TO JEFF IN 310: PAY UP OR SHUT UP, OR time will run out, and so will your tapes... and legs... and whatever else you're attached to. Thanks for your time, but not your debt-ship.

TO THE GUYS AT THE CAVE, THE Tool Shed, The Embassy and The Bear's Den - Good luck on your exams. We'll miss you over the holidays. Merry Christmas!

Love Townie Bims xoxoxoxo

TO THE PERSON WHO "BORROWED" my sweats from behind the coat-check at the Social Club on Sat. night, please leave them at the Club soon, as it is cold biking.

PROCTORY NANCY "DUNNER": HOW'D you like the tete-a-tete conversation this week? Thanks a lot, everyone needs a pep talk to keep you up!

Mr. Pervie

A LONESOME, EMPTY HEART WOULD like to stir up some excitement with a happy, fun-loving guy. Prefer someone who lokes adventure, but also one who is tender-hearted. I'll be waiting till you correspond ... "Miss Right".

DAN R.: ANXIOUSLY AWAITING OUR night of passion. If you have the balls, I have the whipped-cream. The mysterious caller from English 1000.

Calling all lovers of fine food and exquisite music. The third annual Brunswick String Quartet Benefit Concert in support of the Conservation Council will take place Friday, December 11th 8:00 pm in Memorial Hall, UNB, Fredericton. This year's concert promises to be especially festive with a full program of the Brunswick String Quartet's favorites, followed by the Conservation Council's presentation of the Milton F. Gregg Corporate Conservation Award.

For more information Call Lynn Rimer Caissy at (506) 458-8747.

Linda Hansen will be speaking at the Unitarian Fellowship on Sunday, December 6th at 11:00 AM. Her topic is "Religion in Early New Brunswick: from Anglicanism to the Cults."

The Unitarian Fellowship, 749 Charlotte St., is a non-creedal Church with emphasis on personal religious integrity. Everyone is welcome.

St. Thomas Universty will offer a workshop titled "Vulnerability: Planning Care for the Frail Elderly," Saturday, December 5, from 8:30 AM - 3:30 PM in Room 103 Edmund Casey Hall. The workshop is designed for health-care professionals who work with the frail elderly in their homes, nursing homes, and hospitals.

For further information please contact Penny Ericson, UNB Faculty of Nursing.

backs. The government just asks for taxes ... more every year - clubs enforce cover charges and raise the prices of alcohol while universities raise tuition, charge excessive residence rates and give a basic commission to Security Guards per Parking Ticket issued.

I have always pictured the library ever since childhood as a nice, quiet place to be, where everyone was kind and helpful. That was before I borrowed two "Reserve" books on a Sunday night ... a big mistake! Although the card had said that it was a two night reservable book, the library has a policy that all reserve books taken out on Sunday nights are due on Monday morning ... a policy that I was not told till the librarian called Wednesday morning (thankfully waking me up from a mere 4 hours sleep two hours before my first class started). As soon as she called I realized that I was a day late, but she said I was two days late! I brought them in at 10:30 AM, before my first class, expecting a scolding; instead I was informed that I now had a debt of close to $8, because the library charges you for every hour that a reserve book is late. I agreed that I should pay a fine, but only for one day because I was never told about the Monday morning procedure. The librarian would not waver, it was my problem, not hers. Ignoring my arguments, she asked if I wanted to pay now or be billed later -end of argument, end of discussion.

If library policies and fine procedures were clearly advertised within the library, maybe they would have less late books and more compliance from students. Yet I have done some inquiring and have found that independant policing agencies could be hired to track down, capture, and break legs of all individuals failing to pay library fines for a nominal fee. And until this happens, the library will not have their lousy $8.
