ALLEGATIONS AGAINST ONTARIO MEDICAL COUNCIL.

Whether or not Robert Hamilton and Nellie Why, who died from poison on the road near Long Branch a few days ago, committed suicide or died from accident will never be known, as the authorities have dropped the case.

Satisfied from thorough inquiries that the twain were not murdered the decision to submit the viscera to Prof. Ellis for analysis was abandoned.

The probability is that the two committed suicide. The supposition that the victims died from eating toadstools in mistake for mushrooms is negatived by the only reason advanced for this theory; that Hamilton was in the habit of gathering mushrooms, of which he was very fond. The fact that he had been in the habit of gathering mushrooms for years is proof that he was not liable to mistake toadstools for his favorite

The Dotario Medical Council had a busy and exciting time yesterday evening until midnight chimed. In the morning they resolved to economise in the way of prosecution; in the afternoon they waxed warm on constitutional questions and the assessment of fees; and at night discussed startling statements of Dr. McLaughlan, that without legal authority the council had spent $5000 in hooken crockery, bricks and tin pails, with no distinctive object of aim, satisfied and the had been in the habit of gathering mushrooms for years is proof that he was not liable to mistake toadstools for his favorite
