

today. In the current international economic climate -- which is by no means as salubrious as your atmospheric climate -- we must all diversify our economic relations -- we cannot turn within.

What better choice can Canada and CARICOM States make in such circumstances than to strengthen existing ties of friendship, tradition and commerce between them? I believe this Agreement will be an important step in such a natural process.