small sum under the passport issued by the Soviet Minister of Art. He witnessed the departure of the Czar's family when they were sent into exile, and managed to get close enough to the Grand Duchess to receive a letter for Queen Elena.

He crossed to Siberia and arrived on the Pacific coast of America where he entered motion pictures, earning enough to get to Washington, where he handed over the letter to the Italian Ambassador, who dispatched it by courier to Queen Elena. Now the clown is back in his native land mourning the loss of his 100,000 rubles of the old-fashioned value, but he says he is content to drop his career as a capitalist and become a mere clown again.

FINDINGS OF INQUIRY COURT

Master and First Officer of the Wrecked Empress are Reprimanded, But Retain Certificates. The finding of the court of inquiry into the stranding of the steamer Empress was given yesterday. It did not carry out the certificate of Captain Andrew McDonald but reprimanded him severely and cautioned him to be more careful in future. The same action was taken in the case of First Officer Arthur H. Sweeney. He was advised to be more interested in the navigation of the ship and to be a help to his superior officer. The court commended the installation of wireless on the Empress as one which would prove a basis of assurance that all would be well in future in view of the facilities provided at this port by the Western Union Telegraph staff. The court was composed of Captain L. A. Denvers, dominion wreck commissioner, and Captains A. Mulcahy and Captain W. H. Parker of the steamer Chignecto, notable assessors.

A. J. CONNOR DEAD; BUT FEW DAYS ILL

IRISH SITUATION IS DISCUSSED BY REV. W. COOTE, M.P.

Hon. William Coote, M. P., gave an address last evening in the Main street Baptist church on the Irish situation. Mr. Coote is his majesty's deputy lieutenant to County Tyrone and is well informed on conditions in Ireland. He said that the outlook for Ireland at the present time was very dark and that he feared that Southern Ireland would drift into chaos and the direction unless she cut herself free from the interference of religious orders in that part of the country.

IRISH SITUATION IS DISCUSSED BY REV. W. COOTE, M.P. (Continued). In his address, Hon. Mr. Coote said that for the last forty years the British government had blessed Ireland by giving money from the British treasury to buy out the landlords and to erect cottages for the agricultural laborers. He further showed that Ireland had 272,000,000 lying unemployed in their banks before the war, which after five years of fighting had increased to 270,000,000.

IRISH SITUATION IS DISCUSSED BY REV. W. COOTE, M.P. (Continued). Mr. Coote instanced cases of some cruel murders perpetrated in Ulster on Protestants during the night of June 22 last by persons, some of whom had evidently been known to the murdered people. He denied that Ulster was hit and said that the eight Roman Catholics elected to the Ulster parliament did not take their seats on account of the opposition of the hierarchy, and although no Roman Catholic representative is permitted to sit by that church, yet when Ulster organized a police force four months ago, they called for 3,000 men and expressly stipulated that of these 1,000 should be Roman Catholics, drawn from the loyal men of the disbanded Royal Irish Police force, and the rest should be Protestants, which is the same ratio as the religious sense of the province. Further, Ulster elected to the highest judicial position, the Lord Chief Justice, Mr. Dennis Henry, K. C., late attorney-general for Ireland in the Imperial parliament, and a Roman Catholic, but a man absolutely true to the British empire.
