

Missionary Collections, 1880	$114 23
“ “ this year	129 17
	<hr/>
Gain	$ 14 94

The work of the School is carried on by a Superintendent, assisted by a staff of 23 teachers, 12 ladies, 11 gentlemen. An idea of the faithfulness with which these perform their duties, may be formed when it is known that average attendance of teachers is 21. Sabbath School papers are distributed every Sabbath, and books from the Library are issued to the boys and girls on alternate Sabbaths. The International Scheme of Lessons is used in the School. Prizes are offered each year for repeating the Shorter Catechism, and Golden Text, and also for bringing in new scholars.

The prizes this year have been awarded as follows:

Catechism—J. S. Walker, Isabella McNabb, Jessie Hamilton, Jane Hamilton.

Golden Text—Mary Walker, Maggie Grutles, Austin Walker, Stephen Jones.

For bringing in new scholars—Emma Hamilton, Richard Borr, have had lockets awarded for bringing in highest number of scholars, others bringing a smaller number were rewarded by books.

At the close of the School each Sabbath, the teachers meet to read over the lesson for the following sabbath, and to ask God's blessing on the word taught during that day.

Besides the regular work carried on throughout the year, various additional efforts are put forth at various times, of which the following may be noted:

1st. Doreas work by the lady teachers who make up clothing for those connected with the school that requires such. The clothing is distributed under the supervision of the superintendent on Christmas eve, cheering many a home.