A "White" Man's Burden

Life insurance is a "White" man's burden, but it is one that is not difficult to bear when the heart is in the right place.

It is not merely a matter of worldly prudence but a duty with every man who has a wife and children and whose income will cease with his life.

There are various kinds, but if you want the absolutely reliable kind you will find it with

THE MANUFACTURERS' LIFE.

It is a simple and effective way of making immediate provision for the dependent ones.

If the husband or father be worth counting, it is hard enough to lose him without also losing the means of life along with him.

Then again life insurance is a source of satisfaction to the insured. It is a guarantee for him that, come what may, his wife and his babies are protected.

We have several plans of insurance we would be pleased to submit. Call and see us, or drop a card to

THOUSANDS SEE THE TATTOO

The Unique Military Entertainment at the Island Last Night Was a Huge Success.

MASSED BANDS ARE THE FEATURE

Fireworks Are Set Off While the Music Goes On—You Should See It.

The first Toronto presentation of a military tattoo—a British importation—was in every sense a stunning success last night at the Island. Early in the afternoon hundreds of persons went across the Bay, carrying lunch baskets and half-filled the grand stands before those who tarried till after tea had left Yonge-street wharf. When "First Post" was sounded, at 8.30, and the thundering gun had startled the spectators, fully ten thousand persons had gathered to applaud the soldier boys.

The Red Coat a Magnet.

The redcoat is a sufficiently powerful magnet at any time, but when the wearers play musical instruments in accurate unison, and when patriotic melodies are dispersed and mingled with a wealth of gymnastic technics, one has an attraction par excellence. Such was the tattoo, the newest and most unique military feature Toronto has witnessed.

Regiments Represented.

The regiments represented were the Queen's Own Rifles, the Royal Grenadiers, the 48th Highlanders, the 12th York Rangers, the 13th Battalion, the 20th Halton Rifles, the 35th (Barrie) Battalion, the 38th Dufferin Rifles, "Brantford Braves," the 44th Dundas Battalion, the R.C.D., and the Toronto Field Battery.

But the rank and file, beyond about 200 who bore torches, were not present in uniform. The battalions were represented by their bands, and nothing was wanting.

Truly Martial Opening.

Three rockets soaring to the stars and bursting with the noise of cannons formed the opening salute. The bugle bands of the G.O.R., under Bugle Major Swift, the Royal Grenadiers, led by Bugle Major Farmer, and the 48th Highlanders, directed by Bugle Major Woods, marched past, surrounded by flambeaux and torches. They took post at the south end of the green. The Toronto Field Battery's guns belched forth smoke and split the air with an unexpected sound, and the tattoo was begun.

A Brilliant Prelude.

As a kind of assemble call to the bands, first the massed cavalry and artillery trumpeters, and then the massed buglers blared out the reiterated notes of "First Post."

A brilliant salvo of rockets, shining stars and jewels formed a pretty prelude to the coming of the bands, separately, and flanked by 20 torch-bearers.

Regimental Marches.

The order of their coming and their marches were: "March of the Buffs," G.O.R.: "British Grenadiers," R.G.; "Bonnie Dundee," 12th; "March of the 13th," the 13th; "Campbells Are Coming," the 20th; "Cock o' the North," the 35th, "The Red, White and Blue, the 38th; "Hieland Laddie," the 48th; and "The Lincoln Poacher," the 77th.

Then came the 48th pipers, playing "The March of the Cameron Men."

The playing of the musical selections in the march past was conducted by George Robinson, bandmaster of the 13th, Hamilton.

While the great audience was at all liberal with applause, yet the height reached when the Dufferin Rifles' band, under C. Treshame, played "The Red, White and Blue." Then the welkin rang.

Finest Feature of All.

The best feature of the whole entertainment, the playing of the bands massed on Britannia," "The Evening Hymn," "Hundred," and "The Maple Leaf," both played and sung, never soundedmore effectively.

Of course, the climax was the colossal salute of Queen Victoria, saluted by the vigorous rendering of the National Anthem and accompanied by the firing of fireworks.

Then the crowd arose and cheered themselves hoarse and went home.

Whom Credit is Due.

The energetic and affable manager, Mr. Houston, and his capable committee, Major W. C. Macdonald, G. M. Higinbotham and C. S. Maclaren, those entitled to credit for the success of the first night of the tattoo are Lieut.-Col. Otter, D.O.C., Lieut.-Col. Mead, Lieut.-Col. Dennison, Lieut.-Col. Bruce, Lieut.-Col. Cosby, Major Murray, Major Tassie, Major Robertson and Capt. Myles. The bandmasters must not be forgotten. They acquitted themselves royally.

Crowds Did Jam.

The crowds at the wharves were large and anxious, and much jamming was experienced, mitigated somewhat, however, by the absence of bicycles. On the return there was an excited rush from the grounds to the boats, and no little inconvenience in crowding through in single-file the narrow entrance to the embarking sheds. The body reached home in excellent time, the last boatload with any numbers leaving the Island at 11 o'clock. There were two boats later, but these were for the few who wished to enjoy the cool breezes that are wafted around Hanlan's Point.

The public can rest assured that to-night they will witness the beautiful spectacle in coolness and comfort. The boat tickets will be on sale at Nordheimers' all to-day at the same time as the reserved seats.

PETTIT AND DAY RETURN.

The Supposed Drowned Men Arrived on the Argyle Last Night—Story of the Canoe.

The late hour at which the steamer Argyle tied up at Yonge-street dock last night did not prevent a curious crowd from gathering on the dock to meet the boat. The crowd was anxious to get a look at the two young men, Pettit and Day, who, it was thought, were drowned on Monday night. Every passenger who stepped off the steamer was gazed at intently, but none of the crowd seemed to recognize the two much-talked-of men.

Pettit appeared to take the stories published about himself and Day very much to heart, and spoke to no one after leaving the boat.

Day, however, treated the matter lightly and readily told a World reporter how the canoe came to be found in the Bay. He said Pettit was going to Belfast, Ireland, and it was suggested that Day accompany him as far as Kingston. The latter thought that he could be back at work on Tuesday afternoon, and consented to go. This conversation took place at the foot of York-street.

Pettit had to get his valise from his home, and the two hired a canoe at Noverre's boat house to paddle up the Bay. At John-street the two men tied the craft to the breakwater and proceeded over the bridge to Pettit's home.

When they returned the canoe was gone, and thinking it was taken for a joke, they hurried to catch the steamer, which left a few minutes later.

The two men called at the R.C.Y. clubhouse after their return, and were welcomed by many, who, when the canoe was found, believed they were drowned.

After Pettit assures his friends to-day that he is not at the bottom of the Bay, he will take a train for Montreal, and then go by boat from that port to Ireland.

A QUEEN STREET STABBING.

The Man Who Was Cut Got Away, But Two Arrests Were Made.

Constable Nelson was called from his beat last evening to stop a row that was in progress at the Municipal Hotel, corner of Queen and Bay-streets. It was also reported to the officer that a man had been stabbed.

When the policeman got to the hotel the man who was cut and his assailant had hurried away. There were two others in the bar who it was claimed took part in the fight, and they were arrested.

The prisoners are Robert McCarthy of 650 East Queen-street and Joseph Healey, who is employed at 142 St. George-street. They are charged with being disorderly.

BLAZE AT MONTREAL.

Four Establishments Burned Out Last Night—Loss $13,000.

Montreal, July 26.—(Special.)—There were four establishments burned this evening at the corner of Chatham and St. Antoine-streets: J. F. Beckhan's saw mills, Holmes & Arpin's box factory, D. Gagne's door and sash factory and W. S. Scott's cabinet manufactory were badly burned, entailing a loss of about $13,000, with $7000 insurance. During the fire a fireman named Benoit was pretty badly injured by an electric shock.

Closing of the Public Libraries.

Editor World: Few people in the north and west of the city seem to have realized the shortsightedness exhibited by the Board of Control in so restricting the vote for the Public Library of Toronto that the officials of that institution have been forced through the lack of funds to order the closing of the Yorkville and St. Andrew's branches.

The people have hardly believed, so far, that the action was more hats a threat, but it seems that on Aug. 1 the order is to be put into execution.

These branches, which have been exceedingly useful and popular in their several vicinities, are to be shut up, while the salary of the Mayor is to be largely increased, and money thrown this way and that upon objects much less permanently useful and civilizing.

It is well known by all who are interested in the educational welfare of the people that these branch libraries are of immense benefit to the inhabitants of the adjacent districts, and it is simply an outrage upon the poorer citizens of Toronto that such an institution as a Public Library, with all its humanizing and educational advantages, should be taken from them.

The action of the Board of Control is a step backward. Considering the great civilizing influence and small cost of these branch libraries, their number ought increased rather than diminished.

Trusting that you, Mr. Editor, will take this matter up.

Oswald Marling, M.D.

John Has His Troubles.

John Foot of 383 East Front-street appears to be having his troubles these hot days. On Tuesday his horses were frightened on the street, and he was thrown out of the wagon. He was picked up and taken to St. Michael's Hospital.

Yesterday he was able to go home, and last night he turned up at Police Headquarters with a complaint that he had been badly assaulted by two men. One of his alleged assailants, Charles Burch, of 98 Ontario-street, was arrested by an officer and locked up at the Wilton-avenue Station.

MANITOBA IS FLOURISHING.

Hon. D. H. McMillan, Provincial Secretary of the Prairie Province, Says So.

CROPS PROMISE TO BE ENORMOUS

Building Restricted in Winnipeg Owing to the Want of Material—Would Not Discuss Politics.

Hon. D. H. McMillan, Provincial Secretary of the Province of Manitoba, chatted with a World man in the corridors of the Queen's Hotel last night. He said that his Province was enjoying great prosperity, and that the general outlook was never brighter. The crops this year promise to far surpass all previous years, and the farmers are consequently jubilant.

The Doukhobors are proving to be good settlers, and seem industrious and contented.

In the towns and cities there are the signs of good times, and business seems greatly on the increase.

At Winnipeg a lot of building is going on, and some very large places are in course of construction. Mr. McMillan says the building is only being restricted by want of material.

As to politics, Mr. McMillan had nothing to say, excepting, of course, that he thought Premier Greenway was a sure thing at the next Provincial election.

"Do they run their elections up there the same as is being done here?" was asked.

"Oh, I don't know anything about that!" the Minister replied.

Mr. McMillan is accompanied by his wife. He has visited Ottawa, and is on his way home.

Tennyson now alleges misrepresentation, and will sue for the return of the cases.

HALLAM NOW IN A NEW ROLE

He Would Open the City Hall in a Way That Would Make the Citizens Smile.

NOTHING CHEAP JOHN ABOUT IT

Would Invite the Dignitaries to the Feast—It Would All Cost $6000.

Ald. Hallam has written a semi-serious letter to the Mayor, involving his idea of how the new City Hall should be fittingly opened. The Board of Control, it will be remembered, threw out his first $200 scheme, because, as the Mayor put it, it was "cheap John."

"But," says Ald. Hallam, "the committee should not be expected to make bricks without straw."

After reprimanding the Mayor for his ill-treatment of his first scheme, Ald. Hallam, in a perfectly sane manner, suggests a grand civic, but exclusive, banquet, where professional men and military officers would feast.

He would ask the Mayors of Canadian cities, "and perhaps the President of the United States." (Ald. Hallam forgets that Presidents are not allowed to go outside the American boundaries during their term.) Admiral Dewey and Chauncey Depew are also suggested in this wondrous epistle, alike, as drawing cards, and as cementers of Anglo-American unity.

His letter further provides for a grand procession of trades, labor, firemen, police, professions, school children and bands, each robed in gowns of office.

A Sauce of Funkeyism.

To counteract President McKinley et al he would insert a little Windsor flunkyism. Thus he continues: "The aldermen might be present in black frock coats, the Mayor in magisterial scarlet robes and gold chain, the Police Magistrate and the County Court Judge supporting him on either side, the whole marshalled by a worthy, stalwart citizen as mace-bearer, in cocked hat, with feathers, black silk stockings, knee breeches, with bows at the knees, patent leather shoes, with silver buckles. The teachers of the Public, Separate and High schools, with James L. Hughes and the staff of school inspectors, might join part of the procession. The above combination, marshalled in grand style, with plenty of music, banners and flags flying, would truly be a beautiful scene and worthy of the opening of the new municipal building."

Would Cost $6000.

To insure immortality to the event he would have bronze medals struck. He would give the school children a picnic in the parks and the elect a ball.

"As all the citizens could not have an invitation to the proposed ball," he concludes, "I would suggest that a cinematograph picture be taken and displayed to the masses who were not present. The above program, if carried out, would cost not less than $6000."

DEAF, DUMB AND BLIND GIRL.

Helen Keller is Spending the Summer at Wrentham, Mass.,—Studying Greek and Arabic.

Helen Keller, the deaf, dumb and blind girl, whose acquirements have attracted the attention of all students of educational methods, is spending the summer at Wrentham, Mass., as the guest of Mrs. J. E. Chamberlain. She keeps up her study of Greek and Arabic, and writes her exercises on a typewriting machine, especially designed for these languages, with interchangeable cylinders. By way of exercise she delights in climbing trees. Every morning she takes a swim in the lake, which she vastly enjoys. Helen puzzles new visitors by telling the color of the flowers they bring. She can even distinguish a white and yellow pansy from a purple one, and a red from a white rose. Her explanation is that the petals of the darker colored flowers are thicker than those of the lighter ones.

A Very Old Story.

The Yorodzu Choho (a Tokio journal) gives a translation of a poem by a Chinese bard who lived about 3500 years ago. It predicts China's downfall and final partition:

"Noble monuments we raise
To the great of ancient days;
As we prize the light of heaven,
So we prize what they have taught—
Art or science, skill or thought—
We preserve all they have given.

"We have spied all secrets out,
Deepest questions, deepest doubt
We search into, undismayed;
Yet it hath long been foretold
That this Empire grand and old
Shall be one day all decayed.

"For in all our thought and work
Doth an inner weakness lurk,
Want of substance, vital strength;
Cleverly the hare may wind,
But the untiring hound behind
Surely pulls her down at length."

"The hound," says The Yorodzu Choho, "may be John Bull or Muscovite bear."

An Andree Out of Place.

From the London Standard.

An amusing story of the German Emperor is being told in army circles. At a recent inspection of recruits his majesty asked one of them his name, and was told "Andree." On his majesty asking him if he was aware that he had a famous namesake, the soldier answered in the affirmative. "Who told you that?" asked the Emperor. "My captain, your majesty." "And what did your captain tell you about Andree?" "Your majesty, the captain said that he only wished Andree had taken me with him!"

Bishops Speaks for Beer.

London, July 26.—Prohibitionists in England strongly denounce the speech made by the Bishop of Ely at the Temperance session for Brickyard Laborers yesterday. He said: "As was the wine of Judea, so is the beer of England God's gift to make glad the heart of man. A simple rule," he continued, "is practical enough as a safeguard. One must stop when one has taken enough. One man cannot stand more than one glass; another might take five or six." The bishop's critics consider this a dangerous doctrine.
