"Stranger that I had ever been to religion and its emotions, it was oddnow, when I came to Rome, a faint suggestion of something akin to them had many times not generally imparted to children. At any rate, very early I knew that a man could legally chastise his wife, so long as he never struck her with a stick thicker than your little finger. I knew this, I say, because I heard it explained by the lawyers when my father was sent to jail for having.

Williot smiled and suggested that that difying spectacle had apparently not leterred her from taking a hysband herelf.

go abroad to avoid creditors "We went to Rome, and lived there several years. In those days an artist could live there very cheaply, as we did, but still he got into debt again, and for months he was afraid to show himself by daylight. You can guess how we carried on, and if you can't it won't natter, and so, as I've told you so much, matter, and so, as I've told you so much, I'll come to that last scene between us, which, as I say, settled the business. I seemed to be quick at languages, and picked up a good smattering of Italian, and being still pretty he made me sit as a model for other painters in order sometimes to get food. He even went so far, and I didn't mind, as to make me go and wait in the Piazza di Spagna, on hire with the native models. At first they were inclined to resent Sig. Inglese's intrasion on their domain, but they were good-natured people and put up with me after awhile.

"He was in hiding at that time, and I had to go to and from home with the whereabouts. My training on the stage, and then as a model, made me pretty nimble at disguises and wearing strange dresses, and when I went on hire to the place, part of what had once been the chapel of a Benedictine monastery. We hired it of a kindly old monk for a song, but no one else lived in the building we were there quite alone. I forget exactly where it was, but it was outside the city, on the edge of the Campagna.

We had a small room where he painted,
with part of it divided by a curtain where we slept. At the foot of the short stone stair leading up to this apartment from the outer door, another stone stair led down to a sort of vault or crypt, lighted up by a barred window. At the end of this were the remains of a little chrine, with a dilapidated figure of the Virgin, and on one side, against the wall, a stone bench. It was what he called a picturesque bit, and he made a study of it.

"About this time—it was Christmas—a notorious brigand chief had been aptured, and was brought to Rome, si hand and foot, smidst tremendons excitement. It gave my husband on idea for a subject: 'The Wounded Brigand in Hiding.' He depicted the man lying with head bound up, etc., in this crypt, with the wife kneeling before the shrine with up-stretched arms and the ahrine with up-stretched arms and clasped hands in the attieude of supplication. The background was all there to his hand without stirring out of doors, and I, of course, had to sit or may get to your work. I can hitch that exercise the praying wife. Without exception it was the most trying, tring attitude I had ever assumed. My knees and back lost all sensation, and the uplifted arms simply seemed to go dead after half an hour. "Laws, now," said the hired man. "I avoid the crowded streets. You know, too, just where to go."

"Laws, now," said the hired man. "I do wonder, Buzzy, if your pop's goin' to let them strange girls hev Selim and painting there day after day. No, kind heaven never gave me the chance, for after the blow I did faint, and when I recovered I was lying where I fell. He had not even lifted me from the ground.

No, but he had stretched himself at full length upon the stone bench, and was sound asleep. "Escape was my first thought—revenge the second—and as I stood up, the second overwhelmed the first. Noiselessly I crept to where lay, amidst many studio properties, the brigand's poig-nard. Often I had dreamt of this, and had seen it glitter in my hand, but in the dreams opportunity was wanted. SELIM'S MEMORY.

The McNair girls had company, Cadence and Ruth Wheeler, two blue-eyed meids wi'lint white locks. Cadence was so named by a fond reother, who detected music in the first-born baby lamentations—music appreciated by the mother alone. A number of articles were needed in the McNair household, which somebody must get in Lewisvale. Home duties claimed Julie and Marie McNair—not strawberry-hulling or peashelling—real, practical, necessary lamp-filling, some baking for next day's league picnic, and the churning—three gallons of sour cream must speedily be

"I cannot drive to town," laughed Julie. "That golden butter must be churned. Horrid work!" "Buzzy is so—well, Buzzy is only a little boy, I can't send him shopping," sighed Mrs. McNair.

Thoughtful Mr. McNair said:
"Why not Caddie Wheeler? Caddie isn's timid. Selim is a trusty animal, work's well in the girls' phaeton.
"Oh, father, you dear!" cried Julie, joyously. "Three cheers! Ruthy get your bonnet; Caddie, I'll show you how

Selim had to find a home in the country, water the bat to them fire signals start him agoin'. Selim had to find a home in the country,

"It wouldn't be fun for the girls." "I don't want harm to come to them.
I thought, Philip, you said discipline was so helpful."
"I did," curtly replied Philip.

"I did," curtly replied Philip.

"But it makes Selim unreliable."

"Selim's a good horse—biddable too."

"I don't understand you, Philip. I do not believe even a fire gong will wake up that sleek, fat. lazy fellow. The girls will drive home in safety," said Buzzy.

"If I really feared anything would happen'em, I should have warned your pop. I say there's a risk that Selim Il hear the fire alarm, catch sight of the hose carts and fire teams, an' mind his own past trainin'. A horse isn't supown past trainin'. A horse isn't supposed to know when to quit obeyin' signals. Boys may lear when to do or leave off doin' things. Now

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

Stomach Liver Cure The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar. It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk. This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians; who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the captured public

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

IT IS A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF

Heartburn and Sour Stomach Sick Headache. Female Weakness, Weight and Tenderness in Stomach. Nervous Chills, Loss of Appetite, Frightful Dreams, Paralysis. Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears, Nervous Paroxysms and Nervous Choking, Weakness of Extremities and Hot Flashes. Fainting. Failing Health, Delicate and Scrofulous Children, Summer Complaint of Infants. All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES. As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts
