ANOTHER REST

Now that the Election is over, Canada will have a breathing spell once more, waiting for the New Government to show its Executive ability, and all the glories of the new prosperity, oratorically pictured, and promised by the so-called Liberal Party.

The Advocate has no apology to offer for the cause it chose to maintain during the contest, and acknowledges with pride, the handsome support given to the Conservative Candidate. When the canvases were against Mr. McCurdy are brought in to account, the wonder is that his poll stands so good.

As to our opponents they are quite welcome to the result. Notwithstanding all their efforts up to the Saturday night before the election, their case was a hopeless one, and the Morrisseyites feared defeat. Their tone was very different on Monday morning, and the dependents of the week before wore a smile, and declared their victory was a foregone conclusion. It seems it was, results have made it so.

Taking into account, the fact that the late government sustained defeat, it is perhaps more satisfactory that a supporter of the New Government should be in place at Ottawa. At any rate under the circumstances Mr. McCurdy is as well pleased to be at home, as had he been elected, he would have been in Opposition.

As it is we are in the hands of a Representative, whom we still think unfit for the position. M. P. at the end of his name, makes, it no more politically honorable, than the name

PAINS SO BAD
STAYED IN BED

Young Mrs. Becroft Had Miserable Time Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back, and for about a week at a time I could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Compound to several friends."—Mrs. Emily Becroft, 269 Victoria Ave. N., Hamilton, Ontario.

For forty years women have been telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ill. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women, why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It is made from native roots and herbs and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

he bore already that of Hon. John Morrissey. He is simply what he is, that and nothing more. Men do not gather grapes off thorns, or figs off thistles.

Whatever good John Morrissey may do or be the means of doing for Northumberland, will be duly acknowledged in the Advocate. Our attitude will be that of watching and waiting. If he spoke the truth, King has already promised Jack to build the Tracadie Railway for him, a fine promise for a man to make, who said he would build no more railways etc. The Hon. John, has also promised the Chelmsford Bridge; in fact the list of promises 'if they only put him in, would take up too much of our space to publish. We feel satisfied our readers, and the general public, who know what they are worth, will pardon us for not inflicting such a list upon them.

The supporters of the Conservative Party in Northumberland County, have not by any means lost hope in their good cause. They are as sincerely attached as ever to the political principles so ably and consistently announced and defended by the Hon. Arthur Meighen, and when the occasion again arises will be ready to rally to the standard, as faithfully as ever. Today the Liberal party, is a house divided against itself, a mixture of policies, which will not unite, with a single Province holding the whip hand. Can it stand?

In the meantime, be sure, when the fall comes, to be ready for the emergency, and begin now. While waiting, as was advised in our last issue, in reference to John Morrissey, watch closely his career in the House and Judge him accordingly. It would not surprise us if he defeated himself.

BAD BOYS

Editor of Advocate:—

Sir:— Can nothing be done to stop the profanity, and obscene talk indulged in by some bad boys in our town? Names could easily be given, as I have made some enquiries, but I refrain for the present. If parents, or those having home authority, will not stop this sort of thing, some other course must be taken, as the law can interfere.

I was passing along a principal street, the other Sunday evening, and the conduct, and Sabbath breaking was shocking. Boys and girls, some of them just after being at Sunday School were congregated at a hill opposite bottom of a street coming from the railway, and sledding down it, jostling one another, using loud talk, hollering and some of them swearing among them some of the worst boys in town. Respectable parents should not allow their children to go there, and every one having proper regard for Gods day, should have this Sabbath breaking put a stop to. If parents wont do it, or dont care, let the town authorities try their hand.

Dec. 9th, 1921 A MOTHER

THE "WHOOOPER"

The "Whooper" resumed a daily service yesterday. This matter was strenuously taken up with the Railway authorities by Mr. E. A. McCurdy, with the result that the train has been re-instated, and will relieve a great inconvenience to residents of the up-river districts. Orders for the change, were issued previous to the election.

HALIFAX DISASTER

Election day, was the fourth anniversary of the Halifax explosion, which occurred Dec. 6th 1917. Two thousand people were killed, and the north end of the city laid in ruins. The rebuilt portions of Richmond and the Northend, presents a better appearance, than they had before the disaster, and it is expected that complete re-establishment, will be gained before very long.

FAYOLLE ON CANADA.

Vastness of Land Compared to His Beloved France.

Marshal Fayolle, head of the French Mission to Canada has written up for the Revue des Deux Mondes the diary of his official tour. The narrative is crisp and yet illuminating, and bears no trace of the stomach trouble which too many banquets are said to have given the author. Not the least remarkable is what might be termed the peroration. Here the Frenchman finds eloquent tongue in prophecy as to the future of the two countries. The passage was based on a comparison of Canadian scenery with the scenery along the homeward route between Havre and Paris. The following are the magnificent concluding paragraphs of the report:

"In Canada, all is vast, almost boundless; here all is beauty and harmony. On the one hand, the immensity of territory, plains and forests which reach away to infinity, rivers which spread out over thousands of miles, while crossing lakes which are like flowers on the other hands, landscapes in a fairy-like frame that is continually changing, always with finish that is exquisite in incomparable variety. Yonder, enormous latent treasures; here, admirable delights perfected throughout the centuries. Yonder, the future with its vast hopes; here, the past with the treasures of a marvelous history which is not yet finished, whose most recent chapter written in blood, illuminated with victories, is the most glorious of all. In both cases, hands of workers and glow of soul in confidence for the future.

"O French Canada, how we understand your motto: 'I remember.' This motto, we make it ours; we too, we remember.

"It is in this union of thoughts that we murmur lovingly, while the train bears us towards Paris: 'Hail, land of our fathers, whom your separated children and those who dwell with you love with an equal love; hail, O beloved France, queen of motherlands!'

Marshal Fayolle."

Color and Crime.

If a prisoner is in for premeditated violence put him in a cell with walls the hue of the daffodil; if his act is one of passionate violence, his term should be served in a cell of blue; if he is being punished for burglary, ensnare him in a dungeon of violet and black.

For the human being is responsive to color just as the king of the cow pasture re-acts to red, according to Mr. Kemp Prossor, the color specialist, quoted in a San Francisco paper. His color prescriptions were made public when he took occasion to deprecate the idea of prisoners choosing their own colors.

People who have committed a violent crime which they have been contemplating for many years should be placed in a cell colored yellow or orange, as the colors stimulate the brain and tend to drive out morbidity, he says. If the crime has been done on the spur of the moment, blue or bluish green should be used, for they are soothing colors. A man confined a few years in a cell so tinted would probably be quite altered. All cells should have a blue ceiling, to drive away the idea of being confined within four walls, which preys on the prisoner's mind.

Burglars rarely have any money. They rob for the love of the game more than anything, says Mr. Prossor. They love excitement. To break down that spirit of adventure a scheme of violet, black, and a little blue should be used. In some institutions the predominant color should be pink. The color scheme of 75 per cent. of English homes is pink. That color will impress on the boy thieves and others the idea of returning to the home. This decoration of prison cells could be done very easily and very cheaply.

Danger In Fog.

In a heavy fog there is danger of collision between ships because the uniform signals used merely indicate their presence, and tell nothing of their course or direction. A sea captain of long experience now has devised a system which overcomes this difficulty, says Popular Mechanics. Four signal horns of different tones are used, two sirens, a shrill whistle, and a steam gong, all of which are operated by foot levers. Each of these corresponds to one quadrant of the compass, and is operated only when the ship's course lies in that general direction. The four divisions of the quadrant itself are indicated by varying the signals, as, for example, one long blast, a long and short, a long and two short, and two long. A recording mechanism is connected to the signal equipment and serves as evidence in case of subsequent question as to the handling of the ship.

Eggs Boiled In Oil.

A new method of sterilizing eggs, as a preliminary to cold storage, consists in immersing them for five seconds in an oil solution at 250 degrees Fahrenheit. This brief exposure to a heat considerably above the boiling point of water is sufficient to kill not only whatever bacteria the eggs may contain, but also the vital principle in those of them that are fertile.

Electrical machinery does the work. It is claimed that the eggs are in no way injured by the treatment and, when afterward put into cold storage they retain their freshness much longer.

A Famous Flower Market.

In the famous Covent Garden flower market in London, Eng., the work of carrying is done largely by women porters. A somewhat odd recognition of their work is received annually by these flower porters in the shape of a shawl and two aprons each, a gift from the Duchess of Bedford.

ANOTHER CALAMITY

Look out for 1926. The new Canadian Government is to be blown to smithereens. The world will cut loose from its foundations, in every way, politically, spiritually and physically. London will be buried in the Thames, Paris in the Seine and New York in the Hudson. There will be a general turning up-side-down, and inside out. There will be another great war, the last big battle, the final Armageddon. Four great powers are to be in the fight, which will end in a British victory and "the second coming." There will be another disarmament Conference, and lasting universal peace. The prophet who tells of this, has before now been astray, and Mercury and Mars may not "conjecture" enough. If they did we couldn't help it.

PARLIAMENT

If at first you don't succeed—try, try again.

JUSTICE AT LAST

The terrible crime, committed when the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine, under the brutal command of Captain Schwioger; is brought to mind again, by the tragic end of that piratical murderer.

He became an object of almost universal reprobation, on account of his war record; and was hunted from country to country. At last he found a resting place in Paraguay, and became naturalized. His knowledge of Seamanship gained him a position as Capt. of a warship; the Adolfo Roqueime.

His natural brutality soon showed itself, when he had the power. Finally, the crew of the warship could stand it no longer. They rebelled against his harsh discipline, and brutal treatment. He was seized, flogged and thrown into the sea. His life was a curse; his end a tragedy, his epitaph—well merited, it was just.
