HOW FAT FOLKS MAY BECOME THIN.

By Elizabeth Thomas.
Perhaps you are suddenly becoming stout, or it may be that you have been putting on weight for years. In either case the cause is the same—the lack of oxygen-carrying power of the blood. This trouble occurs in adults of both sexes and all ages, but it may be overcome very easily and without any of the privations that most people imagine necessary to reduce their weight. Simply go to your druggist and get some oil of orris capsules. Take one after each meal and one before going to bed. Weigh yourself so as to know just how fast you are losing weight. Wonderful results have been accomplished by this inexpensive recipe, but be sure to get the genuine oil of orris capsules. It is sold only in original sealed packages. Any large druggist can supply you, or a large size box will be sent on receipt of $1 postal note or money order. Address: D. J. Little Drug Company, Box 1240, Montreal, Canada.

MECHANICAL VOICE AND HUMAN CANNOT BE DISTINGUISHED

Edison "Acid Test" Reveals Qualities of Phonograph.

WONDERFUL EXHIBITION

Artists Demonstrated Reincarnation of Voice and Instrument by Machine.

One of the most novel and interesting recitals which music-lovers of London have ever been privileged to attend in this city was given last evening in St. Peter's Parish Hall by a whole constellation of celebrated stars.

But the event was a remarkable one apart from the merit of the artists, who contributed to the program. It was a demonstration which indisputably proved that the wizard of invention, the great Edison, has given to the world an instrument which not only reproduces, but actually recreates tone.

Edison is the only inventor who has dared to throw out to the public the challenge of presenting the artist whose musical efforts have been recorded along with the record. It was such an experiment that was tried last evening in St. Peter's Parish Hall.

This is a man speaking. Think what all this must mean to the women—think of the terrible anguish of the little children, stricken and suffering and not even understanding why. The Belgian Relief Committee has to do more than feed these people, it has to keep up the morale of the Belgian population in the occupied territory. This feature alone should be sufficient to prompt every one of the men, women and children of the allied nations, not doing his bit, to help.

There is a branch of the Belgian Relief Committee in your town or near at hand. Surely you can see the necessity for help. The dollar that means little to you here means much there. Help feed them, help keep up their splendid morale. Millions of dollars a month are needed to do this. If next to the committee in your town, then send your gift, large or small as you can afford, to the Belgian Relief Committee, 39 St. Peter street, Montreal.

It was all weird and wonderful and entertaining and the many who attended owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. McPhillips for the trouble and the opportunity of witnessing the application of the third degree to a modern invention, which came out of the trial entirely acquitted of any false pretences and with flying colors.

Scholarship Winner.

Harold L. Lyman, flutist, one of the demonstrators, and also the lecturer, first introduced Mr. Williamson, tenor of New York, who holds the highest paid church position in that city. Mr. Lyman, born in Sunderland, England, 23 years ago, worked in the mines until the age of 20, when he won a Royal Academy of Music scholarship in a competition in which he took part. He has sung before the King and Queen by command, and for four years ago with the Century Opera Company.

Was it possible that Mr. Williamson could sing with his own record and a difference in the quality of tone not be detected?

A well-known number, Absent, by Metcalfe was first chosen for experiment, the artist standing close to the talking machine. The lips of the artist were still as there floated from the music box tones of wonderful purity and beauty, the notes of a lyric tenor. The tone increased in volume. Mr. Williamson was singing with himself. The most sensitive ear could not detect the slightest difference between the tone of the singer and the tone of the mechanical device. Both were equally liquid, flexible and vibrant.

Of several numbers, probably the best tested given by Mr. Williamson were Open the Gates of the Temple, in which, during the repetition of the words "he knows," he stood at a distance from the phonograph, and in the dramatically rendered composition of Stephen Adams's Thora. For the second part of Thora the lights were turned out.

An Artistic Triumph.
Out to the audience came the words of the song, of passion and sorrow and regret, each word distinctly enunciated, the whole an artistic triumph. "The machine has stopped and Mr. Williamson is singing alone," was the exclamation of a number. Others believed the artist and his record were being heard together. When the lights suddenly flashed on, the stage was empty of human presence and the only evidence which remained to the moving number was an unemotional looking box well in the foreground.

Equally remarkable were the "acid tests" made by Mr. Lyman with his flute. Tuning his flute to the record, he presented The Butterfly by Bondix, with the laboratory re-creation of a number. Others believed the artist and his record were being heard together. When the lights suddenly flashed on, the stage was empty of human presence and the only evidence which remained to the moving number was an unemotional looking box well in the foreground.

Another delightful number was the record of Charming Glens from Le Petit du Bresil, by David, sung by Miss Anna Case, with flute obligato. Mr. Lyman playing with the flute obligato.

Uncanny Difference.
The marvelous exactness of the Edison re-creations of tone was revealed in a couple of violin selections, a fact that no two violins are exactly alike in tone any more than any two voices are exactly alike. Moreover, no violin sounds quite the same when played by two different people. The first record given was a re-creation of Le Menuetier (Wienawski) as played by Carl Flesch on his Stradivarius violin. In this, the robustness of the tone was particularly noted. Next was heard a re-creation of Meditation, (Thais (Massenet)), as played by Albert Spalding on a Guarnerius violin, exquisitely delicate and honey-sweet in tone.

It was almost unbelievable that such difference could exist, and almost unbelievable in the manner in which it was revealed.

The possibilities of the re-creation of piano music were revealed by a record of a piano solo by Andre Denost, The Two Larks, by Leschetitzky.

BROKE CITY LAW

Citizens Who Burned Leaves on Pavements Must Appear in Court.

Several summonses have been issued by Chief Williams against citizens charged with burning leaves on the street. The city council passed a bylaw some weeks ago prohibiting the burning of leaves on the street, due to the detrimental effect on the pavement. The police department was asked at the time of the passing of the bylaw to enforce the measure to the fullest extent. Summons were published at the time, but notwithstanding several citizens have persisted in burning the leaves on the pavement contrary to the bylaw. As a result these people will appear in court on Tuesday. Chief Williams again warns citizens that all future violations will mean a summons to police court.

SUFFERING OF BELGIANS BEYOND IMAGINATION

The situation here is simply frightful, writes a resident of the Belgian town of Alost, describing the conditions that exist in that place under German rule.

For the last three months, he continues, we have had no potatoes. The death rate is increasing alarmingly on account of the lack of nutrition and because of the suffering endured.

Numerous cases of insanity and sudden death have been especially noticed. But what is more maddening is the fact that there exists among the people that his neighbor, or the man next to him, may be a German agent. The suffering endured and the pressure of such a state of affairs on the mind are beyond imagination.

Industry in Alost, formerly prosperous, is at a standstill. Were it not for the aid given by the Belgian Relief Committee thousands of unemployed would be reduced to a state of famine. The force of all the work done by the Belgian Relief Committee is brought out in this one statement made by one of the seven million of Belgians who would starve to death today were it not for the activities of the committee. This is a man speaking. Think what all this must mean to the women—think of the terrible anguish of the little children, stricken and suffering and not even understanding why. The Belgian Relief Committee has to do more than feed these people, it has to keep up the morale of the Belgian population in the occupied territory. ## AUTUMN BUSINESS IS CALLED "GOOD" ALL OVER CANADA

Holiday Shows Little Effect on London Trade.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

Optimism Beams in Reports of Good Collections Generally.

London reports to Bradstreet's say that the autumn trade is measuring up to the expectations of those who anticipated advances on last year. Even taking the holiday into account, the volume of business for the week is quite respectable, and is above that of last year in most lines. Cold weather has caused a more active movement in seasonal articles, especially clothing, hats and shoes. The country trade is particularly good. Labor is in great demand and the present time, although the situation is noticeably easier on account of the movement of labor from country to city. Remittances are generally reported to be good.

Toronto reports show that business is holding well up to the standards set at the beginning of the autumn trade, and continued active distribution of labor is assured. There is no cause for complaint in any line of mercantile business, and this is holding back orders are large, and the fall sorting business is now easier after the recent busy period. Fall hardware is moving out satisfactorily, and price advances have been noted in this. The wheat market was somewhat unsettled, but the inherent strength is little changed. Collections are generally good.

Montreal reports say that general business is satisfactory. Constantly advancing prices have tended to minimize the volume of trade.

Winnipeg reports that wholesalers declare general trade to be keeping up steadily. Failures in the west are less numerous than in 1915, because business conditions demand a closer approach to a cash basis. Spring shoe orders are large, and the fall sorting business is now easier after the recent busy period. Fall hardware is moving out satisfactorily, and price advances have been noted in this. The wheat market was somewhat unsettled, but the inherent strength is little changed. Collections are generally good.

LESS THAN $10,000 SO FAR COLLECTED FOR Y.M.C.A. FUND

Canvassers Unable to Cover All Territory.

TO CONTINUE CAMPAIGN

Volunteers Wanted to Help Bring in Another $5,000.

Only $9,459.50 had been collected by the canvassers for the $15,000 Y. M. C. A. fund when they met at a banquet last night in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Of this nearly $1,000 was collected after 1 o'clock. The reason the amount fell short of the intended total is that there were not nearly enough workers. Fully three thousand names were on the canvassers' lists, but of these only one thousand have been reached by the canvassers. This is not because of lack of energy on their part, for everything possible has been done in the three-day campaign, and automobiles have been used to the fullest extent in trying to reach those citizens whom it is thought would be willing to aid the work.

To Continue Campaign.
The workers decided at the banquet that the campaign would not be closed as scheduled, but would be continued until the $15,000 mark was reached. Speeches were made by J. K. Dermid, E. R. Dennis, Alderman Webster, Ray Lawson, John Cottam and A. A. Langford, outlining the course of the campaign and the success with which it had met in such parts as they were able to reach. They emphasized, however, the urgent need of more workers and will appeal to the citizens for more men to assist in the campaign. Each day's work netted almost the same amount, namely $2,000. It was thought that this was an indication that there were still hundreds more who would be willing to aid the organization which has done so much for the men who are serving the country, besides aiding materially in making better citizens of the youths of the country.

Volunteers Wanted.
It was asked that persons willing to assist in the work of canvassing get in touch with A. T. Taylor of the Y. M. C. A. at phone 51. It was pointed out that the work was not difficult, as almost without exception the canvassers had been cordially received by the citizens, and met with generous responses. Those wishing to contributed, and who have not been reached by the canvassers, should also get in touch with Mr. Taylor, and arrangements will be made for receiving the subscription.

The workers will meet again tomorrow night to report further progress in collecting the necessary $5,540.

The captains of the teams so far in the field are R. J. Webster, W. E. Vendall, C. T. Glass, E. C. Mitchell, Ray Lawson, A. A. Langford, P. G. Mitchell, A. E. Silverwood, E. S. Crawford, C. R. May, J. Macpherson and J. E. Macree.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to urinate two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad; get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.
