

Necessary information will be sought direct from those interested in due course, but meanwhile we should like our readers to peruse the lists of names in this issue very carefully and to advise us of any errors or omissions, particularly in connection with the Honour Roll and other casualty lists. Needless to say, we shall welcome any other suggestions calculated to be of assistance.

We have also in contemplation the preparation of a supplement to the "Letters" consisting of an alphabetical list of enlistments with a brief biography for each name. The particulars given would cover military service mainly, but would include such further details as would be pertinent to such a record. Information on these heads must also necessarily be sought.

If we are successful in making of it what we have in mind, the volume with its supplement should prove a valuable addition to the history of the War as well as a lasting memorial to men who came together from many lands to join a business family and went out again to do great and stirring deeds during the most momentous period in the history of mankind.
