

IMPOSED FINE ON WITNESS

Who Did Not Obey Summons to Attend Inquest?

Coroner Anderson Takes Steps to Maintain Authority.

No Blame on Any One For the Chown Accident.

Coroner Anderson presided last evening at the adjourned session of the inquest on the death of Mary Myrtle Chown, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Chown, 19 Locke street south, who died as the result of injuries received by being struck by a street car, which was driving the street car, said that he was proceeding east on King street just past Locke street when the accident happened. A market gardener's rig had just passed him on the north side of the street when the little girl ran out from behind the wagon and fell in front of his car. He dropped the fender, but too late, the little body had passed beneath it. He applied the brakes hard and stopped the car in its own length, and then informed the conductor of the accident. The car was climbing a grade and Clark was positive it was not travelling faster than eight miles an hour.

Dr. Rennie was called to the scene of the accident and told of attending the injured child there, and afterwards at the City Hospital. He said shock was the cause of death.

Dr. Bates, who assisted in the post-mortem, corroborated the evidence of Dr. Rennie.

John Rae, conductor, said he did not see the accident, but picked the child up and carried her into the house of Dr. MacRobert. As the doctor was called, Dr. Rennie was called. He then went out to search for witnesses.

The next witness, Mrs. Christopher, said she saw the little girl crossing the street. She had a skipping rope in her hand and was throwing it ahead of her. She crossed both tracks and stood on the sidewalk on the opposite side for a few minutes, and then started to cross the road again. She was not looking where she was going, but was looking at the rope in her hands. Mrs. Christopher was in the house at the time and when she saw the car approaching she pulled the curtain down. She could not give the child any warning and could not stand to see her run over. She helped to pick up the child who was lying about twelve feet behind the car. Mrs. Christopher said that she had just received word a short time before of the death of an intimate friend and was somewhat excited when the accident happened and could not swear as to whether or not the bell on the car was ringing. She did not see a rig on the street and was inclined to believe that the bell did not ring.

William Wythe, a barber, said he saw the car pass his window and that it was going rather slowly, but was gradually increasing its speed. He heard a grinding noise and looking out saw that the car had stopped. The child had just rolled out from under the back end and was all rolled up in a ball.

Mrs. Melody was on the car but her testimony did not vary much from that of the previous witnesses.

Albert Chown, father of the deceased, said his child had been warned to keep off the street car tracks and had gone on messages before without coming to any harm. She was very seldom allowed out on the street.

The evidence had all been taken at this point but at the request of the jury, Victor Clark was recalled. The foreman asked him if he was sure there was a rig on the street.

Clark was positive of it, and was allowed to go. Conductor Rae was again put on the stand and asked if he was prepared to swear that a rig passed the car just before the accident. He was sure of it.

The jury considered the evidence for about a half an hour and then brought in the following verdict: "We, the jury, find that the death of Myrtle Chown came to her death by being struck by a street car, which was purely accidental, and we exonerate the crew of any blame. The jury is also of the opinion that the under-gearing of the cars is faulty in being too low and steps should be taken to have same rectified."

Coroner Anderson voiced his intention after the inquest of fining James Allen four dollars for not appearing at the inquest to give evidence. Allen was summoned in the regular way but did not appear. Allen telephoned the coroner yesterday and told him that he had a very sick relative in Toronto and he wanted to go there and see him he would be unable to attend the inquest. The coroner told him that he would not be able to take his evidence over the telephone and that he had better be present and the inquest would be adjourned and he would have to pay $4 for his disobedience.

BRONCHITIS Colds, Coughs, Catarrh and Throat Trouble.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing, and restorative remedy. The best remedy for ailments in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at its source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhose."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixer with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are treated with rich pure, medicinal essences whereas if a liquid or tablet remedy were used, the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through burning the stomach with drugs.

"CATARRHOSE."

A Breathable "Direct" Medicine. No medicine brings such prompt relief, exerts such an invigorating influence, or so thoroughly and speedily cures throat troubles as "Catarrhose." Doctors, hospitals, sanitarians—all say that for those who suffer from changeable weather, for those who are predisposed to catarrh, lung trouble, deafness or bronchitis, no treatment is so judicious as "Catarrhose."

For certain cure, for relief in an hour use Catarrhose, the only direct, breathable medicine. Two months' treatment, guaranteed price $1; smaller size 50c; at all druggists, or the Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.

JOHN PATTERSON

Has Done More For Hamilton Than Any Other Living Man.

(Canadian Courier.)

In Ontario there are many power developments but Niagara and Detour are the greatest. The discoverer of Decew Falls was Mr. John Patterson, whom some declare to have done more for the city of Hamilton than any other living man, no, excepting the present Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, Mr. Patterson is an Irishman by birth. In 1878 he and his brother, started out to build houses in Hamilton. They built hundreds of them. Mr. Patterson then got interested in iron, and Hamilton has since been making Canadian iron. He also secured the charter for the Cataract Power Company, but it was many years before he could get capitalists to see the great profit which eventually would be made out of it. When the Cataract Power Company got going it soon absorbed the Hamilton Industrial Railway Company and other organizations. It is now one of the largest corporations in Ontario.

THE KICKERS' COLUMN

BEACH ROAD STATION.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—Isn't it about time the Radial Company woke up and erected a decent station at Beach Road? The present station is a disgrace to an up-to-date electric road, and it is about time the management relieved the situation and built a shelter where a person can find protection from wind and rain. Probably the company is waiting for another strong windstorm from the west to carry the present station into the lake, which is composed of old railway ties for the foundation, rotten lumber and sufficient signs nailed thereon which gives it the appearance of a tin factory. As the people who have to walk two or three miles to this particular point to take the car are afforded no protection whatever in this old shelter, if the Radial would get a move on and do something for the patrons at this point, particularly those who patronize the road the whole year round, they would certainly remove the litter feeling now existing against the company. EARLY UNDERWRITERS.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—To decide an argument, please say where and by whom insurance was first introduced. Edward L. If you refer to life insurance, the best information we can give you is that the first life insurance office was the Amicable, established in 1706, in London, England. Fire insurance had been introduced long before that time. It was conducted in Italy as far back as 1194, and in England in 1500. It is said that the Emperor Claudius was the first to introduce the insurance of ships, in the year A. D. 43.—Ed.

THE NAME "DREADNOUGHT."

Editor Times,—Will you please say who first gave to these big warships the name "Dreadnought?" British All Through.

We are unable to say. "Dreadnought" was the name of a ship engaged in the battle of Trafalgar on Oct. 21, 1805. It was the first ship of the line for seamen of all nations in 1821.—Ed.

VICTIMS OF AN UNDERHAND METHOD.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—I would like to say a few words through the columns of your paper in relation to the so-called "Indian" list. The majority of those whose names appear on the list do not know the party or parties who make the complaints. If they go to the inspector to find out who against them, his answer is always the same, "I won't tell you, or you can't name me, so there is no use asking." So you can see there is no way for the victim of this malicious method of defending himself. If some of the so-called "Indians" would get the names of the men who are making the charges, they could then go to the inspector to assist them in finding out if the complainants are bona fide relatives or friends—or enemies. If there is a little spot in the household, the threat invariably is, "I will put you on the Indian list." They do so in the heat of their passion, and then the man will quit his employment, and a few days after the woman will be back to the inspector to have his name cancelled. There is one young man who has held his position in one place for the past sixteen years, and he was dismissed last New Year's day on going into a hotel to be told he could not be served, as he was an "Indian." He is still groping in the dark, trying to discover his accuser. In conclusion, I would say that the magistrate should be vested with the power to say who should be placed on this list, which is so popular with the women folk, and perhaps then the victim would get a chance to defend himself. If he was eligible for the list the magistrate could

FAIR PLAY WANTED FOR HOTEL MAN.

To the Editor of the Times: Sir,—It gave me great pleasure last evening, while scanning over my usual hour of pleasure, in my nightly welcome, after my day's labor is past, to find in your most valuable paper, the Evening Times, a letter from one of your subscribers, over the name of plume of "Fair Play to All Men." I was very pleased with the tone and also the principle of the letter. Being a lover of fair play myself and a lifelong resident of the north end of this city, and I may state I have known the person alluded to in "Fair Play to All Men" letter from boyhood, and during that time I have always found the present licensee, holder of the Bay View Hotel to be straightforward, honest and above board in all his dealings, and only recently, although but young in years, he has the courage of a true business man, as far as speculative propensities are concerned. This young gentleman in question has wanted to accept of an expense to lay the foundation stone of our would-be Greater Hamilton, and who can do more than invest and further make developments of this greater city, and yet for his one sin, which, to the Magistrate's bench time, trouble was turned, he was honorably enough to own up to his guilt and suffer the penalty of the court. Would to heaven that every one in Hamilton at the present were half as honorable, what a great deal of trouble it would save the city and citizens alike, but, as your correspondent quotes, and I quote the same, that is, I trust that the gentleman of the License Commissioners will reconsider their decision in this matter and at the same time take into consideration the amount of trouble and expense the young man has taken upon himself to furnish the city of Hamilton with an up-to-date hotel building for those who visit by G. T. R. or lake navigation this city. There is only one conclusion that they can arrive at, and that is, that the Bay View Hotel is the only up-to-date and decent hotel building north of the Hotel Royal. Again asking the gentlemen of the License Commissioners to reconsider their previous decision, I am, sir, yours truly, An Advocate for Justice.
