Honoring

Victoria Scotsmen Hold Their Annual Dinner at the Driard Hotel.

Eloquent Speeches and Loyal Toasts the Order of the Evening.

St. Andrew's night is one which is never forgotten where Scotsmen are to be found the world over, and last evening proved that the St. Andrew's and hight tae ye. Caledonian Society of this city have lost none of their old-time renown for celebrating in right royal style. Last night's banquet was the forty-first for the society, and like all its predecessors passed off to the satisfaction of everyone. The guests, to the number of seventyfive, gathered in the corridors of the Driard and at 8.45 filed into the diningroom, led by Piper H. McDonald, in Highland costume. The menu was a good Scottish one, including the never absent "Great Chieftain o' the Puddin" Race," the Haggis, which received the usual honor of being carried round the tables to the music of the pipes.

Keen regret was felt that owing to indisposition both His Honor the Lieut .-Governor and the genial president, H. Dallas Helmcken, Q. C., were unable to be present. The following letters which were read during the evening expressed the regret of these gentlemen at their enforced absence:

Dear Sir:-I am very sorry that I shall not be able to attend the St. Andrew's banquet on Friday evening, and I think it is as well to let you know at once, so that you may entrust to another the pleasure of presenting the toast that you have allotted to me. I am under the authority of the doctor, and do not think he will let me

With best wishes for the success of the St. Andrew's banquet. H. G. JOLY de LOTBINIERE.

Sir:-Will you kindly present my compliments to the assembled guests, and express my great regret that through medical orders I will be unable to be present this evening.

It was bad enough to lose the banquet of the American consul, worse to have lost the privilege of voting on the by-law, but werst of all to be incapacitated through illness on this evening, of all.

be present to-night, on account of the To drink yer healths in Lagavullin, events which have happened during the time which has elapsed since the last St. 'At drew's dinner, which has witnessed the birth of a new Empire, in the formation of which Scotsmen have played a conspicuous part, over which all true and loyal Scotsmen rejoice, to think that our gracious sovereign Queen Victoria still reigns the supreme head and the honored of all nations. All Scotsmen most assuredly wish that she may live long, and that God will bless her.

I hope, too, that the representatives of those forces at Ladysmith will be present to-night, and as the toast, "The Army, toddy, an' gear an' grath, a haurl o' baith, Nayy and Volunteers," is now understood an' may ye jook frae ilka skaith o' saul as mean the Imperial forces, I hoped to have done honor to those gallant soldiers who went from here to fight the battles of their Queen and Country, and who, I trust, will honor the board on this occasion; also to have paid a tribute of respect to the memory of those who have lost their lives fighting for their Queen and Country. Scotland, too, has witnessed, only last month, the extraordinary union in ecclesiastical matters between the Synod of the United Presbyterian church and the Assembly of the Free church; and the last event I see recorded in the latest British papers is the report of an address delivered by the present American ambassador in Edinburgh, on Abraham Lincoln, at a meeting presided over by Lord Rosebery, so that I hope on this evening joy will reign supreme, and that the society may witness many more future gatherings.

H. DALLAS, HELMCKEN. Letters of regret were also read by Secretary Russel from R. E. Gosnell for the premier, Dr. J. S. Helmcken, Right Rev. Bishop Orth and Bishop Perrin. Your auld Scottish freens in Victoria. THE WEDDIN' OF MARY MACAULAY.

A reminiscence of olden times. In the month of May, 1853, William MacNeill, son of Captain MacNeill, of the H. B. Exploring Suggestions of Local Navigator, Who Made Voyage on the Alert in 1875.

Advises Use of Wooden Ship, and an Early Start From Victoria.

Captain Bernier's expedition to the North Pole, which Eastern papers autime in May or June next, is being largely discussed among local navigators and specially by those who have had Arctic experience. There perhaps are more numerous in this city than in any other city this side of the Maritime Provinces, and the opinion advanced on the feasibility or non feasibility of the expedition are many and diverse.

Of the many who have been within the Arctic circle and who take a deep interest in all schemes which have been de vised for the solving of the mystery of the Ice King, is one who was on the present running a steamer out of this port, and for various reasons does not want to be quoted. He thinks, however, that Captain Bernier's venture ought to be successful if properly conducted, but it is very important, he considers, that two vessels should be employed in the work. There were two vessels on the Markham expedition in '75, the Discovery having acted as the Alert's consort, and the value of this kind of companionship was then demonstrated to be almost inestimable. The vessels should travel side by side, and should so proceed as far as navigation would permit. Then one could anchor while the other rifted with the currents into the grea unknown region. There are other considerations which this navigator thinks Capt. Bernier should pay attention to, one being the necessity of leaving here, not in May or June as proposed, but in the month of April, and another the importance of getting the right men to command the vessel. Theoretical knowledge was, to his mind, not so requisite in those men as good practical experience, and for this seamen from the Orkney or Shetland island were nowhere to be excelled. These men were inured to the hardships and frigidity of Arctic travel, and could be depended on when the most perilous end of the expedition came.

Still one other suggestion which he had to offer was in regard to the ship to be employed in the proposed expedition. A wooden vessel, he says, is superior every time to a steel or iron craft, for the simple and obvious reason that one will give under the pressure of the ice while the other will not.

Five of the crew of the United States auxiliary cruiser Yosemite were drowned by the capsizing of one of the boats off the island of Guam.
