This band won its way to the hearts of many Londoners with its pleasing music, and certainly proved itself a credit to its home town.

The Band Concert. In the evening another band from the camp on Carling's Heights—the Twenty-eighth, from Stratford—under Bandmaster Hoxman, by the kind permission of Col. Moscrip and officers, rendered the follow-programme: March, "American Union": overture, "Maritana"; waltz, "Romantique": overture, "Sky Pilot"; overture, "The Elves"; overture, "Military Festivai"; march, "Royal Escort"; "God Save the King."

The band greatly delighted the gather Before all attractions comes the grand march, a most picturesque and pleasing feaure. About half-past eight all the attendants, in costumes representing the different nationalities, formed in fine and marched around and around the hall. There were Indians, Japanese, Italians, Scotchmen, Dutchmen and many other races, all very cleverly costumed, marching along in a grand processoin. The Collegiate Institute Cadets also played a prominent part in the procession. This march was the idea of Capt. Hill, of Wolseley Barracks, who deserves great credit for its success.

After the march in the evening a number of girls in costume put on a fancy fan drill on the stage at the east end of the
