"The Power of The Sword."

At last we have brought the genius of the Advocate to write a sensible editorial article, but though we are sincere enough to compliment him upon his departure from the usual channels of literary prostitution, we cannot help from observing that the burden of his daily plaint is of the "Help me Cassius or I sink" quality. Moreover there is another hand to the pen, but that does not count. When Esculapius comes to the assistance of Calliope, there is something more than a conspiracy in the union, and though neither the one nor the other could cap Marc Antony with the asseveration of Brutus at hand—yet we think we can prove that conspiracy wears its native guise within the tiled doors of Union Councils. The fomentor of trouble possibly forgets certain episodes in his career, when by advice and action he sought to have followers commit breaches of the peace. But these apparently have been forgotten, because it is not convenient to remember them. However we shall do our best to refresh the memories of all parties concerned. The days when Coaker bestrode the narrow world of the North, "like a Colossus" and all the petty men "walked under his huge legs" have come to an end, because these same men have discovered that they "are masters of their fate" and are no longer content to be underlings. Conjure with these then, Mr. Advocate, and go back to the 16th day of November, in the year of grace one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, when in solemn convention assembled at Catalina, Mr. Coaker made his annual address to the delegates of the Fishermen's Protective Union incorporating therein the following advice, which we have been at some pains to procure from the columns of the Advocate of succeeding date, wherein Mr. Coaker advises his followers to invoke the "power of the sword" in the attainment of their aims. We forbear from comment at the moment, but may have something to say about this incitement to rebellion on any Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday that suits, regardless of the Advocate's wish that we should reply to any of the expressions of that paper instantly. In reprinting this advice of Mr. Coaker in black type, we do so only to emphasize the desire of the man that violence should be called into play, when it would be of advantage to him, and any deluded adherents of his order. When his own skin is pricked he loudly appeals to the very authority, which he on occasion disowns, to protect him from the just wrath of the populace. Here are his own words, verbatim—

"You will recall that last year this Council passed a Resolution in reference to appointing defeated candidates to the Executive Council and to high positions of emolument. You further requested that the vacant departmental positions be also filled by new appointees who were to appeal to the electorate for endorsement of their acceptance of office. You also pointed out, in resolutions presented to the Governor that failure to do so would be regarded as a violation of sound constitutional principle and public

Poppy Day.

ANNUAL EVENT ON NOV. 11th. This day week, Nov. 11th, Poppy Day will be featured in a more extensive manner than heretofore in Nfld. In all, about forty thousand Poppies have been imported from England. Of this number some 25,000 are being forwarded to the principal outposts. In St. John's the distribution is being looked after by Mrs. W. H. Fraser, who has as assistants an energetic band of young ladies. As the outposts are entering wholeheartedly into the scheme this year and the city's contribution is assured, a substantial sum should be realized. The funds will be used for the benefit of disabled soldiers and sailors. During next week various stores are giving displays on behalf of the movement, while pamphlets, etc., will be distributed at the different moving picture houses.

Opera "Erminie."

IN HANDS OF ALL STAR CASTE. As will be seen by the ad. in today's paper, Mr. Chas. Hutton's production of the Opera "Erminie" will take place in the Casino on Nov. 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th. He is of the opinion that it will be his best production and that it is saying a great deal. The music, which is delightful, and the dialogue very funny and witty, is in the hands of all star casts, while the orchestra will be an outstanding feature. The costumes, which were imported specially from New York are very handsome and picturesque, and will be made still more so by the magnificent lighting effects. It is so rare to have anything of this kind in St. John's, we are sure that Mr. Hutton's efforts will be rewarded by bumper houses.

Those Inspired Assaults.

The Northern Fishermen will not fail to notice how fiercely and unrelentingly the Advocate attacks Mr. Morine, in relation to their movement to increase the price of fish and decrease taxation. The false assertion is continuously made that their struggle for bread is his struggle for power, that they are but his tools, and that their professions are fraudulent. The offence Mr. Morine has committed, in the Advocate's eyes, is that he dares to work for the fishermen, to help them in their struggle for existence. Why else is he singled out for the vulgar abuse which is aimed at him day after day. To say that the Advocate does this cowardly thing is equivalent to saying that Coaker does it, for the Advocate is his supply tool, directed from his skulking place in Fort Union. Absent from the post of duty, deserting the very men whose votes placed him in the office, whose salary he takes, but whose duty he neglects, he sees a better and abler man doing the work he should be doing, and his wrath consumes him. He directs his hirelings to abuse the man who by his work for them is supplanting him in the hearts of the fishermen. It was not long ago, when Coaker claimed, and perhaps deserved, to some extent, the name of "the Fishermen's Friend," but he has turned his coat, and deserted the cause. The fishermen should show their resentment in no uncertain way. Why should their friends be assailed for doing their work?

Special Services at the Kirk.

A special series of Sunday Evening Services has been arranged by Rev. R. T. Power, bearing particularly on the home life of the people, commencing tomorrow evening with the subject, "The Modern Examples of Homes." These addresses treated by Mr. Power in his own undivided way will be most interesting and instructive, and appropriate music will be rendered by the organist and choir. Visitors will cordially be welcomed and accommodated as well as possible.

Last night whilst lying at her pier at the dock, the Meigle pounded heavily and did considerable damage to the gump heads to which she was moored. No word of the disabled ship has been reported here since she first reported her position.

McMurdo's Store News.

SATURDAY, Nov. 4. Eye trouble is more or less prevalent at all seasons, but perhaps it is more common in Autumn, the season when cold winds and dust come together, than at other times of the year. At any rate, at the moment, inflammation of the eye is often seen, and while not in itself a serious thing, may, if neglected, lead to serious results. For simple cases of ophthalmia, it is usually sufficient to bathe the eyes well with a solution of boracic acid in hot water, especially at night, and to apply a little McMurdo's Gold-eye Ointment afterwards. Marked improvement is usually a speedy result. Price 30c. a box.

54 inch COSTUME TWEEDS, choice patterns. Selling at BOWTINGS for $1.35 a yard.

Muddy Thoroughfare.

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN. Residents of the Southside are complaining about the filthy condition of the street leading from Water Street over the Lone Bridge to the Southside Road. They need this vicinity its ankle deep in places, and the many citizens who have to travel on foot and from this neighbourhood hope that the Council will attend to the matter. Probably a good suggestion would be to continue the proposed plank walk from the Southside along this thoroughfare.

The Chinese Murder Case.

MR. L. E. EMERSON WILL DEFEND. "Wo Fun Game" was present at the Supreme Court this morning, but at the request of the Deputy Minister of Justice, for the Crown the arraignment of the Chinese prisoner was postponed until Monday, Nov. 6th, at 11 a.m. The Court has appointed Mr. L. E. Emerson to defend the prisoner, who will plead not guilty to the murder charges. What the plea will be could not be learned. Counsel visited the penitentiary this forenoon and interviewed the defendant as to his defence.

Magistrates Court.

A case in which a man was drunk while in charge of a horse and driving without lights, was postponed. The defendant could not appear owing to illness. The nine boys arrested on a charge of larceny, appeared before the Juvenile Court yesterday afternoon, and having confessed their guilt were sentenced to the penitentiary to receive six lashes of the birch. The case against a well known Water Street grocer, preferred by a man from Scotland, in which the latter sued his employee for balance of wages due under the six months contract, was heard this morning. It appears the plaintiff was dismissed from the service of the company. The man came out here from the Old Country only in September last. The case did not conclude up to 1 p.m. Mr. W. Brown, B.L., for the plaintiff, Mr. H. Winter, B.L., defendant.

Wedding Bells.

EVERARD-STACK. Petty Harbor was the scene of a very pretty autumn wedding on Sunday, Oct. 22nd, when Mr. Edward Everard, only son of Mr. Denis Everard of the Goules, was united in holy matrimony to Miss Lucy Stack, daughter of Mr. Lawrence Stack of Petty Hr. At about 4.30 p.m. the bridal party proceeded to the Deanery, where the ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. Dean Tierney, P.P. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents, where only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were entertained. The bride was tastefully attired in a dress of white tulle with lace to match, and was attended by her sister, Miss Mercedes Stack, while Mr. Robert Doyle, cousin of the groom, ably performed the duties of best man. The presents received were many, testifying to the esteem in which both parties are held. About midnight the happy couple left for the Goules, where they will in future reside. The Telegram joins with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Everard in wishing them a very pleasant voyage over the matrimonial sea.

SACRED CONCERT A TREAT.

The Sacred Concert in the Nickel Theatre to-morrow night promises to be well patronized. Those who have heard the C.C.C. Band practice under the conductorship of Mr. Frank Bradshaw, say that a treat is in store.

It was a real pleasure to observe the enthusiasm of women at BISHOP'S Dress Sale yesterday, as they made their choice from hosts of styles, admired the graceful lines of the models, and frankly admitted that they had never seen anywhere such well-made, stylish dresses at such small prices.

All nominations for seats in the British Parliament must be in the hands of officials at noon to-day, and it was expected that the rush to abdicate, but the general opinion is that he will ignore the Angora decision.
