Mr. Baldwin: Mr. Speaker, I do not think I heard the Parliamentary Secretary refer to question No. 1,646. If he did, I apologize to him. This is a simple question with the facts lying squarely and immediately within the knowledge of the government. It deals with the S. S. Oronsay and in view of the public anxiety it should be answered. I hope the Parliamentary Secretary will direct his very intelligent mind to this question and that it will be answered soon.

Mr. Orlikow: Mr. Speaker, on December 19 I put question No. 773 on the Order Paper asking for information about a study being conducted on housing policy and urban problems for the Minister without Portfolio in charge of housing. It is more than four months since I put the question on the Order Paper. It is a fairly simple question and I hope it will not be too long before I get the answer.

Mr. Fairweather: Mr. Speaker, on April 19 I placed question No. 1284 on the Order Paper after a most interesting statement by the Prime Minister to students at Carleton University about our policy toward the Republic of South Africa. I asked the President of the Privy Council some days ago about hastening the answer. It is a pretty simple answer and I should like to have it soon, please.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale): I will look into the matter, Mr. Speaker.

ORAL QUESTION PERIODTHE CANADIAN ECONOMYINFLATION—USE OF OTHER METHODS OF CONTROL

Hon. George Hees (Prince Edward-Has-tings): Mr. Speaker, I have a question I should like to direct to the Prime Minister. As steadily rising interest rates have not slowed inflation during the last four years but rather have added to costs which have driven prices higher, thus causing inflation to increase at a steadily accelerating pace, will the government now give consideration to other methods of combating inflation, particularly the method of controlling price rises through tax incentives, before the government's policy of restricting economic activity and causing unemployment to rise drives this country into a depression from which it may take many years to emerge?

Right Hon. P. E. Trudeau (Prime Minister): That is a very interesting speech, Mr. Speaker. I will take up the substance of it with the Minister of Finance. Thank you very much.

Mr. Baldwin: It is about time you started.

Mr. Hees: A supplementary question, Mr. Speaker. Would the Prime Minister be willing to debate this vitally important matter publicly at a time and place of his own choosing?

Mr. Trudeau: Well, Mr. Speaker, perhaps I would consider, if the hon. member resigned his seat, speaking against him in his riding in the by-election.
