TWO ALDERMEN ENGAGE IN A VERBAL DUEL

Ald. Hanna Indignant at What He Considered Ald Fell's Lack of Courtesy.

The city council Monday declined to permit the proposed amendments to the Municipal Clauses Act to be presented to the municipal committee of the legislature until they had considered them. As a result several clauses were struck out and some amended. It was during the debate on Ald. Stewart's motion to reconsider, or, to properly put it, to consider the amendments, that one of those exchanges occurred which had the ring similar communications took the same of the old time verbal tourneys in the council chamber about it. Ald. Stewart, in moving the resolution, explained that his reason for the course was that there was more in the report than he had any idea of. He thought there were only two matters—one about there were only two matters—one about the third way companies in allowing pieces of cable and wire to lie upon the streets. inthe wash houses and the other about nunicipal telephone systems. He was greatly surprised, therefore, to learn last streets by-laws be enforced.

each clause of that report.

Ald. Fullerton seconded Ald. Stewart's He said that he had attended Saturday. Ald. Stewart was not present. He saw the list, and some he favored and others he didn't. He recommended that a copy of the amendments be struck off for each of the aldermen, and Fell said this would be done. On Monday night, when he only heard two heard that Ald. Fell considered that in adopting the two recommendations read the council had adopted the whole report. Ald. Fell then made his explanation. He prefaced his remarks by an "opinion" that this was another attempt of the papers to get a slap at him. Well, the advertising didn't hurt him, and the papers were welcome to it. He reminded Ald. Stewart and Fullerton that they had attended a meeting about a month ago and considered all the amendments submitted by the solicitor at that time.

Ald. Fullerton and Stewart (in unison):

Continuing, Ald. Fell stated that they did attend the meeting and referred them to the solicitor, who made notes of all that took place. On Saturday week he called a meeting, instructing the city clerk to notify Ald. Fullerton and Stewart. The former attended, but the latter could not be communicated with. Ald. Fullerton only made on objection when the amendments were considered by him, and that was with regard to hotel licenses. The speaker explained that the figures did not necessarily mean anything as long as the principle em-bodied in the clause was endorsed. He was surprised at all 'this rot about Star Chamber sessions. The report on Mon-day night stated that a copy of each bill was attached thereto. If any alderman wanted he could have had them read, but the whole thing was done according to parliamentary practice. He supposed it was a question of allowing the legal men on the council to attend to the legal busi-He considered he had done good work. There were only about three amendments that had not been passed by the council a year ago.

Ald. Stewart replied that when he saw the report the amendments were attached to it. All he saw were the two matters that came before the coun The outline that is usually submitted to the council should touch upon each amendment it was proposed to ask for. The council should have the opportunity to investigate every clause. That hotel question was objected to by him a year ago, and he still objected to it.

Ald. Fullerton denied Ald. Fell's state ment that he had only objected to one clause at the committee meeting. There matter regarding retail licenses that he did not agree to.

Ald. Hanna was indignant that an attempt should be made to get these amendments to the legislature without the council being allowed to pass upor them. The list didn't accompany outline report that was read to the coun-

Ald. Fell: "I object, Mr. Chairman When a councillor gets up and says the amendments accompanied the report his word should be accepted."

The city solicitor intervened at this juncture. He explained that he away the list of amendments after the council meeting to request the municipal committee of the legislature to have them printed.

Ald. Hanna continued with much warmth. How could the amendments be reconsidered by the council when they had not even been considered? Was right to present them to the legislature and say they were the voice of the coun cil, when the council hadn't even seen them? He wanted some light on tha matter. Here was a report of two pages, and now it was discovered that twenty-seven pages were hitched on to them. "Dare any man say that they are the voice of the council, when we didn't see them?" exclaimed Ald. Hanna, heatedly. "Dare any man say that and tell the truth?"

Ald. Fell: "Certainly." Ald. Hanna: "Then I know nothing
