APPLE DAY FOR N. S.

Our esteemed exchange, the Wolfville Acadian, brings up a most appropriate question when it asks "Why not have an Apple Day in Nova Scotia?" Its remarks in this connection are worthy of the widest possible circulation and the subject is one which should engage the attention of the press throughout Nova Scotia but more particularly that portion of it which is established in the Annapolis Valley, one of the world's most favored spots for the production of the apple. Below we quote the editorial with a few further comments:

The article referred to reads as follows:—
In the troubled days of Prohibition, when California raisin grape growers feared utter ruin by the passing of the vineyard industry, an enterprising publicity man, now running a news bureau in Vancouver, conceived the idea of holding a state-wide "Raisin Day" to boost the grape. The raisin was boosted widely. It was acclaimed as a health-giver, a death-defier and the most delicious thing that ever tickled the palate of a dyspeptic. Soon everyone was eating raisins. And the fad spread. The vineyard men are now raising grapes for the world, and business never was better.

Something like this might prove a great success in Nova Scotia. Let us have an "N. S. Apple Day." Let it be an education, a revelation of the qualities of the apple and other orchard products. Any medical man or druggist healer will tell you there is not enough fruit eaten. The old adage about "an apple a day drives the doctor away" has much truth. An apple taken daily on arising is a true health giver. The human system craves fruit acids. Apples and other orchard fruits are rich with nature's own tonic to rebuild the body, enrich the blood, build the bone, aid the growth, fortify the forming development of adolescence, help healthy maternity, defer the ravages of old age, and keep the Grim Reaper further in the background.

By all means, let somebody organize "Apple Day in N. S." Let us start a wide campaign and encourage everyone to eat fruit in abundance on the day. Then the orchard product will receive its boost. People will learn to like fruit. They will make every day fruit day. And the result will be, better general health, with, incidentally, a greater demand for our orchard products.—Wolfville Acadian.

What paper in Nova Scotia or throughout the length and breadth of this country and through part of Europe as well, has not received press propaganda calling attention to the value of raisins as a food and giving instructions in the way of using them in the preparation of various dishes. Papers are invited to publish all this free. For the growers in California with their press bureau this propaganda is excellent. It is good sense and it is good business and has boosted trade by the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The success thus attained gives Nova Scotia a tip in the disposal of one of her main productions, the apple.

There is need for education in the value of this fruit as a corrective in disorders and a beneficial tonic to the whole system. Many people, possibly the majority, look upon the use of apples and fruit in general as more or less of a pleasant luxury which can be dropped like other luxuries when the purse strings have to be tightened. Fruit is not a luxury; it is practically a necessity. People of course can live without it, but if they examine into the matter and make simple tests in their dietary, they will find that they can live better and enjoy more satisfactory health if apples form some part of their daily menu. There is not a disparagement to any other fruits, for all are good, but of apples one tires less quickly than of other fruits and among the fruits benefitting the human system they stand pre-eminent.

Why then not use all reasonable propaganda to make known their benefits most generally? The dissemination of the facts in this connection conveys a decided boon upon thousands who have not considered them. Proper presentation of these facts conveys financial benefit to the Valley and physical and mental benefit to all who enjoy its leading fruit, the succulent and health giving apple.

BOOT STYLES NEXT

A leading trade publication speaks of the shoe style situation being "in a deplorable state." The truth is that the styles are constantly changing, particularly in regard to women's footwear; and these changes, it is claimed, are responsible in part for the excessive prices against which much complaint is raised. Trifling changes, the publication says, are being constantly made; and it is of the opinion that there is lack of courage on the part of the makers in dealing with the unsatisfactory situation. So far has this craze for changes of style gone, the publication remarks, that "it would appear that everything has been done except to get the toe and the heel at the same end of the shoe."

The Shoe and Leather Reporter of Boston is responsible for these remarks, and it thinks that the people of the United States are now ready for a pronounced right-about-face in shoe styles. Trivial alterations from shoes to sandals and sandals to pumps, with fluctuations of straps and cut cut-outs and flapper styles have made the products "commonplace," and therefore the Reporter thinks that the time is come when the people want a courageous departure from present styles, and a right-about-face that will result in the discard of low cuts that are only an apology for shoes, and which figuratively leave nothing but "the soles and a fringe of upper leather."

The Reporter says that the coming change will bring in boots. Boot models, it says, have been for some time seen appearing in the designs of the Paris shoe artists, and are also displayed in the windows of the leading shopping streets of United States cities. These are straws which indicate how the wind is blowing, and the Reporter looks forward to abandonment of the variegated styles of low cut shoes which have "far out-run their allotted span," and a return to boots.

THE COST OF TRAVEL

The New York World says that it seems to be demonstrated that high passenger rates are disastrous to railroads because they reduce travel. It refers to the experience of the New Haven Railroad. This concern, it says, enjoys the most congested and the richest passenger traffic of all the great railroads in the country. Its revenue from passenger service in the days of low fares used to approach closely to its revenue from freight service. But with fares nearly twice as high as formerly its volume of passenger traffic has fallen so greatly as to cut down the gross revenue in spite of the extraordinary advance in rates per mile.

ONTARIO NOT ATTRACTED

The premier of Quebec seems to take a lot of pride in the fact that his Province is acting as bartender for the North American continent. And he jingles the coins derived from the government-owned liquor traffic in the expectation that the other Provinces, particularly Ontario, will be lured by the lust for gain.
But Mr. Taschereau will learn that Ontario thinks more of the youth of the community and their well-being than of the prospects of gain or low taxation that he holds out for all who follow the course taken by Quebec.—Toronto Daily Star.

GREATER DEMAND FORCES PRICES UP

The increased consumption of tea in 1921, during which year, by agreement, the tea growers of Ceylon and India had curtailed production, forced the price of tea steadily upwards to the present abnormally high level. The lowering of the duty in England will mean still greater demand, and authorities on tea tell us that still higher prices may be expected.

Procrastination is the sin of the human race. "Do it now" is the slogan of the successful man.

Local Happenings

A number of the C.G.I.T. girls of the various groups in town are planning to attend the Girls' Camp at Wallace this summer. Those who attended last summer and the summer before brought back good reports of the Camp that there will probably be quite a number go this year.

The Rev. J. H. Freestone delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture to a good sized audience on Wednesday evening, May 17th, his subject being, "Experiences in Lighter and Darker Veins in London." Mr. Freestone is a very able speaker and made the subject interesting from beginning to end.

The members of the Varsity Troupe who put on the play here on Friday evening were entertained while here by some of the town people. After the play an informal dance was given for them at the Courthouse, but on account of an invitation to go to Annapolis after the play they had to leave rather early.

"Everyone boost the new Post Office" is the slogan of all good citizens of Bridgetown, and we hope the time will soon come when such a building will be a reality instead of a dream. It has been for the past few years, Bridgetown certainly needs it if any town along the line does, and most of the people feel that we are going to get it.

Miss Hayden, of East Jordan, Shelburne County, has been appointed to the Kindergarten department of Bridgetown schools. Miss Hayden is completing a course for First Rank diploma at Normal School and has been specializing in Kindergarten work. She is a teacher of some seven years' experience and comes well recommended.

At the usual Friday evening Young People's service in the Baptist Church last Friday, reports of the Young People's Rally at Paradise were given by Mrs. Robbins, Miss Muriel Miller, Miss Marion Crowe, Mrs. Charles Lockart, and the past, Mr. Robbins. These were very interesting and greatly appreciated by those who were unable to attend the Rally.

BEAR REPORTED NEAR TOWN

A bear is reported to be making his appearance on the south side of the river and at no great distance from town. He has been seen from a distance several times, while his tracks have been examined at much closer range and indicate a bruin of good size. Some lams have disappeared as a result of his depredations. It is considered wise just at present for small boys and girls to avoid fishing trips in the woods in this vicinity. Meantime efforts will be made to exterminate the monster.
On Friday night the bear was tracked for over a mile and his resting place beneath a tree was located—but not the bear.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ADVERTISE

H. E. Hart, of Long Prairie, proprietor of what he calls "the biggest small town store in this state," in an address before a business men's association, predicted that 1922 will demand more advertising than any other recent year.
"The advertising of a merchant must be constructive to create a good public opinion of the store," said Mr. Hart. "Good advertising increases the volume of business and permits a decrease of prices."
In speaking of his own store, which he said does a business of $900,000 a year in a town of 1,500 inhabitants, Mr. Hart explained how "by common business principles and constructive advertising," he had overcome all difficulties.—Northwest Commercial Bulletin.

The contract for the work has been awarded to the Schurman Contracting Company of Summerside, P.E.I. The Royal Bank will have to get a move on now and erect that new building it bought the site for a number of years ago.—Advocate.

Mention was made in a recent Advocate that it was impossible to get at the vendor's prescription for less than 12 ounces. This has been attended to and it is now possible to buy six ounces of liquor, a slight additional charge being made for the splitting of the contents of the 12 ounce bottle into two six ounce bottles. It is not anticipated that there will be an overwhelming demand for splits.—Pictou Advocate.

The Kentville baseball team is getting in line for the season's work being determined to make a record second to none in the league. The team is composed of splendid material, and will give a good account of themselves this season. Practices are being held on the Memorial Park baseball diamond. At a meeting this week William Simmonds was appointed captain of the team for this season. This is a wise choice on the part of the team, as Mr. Simmonds played great ball last season. He is a baseball enthusiast and will inspire his team to great achievements.

VARIETIES OF STRAWBERRIES

(Experimental Farms Note)

A cosmopolitan fruit—Citrus fruits can only be grown towards the tropics peaches require special regions and sheltered valleys, apple trees are seldom seen below the Dixie line, but the luscious strawberry does well from Hudson Bay to Southern Florida, from Cape Breton to Vancouver Island. It is truly a cosmopolitan fruit and one which may be enjoyed by the farmer, even by the cottager with a moderate size back yard, as well as by the millionaire.

Varieties are legion—There are varieties of strawberries to suit practically every taste, every region, even every soil. The fruit may be had quite acid to very sweet, light rose to deep red, small to extremely large, soft and excellent in flavor to firm and of poor quality, with flowers imperfect or perfect, resistant to disease or any easy prey to it, strong plant producer or the reverse, adapted to light or to heavy soils.

What is the best variety?—There is no best variety of strawberry, as one which may be adapted to the needs or the fancy of a grower might not suit his neighbor. The main thing is for one to choose a variety which will have the greatest number of qualities required in the special circumstance. Moreover, it should be remembered that none has all or nearly all the good points.

Considering yield—Extensive trials have been made at the Cap Rouge Experimental Station since 1914 inclusively and results demonstrate that there is a vast difference between varieties of strawberries as far as yield is concerned. Averages show that for three years samples produced at the rate of 5099 pounds of fruit per acre whilst Ruby gave only 2,558; for four years, Bisel 7,181 and Sve 5,733; for five years, Greenville 7,726 and Wm. Belt 4,539; for six years, Cassandra 8,430 and Baverland 3,220; for seven years, Dunlap 7,362 and Nettie 4,292.

Choosing a variety—Before choosing a variety, farmers should either get plants from a nearby grower who makes a success with strawberries, or else apply for information to the Division of Horticulture of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, to the nearest College of Agriculture, or to the Superintendent of the Experimental Farm covering the district. All these parties are completely disinterested and will furnish good advice for the asking.

Suggestions—It is suggested that a perfect variety should always be chosen as there are any amount amongst them to suit all tastes, localities, and conditions. For Central Quebec, Dunlap, is the one which will give satisfaction, in general. If a very early kind is desired Excelsior may be planted, but it is a low yielder and of poor quality.

G. LANGELEIR.
