DUCKS IN DEMAND AT GOOD PRICES

Readily Bought Up on St. Lawrence Market at Twenty Cents Per Pound.

SOME HIGH PRICE EGGS

Two Vendors Got Seventy-Five Cents, But Several Sold at Fifty-Five.

At last the authorities have come to time, and installed a new woman's laundry in the St. Lawrence Market (thanks to the campaign of The World against the atrocious conditions of this much-needed convenience, heretofore existing) but here are some of the comments heard on the market Saturday: "Why did the authorities change the situation of it? The old one was in a comparatively inconspicuous position between the two markets and handy to both, whereas the new one is as glaringly conspicuous as it possibly could be, at the upper end of the north market as long a distance from the south end of the market (where most of the women are) as possible. The opinion freely expressed was that it is time a little brain power was shown in the management of this market. Could not the old laundry have been renovated at a much less expense than installing a new one in a much worse position? And why is there not a woman's laundry on the market, being the higher than any of the others, and had customers. Does it pay to be a customer of the St. Lawrence Market? Quite a number sold at 75c per dozen, but the bulk went at 60c, 65c dropping to 55c, and some going at 50c.
