STUBBORN INDIGESTION

One Who Had Suffered for Years Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The symptoms of stomach trouble vary. Some victims have a ravenous appetite, while others loathe the sight of food. Often there is a feeling as of weight on the chest, and a feeling in the throat. With others there is an intense pain and feeling of nausea after eating. Sometimes gas presses on the heart and leads the sufferer to think he has heart disease. Sick headache is another frequent and distressing symptom.

Mr. Alex. McKay, McLellan's Mountain, N. S., says:—"For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which was gradually growing worse and worse, and it would be impossible for me to tell how much suffering I endured. At different times I had treatment from three good doctors, but it did not help me in the least. Then I began trying all sorts of advertised medicines, and took ten packages of medicine specially intended for indigestion, but with no better result. I had practically come to regard myself as incurable, and to feel that I would be a continuous sufferer, when one day I read in a newspaper of the cure of indigestion through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I made up my mind to give them a trial. I had used nearly five boxes before they began to help me, but I do not regard this as my case was so bad. I used in all a dozen boxes of the pills, and they cured me completely. I can now eat anything we raise on the farm for man to eat and have no longer the pains and discomfort I had endured for years. It is several years since I was cured, and I have never felt a symptom of indigestion since. I am well known in this locality and you are at liberty to use what I say in the hope that it will benefit some other sufferer."

All medicine dealers sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A STEEPLEJACK'S ORDEAL

In Falling Clutched at a Rope 170 Feet in the Air

Ainsworth, a steeplejack, described to jurymen, at Bradford, England, who could not repress a shudder, how he was saved by a lucky clutch at a rope-end whilst falling with his comrade from a mill chimney 170 feet in height. Conway, the steeplejack, was not so fortunate, and met an instantaneous death.

The men had climbed the great steeple in the usual way, by clamping ladder upon ladder to the brick until the ladders reached the top. They tested every stage of the ladder twice in their dangerous work. At the end they sat on a plank placed across two staves.

Suddenly one of the staves on which they rested broke, the plank tilted beneath them, and instantly they were in the air, falling to the earth 170 feet below. As he fell a swinging rope whipped across Ainsworth's hand, and his fingers closed upon it. The jerk was terrible, but his grip was made marvellously strong by the knowledge that it meant life or death.

He hung suspended, while his comrade was already mangled and dead on the earth. His hold was precarious and slippery; by great muscular exertion he got his other end to the rope. Then, dangling, struggled up slowly, a terrible test of strength lasting several minutes.

He won. He reached one of the ladders and clung there. Then, as he realized that he lived and was practically safe, he slowly descended to the group which had conveyed away his comrade's remains.

Ainsworth denied that a flash of lightning, seen at the instant he fell, caused the catastrophe. The jury, in Conway's case, returned a verdict of "Accident."

The great ocean liner rolled and heaved. "Henry," faltered the young bride, "do you still love me?" "More than ever, darling," was Henry's fervent answer. Then there was an eloquent silence. "Henry," she gasped, turning her pale, ghastly face away, "I thought that would make me feel better, but it doesn't!"

DEVICE TO RECOVER GOLD.

Sunk 100 Years Ago in a British Warship.

To the mouth of the River Colne, off Brightlingsea, England, an extraordinary machine was towed and anchored the other day. It is to be used in a final attempt to recover the $2,500,000 treasure of gold, in coins and bars, which is said to have gone down in the British warship Lutine in 1797, near the Island of Rorschelling, off the coast of Holland.

A portion of the treasure has been recovered, but an ordinary dredging plant is now useless, as the vessel has sunk into the sand. The new device is a great steel tube nearly 100 feet in length, and wide enough to allow a man to walk erect down its centre. At one end is a metal chamber provided with windows and doors, and at the other a medley of giant hooks and other tackle.

The apparatus has just been completed, after years of work, by Messrs. Forrest and Co., shipbuilders, in their Wyvenhoe yard. "One end of the tube," explained a member of the firm, "will be clamped to the side of a steamship or barge. The other end, by means of water ballast tanks, will be sunk until it touches the bottom. Then, by means of compressed air, all the water will be forced from the chamber at the bottom of it, which will be flush upon the bed of the sea.

"Divers will walk down a stairway in the centre of the tube until they reach the submerged chamber. Here they will don their diving costumes, and, opening a series of watertight doors, will step straight out into the water. Engineers will be stationed in the chamber, and following the instructions of the divers, who will communicate with them by means of portable telephones, they will operate the mechanism of two powerful suction pumps or dredges which are fitted to the sides of the tube. These dredgers, it is hoped, will suck away the sand around the sides of the heavy chamber until it gradually sinks by its own weight right down on the dock of the wrecked ship. Then the divers, making their way from the chamber to the deck of the ship, and thence to the hold, will be able to transfer the treasure from the ship to the chamber by easy stages."

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

ART NOTE.

Although women pretend to dislike battery, they invariably want their photographs retouched.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

NAILS MEND BROKEN LIMBS.

French doctors have found an ingenious but simple remedy for fractures, in the use of aluminum nails. For a simple fracture of the shinbone, or of the tibia, a nail of nickel aluminum or magnesium is driven in to hold the two pieces together. Nails of ivory and bone have been used, but it has been discovered that the aluminum and magnesium nails are absorbed by the system after they have performed their function.

AMERICA'S EX-CHAMPION WRESTLER

SAYS:
"After my great wrestling match with J. Mellor, of Staleybridge, at the Crystal Palace, England, for the International Championship, I was covered with cuts and bruises. I applied my favorite balm, Zam-Buk, and in a marvellously short time the abrasions and cuts were healed and I was fit and well again. At another time I had a piece of flesh almost torn completely off my arm above the elbow. I anticipated being unable to do anything with the arm for a long time. To my delight, however, Zam-Buk closed up the wound in two days. In three days it was covered with new skin, and a few days after, there was no trace of the injury. I recommend Zam-Buk for cuts, bruises or skin injuries of any kind."

Yours truly,
HUGH LANNON.

The above testimony given by Mr. Lannon when visiting Toronto shows the great value of Zam-Buk for injuries received in outdoor sport.

Baseball, Football and Lacrosse players should always keep Zam-Buk handy. It prevents cuts and injuries "taking the wrong turn." It stops the pain and smarting, and heals. It is also an excellent embrocation, curing stiffness, sprains, twits, etc. Used and recommended by Sherring, the Marathon winner; Madral, the world's second greatest wrestler, etc.

FLIES AS GERM CARRIERS.

Therefore Keep Food Under Screen in Darkness.

Flies hate darkness, and have been shown by experiment to lose all interest in even the most tempting food if there is no light.

Advantage should be taken of this characteristic of the fly, and the larder should be in such a location that the food may be kept in darkness besides being thoroughly protected from fly contamination by the use of efficient fly screens.

The normal healthy person rarely allows a fly to come into intimate contact with the easily infected mucous membranes of his mouth, nostrils or eyes, so it is by food contamination that these germ-carriers do their greatest damage.

We may not be public spirited enough to attempt in any practical way to prevent flies breeding in our stables, but since recent scientific investigations have proved the possibilities of the fly as a disease carrier the mere human instinct of self-preservation should make us take every precaution to keep existing flies from coming into contact with people suffering from germ diseases.

A few shillings would pay for serviceable fly screens for the typhoid patient's room and for the kitchen and larder as well.

Flies have been placed in a large sterile bell glass under which a small dish containing a gelatine culture of live typhoid bacilli has been put. After waiting until the flies have walked about on the typhoid culture this has been gently withdrawn and a dish containing carefully sterilized gelatine has been inserted in its place. After the flies had walked about on this sterile gelatine the dish was removed and put under conditions of moisture, temperature, etc., suitable to the growth and development of typhoid bacilli if any were present.

In a long series of such experiments in nearly all cases, bacilli grew and multiplied on the gelatine medium which had been quite sterile until contaminated by the flies.

Since we cannot hope absolutely to exterminate the species, a single member of which can carry enough bacteria to devastate an army, precautions must be taken to keep the fly away from the sick as much as possible—by means of fly poison solutions and by screen, and also away from food.

"Thomas," said Major Hartigan, as he gazed into his son's eyes with a soul-searching look, "have you eaten any of those peaches your mother put in the cupboard?"

"Father," said Tommy, "I cannot tell a lie. I have not touched one."

The Major eyed him wrathfully as he plunged his hand into the pocket of his coat and drew forth five incriminating stones, which had once been ensnared in the luscious flesh of a peach.

"Then how is it," said the parent, "that I find these peach stones in your bedroom, while there is only one peach left in the cupboard?"

"Father," said Thomas, as he silently but swiftly left the room and placed a chair in such a position that his father would fall over it if he followed too quickly—"father, that is the one I never touched!"
