THE WORLD'S HOME MAGAZINE FOR WOMEN

Edited by Miss L. E. McCULLY.

TO BE QUITE FRANK.

"Xor pauperis Ibyol."
—Horace: Ode 15; Book III.
By Franklin P. Adams.
Your conduct, naughty Chloris, is not just exactly Horace's ideal of a lady.
At the shady
Time of life;
You mustn't throw your soul away
On foolishness, like Phloee—
Her days are folly-laden—
She's a maiden,
You're a wife.

Your daughter, with propriety,
May look for male society,
Do one thing and another
In which mother two naves partic-
Shouldn't mix;
But reveals Bacchanalian
Are—or should be—quite alien
To you, a demure person;
Something worse'n
Forty-six!

Yes, Chloris, you cut up too much.
You love the dance and cup too much.
Your years are quickly fitting—
To your knitting.
Right about
Forget the incidental things
That keep you from parental things—
The World, the Flesh, the Devil,
On the level,
Cut 'em out!
—Appleton's Magazine.

The Smart Set.

The clipping beneath is taken from a paper newly started in Vancouver. It is to follow the plan of our own Saturday Night, and calls itself "The Saturday Sunset." It devotes two pages particularly to women, and is altogether a very bright and promising paper.

President Roosevelt at a Gridiron Club dinner is said to have reported this incident: "Two women," he said, "were discussing some new neighbors who had moved into one of the most sumptuous houses in their city. 'They seem to be very rich,' said the first. 'Oh, they are!' said the second. 'Shall you call them?' 'Decidedly,' you are sure are called. 'They are—quite correct, quite—good form?' 'Oh, my dear, how positive!' said the second woman. 'They have thirty servants, eighteen horses, twelve dogs, eleven automobiles and one child.'"

PERSONAL.

Dr. and Mrs. Torrington left Toronto last night for Montreal on the night boat, en route to New York. They expect to return to Toronto at the end of August. Dr. Torrington's choir in full strength, together with friends and relatives, were at the Union Station to give them a hearty send-off and wish them bon voyage.

At noon yesterday in Bloor-street Presbyterian Church the marriage took place of Mr. George D'Arcy Chadwick, son of Mr. G. M. Chadwick of Linneer, to Miss Elizabeth C. McCorquodale. The Rev. Dr. Wallace performed the ceremony, and owing to the recent illness of the bride, only the families of the bride and groom were present.

The bride, who was given away by Dr. H. A. Barick, wore her traveling gown of cream voile over taffeta, cluny lace blouse and white Milan straw hat, and carried a bouquet of white roses and orange blossoms. Her sister, Miss Alice McCorquodale, was bridesmaid, wearing a pink organdie dress with pink chiffon hat, and gloves, and carrying pink roses. The best man was Mr. Stanley Sweetman. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick drove to the hotel and left for a trip down the St. Lawrence. On their return they will be at the island for the summer.

The marriage of Miss Charlotte Ide, daughter of the late Mr. H. T. Ide and Mrs. Ide, to Mr. Henry M. Johnston of Philadelphia took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Howard-street. The house was fragrant with peonies and roses. The Rev. J. Russell of Hamilton officiated. The bride, who was given away by her brother, was attired in white tulle with veil, and wreath of lilacs of the valley, and carried cream roses. In the late afternoon the married pair left for Buffalo, Washington and Baltimore. They will live in Philadelphia. The bride is traveling in a gown of dark blue silk with tulle and hat. The groom's gift to the bride was a hundred-dollar goldpiece.

At Scarborough Junction, on Wednesday, June 26, the marriage of Miss Annie May Walton, eldest daughter of Mr. Joseph Walton, to Mr. Thomas J. Harris of Toronto took place. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Mr. Oake. The bridesmaid was Miss Della Walton, and the bride's niece, Miss Mildred Walton, was flower girl.

WHAT TO WEAR

"Learn 'Em Ton and See the World."
—Bobby Burns.

The girl who had been abroad was talking to the dressmaker. "If I were so lucky as to be going to England with Bobby Burns, I should remember which most people have to learn by experience," she said. Then she told about her former trip. She brought out some very good points, and I sum them up as follows:

The first, that green, however charming on dry land, is to be avoided on the water. It just insists on fading in sea air. Nothing will stop it. Brown would be well enough for a sea suit, if it only looked western on the water. One would have to choose a very quiet shade. Decks, remember, are white, and the blue there, the background, is to be considered. I should rather choose a handsome dark blue, a tiny checked black and white, or a dainty, not too pale, shade of grey. If one of these would have to be so deep and dull a red as to be very inconspicuous, you should look chic in conspicuous things on the ocean.

How pretty a plain Eton, or sailor, suit would look with several changes of white duck or linen cuffs and collar, or shawl collars! A sailor hat would look neat, but a soft Panama would be infinitely better in wind, sun, heat, and when you get our fashions as to millinery, and English people have cast aside sailors long ago. If a Panama was not summery features, the trimming should be exquisitely plain, quills in grey or soft blue, with a loosely knotted, fringed ribbon of grey, small stripes, or neat pattern, of color to correspond with the suit. A scarf to match would finish the shoes.

In shoes you have an immense advantage of the English girl. Her shoes are nearly always clumsy. But you have the advantage of better-shaped shoes if you choose light colors to go abroad. In street dress in the great, smothering damp cities of Germany, very different from here. It is ever so much quieter. No lady in London ever dreams of wearing her light dresses on the street. It would be as cheap as a conspicuous fabric, such as the plaid weaves. One girl who went to London, a few years ago, wore a better dress than enough plaid frock—but that's another story.

Let an evening dress which will not crush—that's the first essential. If you don't wish to be considered vulgar, see to it that the neck is at most only a few inches above the bust. Coming to dresses, and disreputable people generally wear a low neck on board ship or in hotels. Don't make your dress of muslin if you are in England. Owing to the climate, English people wear far fewer muslins than we do, and a comparatively thick silk organdie is the only suitable dress for this special purpose. Get a dainty, not too much patterned, chiffon voile, a prettily striped or satin dotted fabric, or a crepe, or a tulle, or a silk in some comparatively quiet tint. If it were I who chose, frankly it would be a handsome black gown with a white silk organdie, and Dutch neck, and removable cuffs and yoke for afternoons. You will be "placed" at once, and you will be able to wear it in any of the places you will be relegated to inferior tables and inferior company.

Don't take many short waists unless you can help it. They are warm, and with high, mannish stock collars. These are what English women affect. They are not for me, and I don't wear any of them. I prefer a simple, easy, and quick to put on, and which will be relegated to inferior tables and inferior company.

PROVINCIAL ART SCHOOL HAS BECOME NECESSARY

Recommendation for One is Made in Report to Minister of Education.

Part II. of the report of the minister of education for 1906 consists chiefly of the lengthy and comprehensive report of Albert H. Leake, inspector of technical education. It is very fully illustrated with views indicating the importance of this branch of education in Canada, Germany and elsewhere, as well as in Ontario.

Ontario, Inspector Leake singles Ottawa for praise.

Mr. Leake has a word on art which is worth consideration: "A few years ago there were six art schools in various parts of the province. To-day two survive, and these are engaged in a constant struggle to provide the necessary funds. They are directed by the regularly constituted educational authorities, and placed on a sound financial basis. We need a provincial art school to which students of promise might come from various parts of the province, and thus avoid the necessity of going abroad."

Mr. Leake also desires the establishment of an industrial museum.

SMASHED LOCK GATES.

Steamer Prescott Also Sinks Steam Barge Havana in Lachine Canal.

MONTREAL, July 3.—The Richelieu & Ontario Navigation steamer Prescott was entering the first lock of the Lachine Canal last night when the wire of the signal bell from the wheelhouse to the engine-room broke, and the man at the wheel being unable to signal the engine-room to stop, the boat steamed straight into the second lock, smashing it to splinters.

The rush of water carried the Prescott backward, snapping off the first gates, which were, by this time, partly closed, and sweeping the steamer back into the canal basin, where she collided with the steam-barge Havana, smashing in her stern. The Havana sank, but the crew were saved without trouble.

The Havana had a load of pulpwood. The Prescott was little damaged, and the canal was repaired during the day.

"Sid Moss is all right and the fuss the papers have made is unjust to him," said William Harper, the customs house broker, who returned home yesterday from New York, where he probed the whole affair to the bottom.

It seems that Mr. Moss was staying with friends at one of the big hotels. The night was warm and the whole party had removed their coats as they sat in the smoking room. In going up stairs before leaving to catch his steamer Mr. Moss neglected to take one of his coats and left it in the room. STOLEN FURS DISCOVERED.

CEYLON, Ont., July 2.—A big find of stolen goods was made here Monday evening.

R. Whitney, the grain buyer, was loading a car when he discovered a large bundle of furs under the elevator platform. In it were five ladies' coats, some of them very expensive, lamb and mink being the chief. Near it were found three men's coats. There is no clue to the identity of the thief.

Killed by a Street Car.

KINGSTON, July 2.—This morning, shortly after 9 o'clock a little girl, Ella MacGillivray, aged two years, daughter of R. J. MacGillivray, Collingwood-street, was killed by a passenger street car on the corner of Union and Collingwood-streets.

The little girl was on her way home wheeling a little doll's carriage. She tried to cross in front of the car, but was too late.

The car cut off the child's leg and otherwise mangled her.
