LONDON, May 29.-The search for further bodies has been stopped, as it is believed all have been rescued. The next thing in order is to provide for the destitute ones, and for this purpose the citizens will consult with the aldermen at a special meeting of the Board to-morrow evening. The expert tes-timony is likely to prove very contradictory, and it is doubtful if the coroner's inquest will lead to anything tangible or to anyone being punished. Indeed popular teeling has undergone a reaction, and there is now a great deal of sympathy expressed for the officers of the boat. Memorial services were held in all the city churches to-day; each pastor made reference to the sad event that, has caused such distress in our midst. Many of the churches were draped, and in some cases where the lost ones occupied prominent places in the church their places were also draped. The words of the preachers, many of whom were overcome with their emotion, caused intense feeling among the congregations.

The June races over the Newmarket course have been indefinitely postponed, and the entry money returned.

Mr. Hutchison, County Attorney, has re-ceived a letter from flon. Adam Crooks, Attorney-General, informing him that a strict investigation into the disaster is absolutely necessary.

A telegram from the Princess Louise, expressing condolence has also been received by the Mayor.

The navigation of the river is not to be abandoned because of the accident, but there is a determination on all sides that the boats of the future shall be tholoughly secure.

Mr. John Bidner, of the second Concession of Derchester, reports his younger brother, aged 21, missing since the morning of the 24th inst. It is thought he may have been among the lost.

The Sisters of Mount Hope Orphan Asylum work assiduously from house to house relieving and comforting the distressed of every denomination.

BRITISH SYMPATHY FOR THE LONDON PEOPLE.

LONDON, May 27.—The greatest sympathy is felt here for the sufferers by the London, Ont, catastrophe. Many anxious enquiries are made at the Globe office for the names of the drowned. The full list of the missing should be cabled.

The weekly meeting of the Glasgow Branch of the Land League was held in the hall, East Nile street, on the 1st inst. Mr. John Ferguson presided, and the hall was crowded.

Mr. Stewart delivered a very interesting address on the land laws. He maintained that the functions of the Government should be so exercised that their constant tendency should be towards the greatest good of the greatest number with the least possible interference with the smallest imaginable number. and that every unit in the community be entitled to a fair average value of the three L's—" Life, labor, and leisure." (Applause.) He should be entitled to the first, because no one is responsible for his advent into the world: to the second, because no person shall be called on to perform an extra share | "landlord brigade" was the result. Various of labor to secure to the idler a cer-tainty of lite, and by this means de-the authorities became known. Some assert third "L," for without leisure for the study of those arts and sciences which enter more and more into our every-day life, and are the mainspring or engine of the good ship *Progress," in which respect are civilized men could be observed crossing Cahir demense, removed above the savage of the backwood, or even the domesticated animals. He submitted that that condition of things could only be attained and fully developed when our imperial, national and local affairs were managed entirely by the people, and for the people through their representatives. [Applause.] Mr. Stewart went on to argue that the present land laws affected every industry, every species of manufacture and commerce, as vitally as they affected agriculture, though affecting all of them in different degrees, and some in the most indirect manner. [App]ause] Mr. Ferguson congratulated Mr. Stewart upon his lecture, which embodied the true spirit of economic science, and would say that it would be one which would perhaps instruct Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Forster they were left behind. The only other ani-and the Attorney-General. (Applause). If mal found on the farm was a specimen of the they could have the courage to carry out these he goat, which was tastefully and elegantly principles, they would soon find little decorated with green sprays of ivy and holly poverty and less crime in Ireland. (Applause). He supposed they all knew about the way Mr. Gladstone ex-plained the influence of the Fenians on the Church Act policy-the Fenians didn't scare him nor force him to pass his bill : they only rang the bell. (Laughter.) Mr. Stewart had told them of their laws and trade, and they must go on trying to ring the trade bell lond enough since that was the mode now. (Laughter and applause.) £800,000,000 of national debt! What had working men to do with contracting that debt? (Hear.) The men who incurred that debt, and should have paid it, would not pay it, and were holding back the lend for which they agreed to pay it. (Applanse.) But the people are now beginning to find that the land belongs to the nation, and the Scotch and English are beginning to learn a little of late also. (Applause.) And. he, would tell them the ultimate result of that agitation would be the nationalization of the land. (Loud applause.) Their action now was negative; but in a short time they would commence positive action. What a disgrace to the world were their land laws! One million of Englishmen had a certainty of ending their days in a poor-house. They work and toil through a dreary life, and when they can work no longer they have the prospect of the poor-house or living as out-door paupers. (Shame.) On the Continent it was not so, for there the farms belonged to the people, and every one was free from the dread of public charity. (Ap-plause.) They had all the authorities on their side. No one single man of any influence in economy could be quoted against them. (Applause.) But he needn't go over the matter again-they had heard it often bc-fore. They had all politicians on their side, but some said the time had not come. Well, they would try to make the time come. (Laughter.) But Michael Davitt lay in prison for trying to make the time come. (Applause.) . But they would follow the noble path of Davitt; they would beat down the prejudice agains them, and try to make the time come [Applause.] The Land League intended to spread their branches throughout the whole ened by a cruel landlord-[Applause]-and if support of the League. [Loud applause. They must not intrude upon the men in Skye: but they pointed out to them what they ought to do, and told them if they did it they would assist them to the utmost. (Applause.) It was very likely they would see an army of soldiers brought over to Skye to evict those quilizes the tortured nerves in an inconmen driven off the soil they had for over a ceivably short space of time. This inexthousand years cultivated, but that would be a lesson such as would do the people of Scotland immense good. (Loud applause.) Mr. Ferguson concluded by calling upon Mr. Hassen to move a vote of thanks to the lecturer.

Mr. Hasson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Stewart for his interesting address, and said that if the League had done nothing but bring about the addition of such Scotchmen as Mr. Stewart to their gatherings it would be something to be proud of. (Applause.) He ventured to think that they had converted Mr. Stewart-(laughier)-and he was certain the Irish people were enlightening these countries as to their land laws. (Applause.) They were the boys for ringing the bell-(laughter)-and if they went on ringing the bell as they had done they would be making the Scotch people go like Mr. Gladstone to church. (Loud applause.)

Dr. Ochiltree (Mr. Ferguson's nephew) had much pleasure in seconding the vote of thanks to the lecturer. He might say that after having visited the Continent and places where property is supposed to exist-such as Italy-he found that in no one of these countries he had travelled in were paverty and wretchedness anything to compare to what it was in Ireland (Applause). On the Continent every sensible and learned man just laughed and scoffed at Mr. Gladstone's Land Bill, and said it was unworthy of any statesman to introduce such a Bill to empoverish a nation like Ireland. (Loud applause.)

Mr. Stewart replied, and then

Mr. Murphy proposed and Mr. O'Hare seconded-" That we direct the attention of the Executives of the British and Irish National Land Leagues to the threatened evictions in Skye, and suggest that action should at once be taken to assist the tenants to keep a firm grip of the soil which they and their fathers reclaimed and made fertile." (Applause.) The resolution was ably supported, and before it was put to the meeting. Mr. Sutherland, who was warmly received, said he heartily thanked them on be half of the men of Skye. [Applause.] He would not have been there that day but that it would have seemed ungrateful not to say something in regard to the evictions. He knew they were anxious to know about them, and if the people of Skye were determined to hold out. He was proud to say, upon the best authority, they were determined to hold out, and to the last. (Loud applause) The motion was then put and carried.

Mr. O'Brien made a motion, but the Chairman ruled it out of order, stating that it could be taken up at the following meeting. The minutes were read, some conversation on different matters took place, and finally the meeting was concluded .- Ulster Fxaminer.

A LAUGHABLE SCENE IN TIPPERARY. AN ARMY OF HER MAJESTY'S SOLDIEBS AND POLICE TURN OUT TO SEIZE THREE YOUNG PIGS AND

A DEMONSTRATIVE "BILLY" GOAT. Monday last may be set down as an eventful day in the history of quiet little Cabir, on the lovely banks of the bright Suir, there being enacted on its borders one of the most stirring scenes now so common, viz., a seizure for rent. The most igaominious failure of the enemy, but, be this as it may, the full Hussars, stationed at Cahir barracks, seemingly with the greatest caution and silence, seventy or eighty police elso attendca, and formed a living, moving wall around the persons of the agent, the sub-sheriff, and three or four bailifie. Immediately this little army proceeded to a Mr. Walshe's farm at Ballymacadem, on Lady M. Charteris' estate. Through her agent, Major Hutchinson, the present action was taken, because Mr. Walsh, who with the other tenants who are all standing together, refused to pay his rent when a suitable reduction was not forthcoming. The agent and his party proceeded on their seizing business. Judge of their disap-pointment when their search was rewarded by finding on the whole premises only three bonhams. Those disagreeable customers could not be easily carried without much noise, so tied with green ribbons. On his large horns was a large pasteboard with the greeting "Wel-come Major," in large letters. Great merri-ment was caused by this animal. No one dare approach him under pain of a good sound butting. A large crowd from the surrounding localities was on the spot. A quick fire of the bitterest taunts and jeers were kept up at the agent by the crowd, accompanied by a continuous fire of rotten eggs. Being thus defeated the little cavalcade wended its way again, quick step, into Cahir. The police, with their charge, proceeded by a back street to the barracks. Mr. Walsh addressed the assembled crowd at some length on the square of the town in a most eloquent manner. -- Irish World.

COMMERUIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW - WHOLESALE MARKETS.

A good seasonable business is still being done by the leading wholesale houses in most departments of our city trade, and factories of all kinds-new as well as old-are being worked to their full capacity. So far everything is promising so far as Canada is concerned, but in both Europe and the United States timorous spirits are already spreading prive himself of an equitable share of the that the spy was in the very camp of the rumors to the effect that the limit of prosperienemy, but, be this as it may, the tull ty has been reached and a serious business pragramme was known. Some hour about crisis is impending. Within the last few days noon fifty or sixty men of the 18th English financial markets have been disturbed by the critical state of affairs in Ireland, and the uneasy feeling which began to manifest itself here was intensified by forced sales of Bank of Montreal stock on the Exchange. This was done by the brokers of an ex-bank manager who held about 500 shares of the stock on margin, it being rumored that the manager in question had left the city. All local stocks have suffered considerably this week, and one reason assigned is that a large quantity of capital is being diverted from the stock market for active purp ses in different branches of industry, trade and commerce. It is a good sign when money is thus needed to meet the requirements of legitimate trade, and there is every reason for belief that the records of the present season's business will show a great expansion in both our domestic and foreign trade relations. The Western bound European freight which is seeking the St. Lawrence route is greatly on the increase this year and this increase is one of the natural results arising from the reduction of canal tolls. Among articles going forward through Montreal for towns in Ontario and the Western States of the Union may be enumerated pig iron, tin plates, rails, soda-ash, chemicals, salt, glass, earthenware, gin, wine, &c. Formerly the canal tolls on the Western freight were so heavy on everything except iron and salt that other imports generally sought the American routes even when intended for points in Canada. Not only are our imports increasing in variety and extent but our exports also. Already we largely ex port, grain, flour, cattle, butter and cheese, but to this are now being added American pork, bacon and dressed beef and it is gratifying for us to state in this connection that the representatives of two large Antwerp provision firms were in town last week, after visiting Chicago, with the express purpose of making arrangements for the importation of American meats to Europe ia the cool deep sea, St. Lawrence route. The markets for sugar, flour, grain, leather, hardware, dry goods, and boots and shoes are still firm with a good demand, the latter extending also to nearly every department of trade enumerated below. DRUGS AND CHEMICALS .- The market is depressed on account of large importations of new goods, but an active business is transpiring. The following are revised quota- 10 do, $1,078. Dyspepsia and Languor. FROM THE WELL-KNOWN WRITER, MRS. MARY FRANOIS-(Margaret Blount).

"Two years ago I began to take the PERU VIAN SYRUP. I was in a languid, balf-alive state, through incipient dyspepsia and defective circulation of the blood. Three bottles of the PERUVIAN STRUP changed this to glowing, bounding health. I have a fine appetite, sleep soundly, and can walk five miles easily, without resting, or busy myself out of doors all day long without fatigue. A lady cousin, who resides with me, took the Syrup during her recovery from a serious illness of some weeks. She has been an invalid for years. Five bottles of the Syrup have so built up her system that she now eats quite heartily, to 45c; thirds, 30c to 35c; fourths, 26c to 29c. hair, some of them good, and many of them good for nothing. R. P. Hall & Co., of Nashua, N.H., manufacture and sell an article of real merit, which has been advertised in the Express for the past year, and we have taken no little pains to inquire how it has been liked by the public. One of our druggists informs us that he has sold more than double the amount of Renewer than of all other hair preparations combined, and when a person once uses it, he will use no other; that it is not only bought by the young people as a dressing, but by older persons for removing dandruff, preserving and increas ing the growth of the bair and restoring its natural color. Another druggist says ti at he sells three or four times as much of Hall's as of all others.-Hampshire Express, Amhersis Mass.
