THE MAYOR TALKS

At Imperial Meeting Says He Did Not Tell All, as Great Pressure Had Been Brought to Bear on Him.

The issues of the recall election and various other matters were discussed by Mayor McLellan at a large public meeting in the imperial theatre last evening. The mayor spoke for more than two hours, and when he had concluded the audience was much smaller than it had been when he began.

A portion of the address was devoted to a review of the speaker's connection with the hydro campaign last spring, the stand he had taken at that time and the course which he had pursued since his election to office. He declared that he still was in favor of municipal control and municipal distribution of the hydro current, and denied that he was working in the interests of the New Brunswick Power Company.

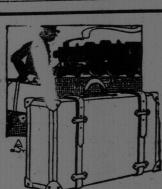

terests of the New Brunswick Power Company.

The remainder of the address was devoted largely to abuse of his oppents in the present campaign and of the three newspapers which are opposing him. He explained that he was receiving some support from one city newspaper, and that he could not be expected to fight with those in control of that paper so long as they were giving him an opportunity to place his side of the case before their readers.

Reference was made by the mayor to the large number of tax bills which he had reduced or remitted and, in defence of his course in this matter, he made some general references to the misfortunes which some of the tax-payers had suffered.

Mr. McLellan hinted that he had certain revelations which he would like to make. He hated to be saying all the time that there were things he could tell, and then not telling them. But pressure had been brought to bear

New England, N. D., Nov. 8—The wheels of time turned backward 800 years here when an intire village knelt as did their puritan fore-fathers, to give thanks for a bountiful harvest.
