SO EASY! LIKE
ROLLING OFF LOG

Sore, touchy corns stop hurting, then lift right out
with fingers

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoe that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

A quarter ounce of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but is sufficient to take off every hard or soft corn or callosity. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue or skin. After you lift away the troublesome corn or callosity the skin underneath is as pink, firm and healthy as the palm of your hand.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

ADVOCATES A JOINT BUILDING.
To the Editor of The Advertiser: ...
I was pleased to read your articles in Saturday's issue advocating a joint postoffice and customs house on Richmond street and the turning of the present customs house into a city hall. As you say, the site is an ideal one, and plenty large enough for the purposes, consisting, as it does, of 200 feet on Richmond street, and with streets of three sides. The customs house is well adapted for the city offices, and could be transformed into a splendid city building at a trifling expense, and by turning the two upper flats into an auditorium, we would have one of the largest halls in the city. Let us all get together and strengthen the hands of the civic and government authorities in order to carry out this very desirable improvement. A petition signed by all the merchants on Dundas and Richmond streets, and all the members of the city council could not well be ignored by the Government, and would be authority for Messrs. Glas and Cronyn to push the matter to a successful issue. Whatever the conditions were five years ago, when parts of the so-called Federal Square were purchased, it is now evident that no government would be justified in wasting over one hundred thousand dollars in the purchase of a drill ground on the main thoroughfare of the city, while the country is under great obligations to the returned and wounded heroes. Nor would it be good business on the part of the city to induce the Government to purchase this property, thereby losing an immense sum in taxes for all time to come. Far better would it be to sell the land to private individuals for what it will bring, and pocket the present loss for the immense gain to be made in the future from the taxes derived from a very valuable business block of stores. As local newspapers are advocating the joint postoffice and customs house, and the sale of the Federal Square, it is evident that they are in the present instance giving voice to the general public opinion. Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

DRUGLESS HEALING.
To the Editor of The Advertiser:
There are many thousands of people in Canada who have availed themselves of the service of the drugless practitioner, and who have been brought back from the border of the life of renewed health and strength. In very many cases these sufferers have been given to die or doomed to chronic invalidism, according to the verdict of their family physician.
To such people it seems unwarranted perversion of justice that an act of the Legislature should be passed, barring the drugless practitioner from practicing his profession in Ontario. Whether the act is passed or not, it is a protest against depriving them of a natural method of cure which has been used for centuries. Government remains to be seen.
A number of letters have recently appeared in the Toronto papers on this subject, which are absolutely misleading, and in Thursday's issue of The Advertiser is another letter of the same type, signed "Educationalist." The writer of this letter makes a special plea for the Kirksville osteopath, and brands all other drugless healers as "unskilled and untrained impostors." In view of their lamentable lack of educational requirements, and of their recognition on the part of the Government, it may safely be said that if the average medical practitioner had his way, all varieties of drugless healing would be more numerous. And as a rule well qualified to practice their profession, whether they call themselves osteopaths, chiropractors or by some other designation.
Dr. Still conferred a great boon to suffering humanity when he substituted osteopathic methods for the practice of drugs, and his name will never be forgotten, but in practicing his profession and teaching it he still, consciously or unconsciously, clung to the tenets of his early days. Like every other medical practitioner, who has practical physical therapy, he was sadly hampered in his new methods of healing by the time-worn theories of his early days, and this was reflected in his college work. It was, therefore, not surprising that other colleges were organized by men who were able to advance from where the father of osteopathy left off. This was their unpardonable sin, and the colleges instituted by other than the Still family have been hounded and crushed out of existence, or have been forced to come under the banner of the so-called simon-pure osteopathy. The students who were taught at their mother's knee to persecute and condemn all those who differed from them are at the present time very busy trying to prevent every other drugless healer from practicing in Ontario. It is not necessary in endeavoring to secure legal rights to trample on the rights of others, and those who try to win by such methods deserve to meet with failure.
Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the use of your valuable space, I am,
FAITH PLAY.

WHY THERE IS UNREST.
To the Editor of The Advertiser:
There are a lot of people wondering why there is industrial unrest at the present time in Canada. Those same people wonder why there should be unrest anywhere. That is the usual viewpoint of people in moderate circumstances to whom things come fairly easily and whose worries are few. Naturally they do not always see the other man's viewpoint.
Recently it was reported that the wife of Canada's minister of militia overseas had had furs and jewels to the value of $40,000 stolen from her winter home, the colonnades of the $40,000 worth of furs and jewels at a winter resort. It might have been added that these represented some of the profits of a highly protected industry at Toronto. That is one source of Canadian unrest.
A few days ago a dispatch recorded the execution of four grand dukes in Russia. The report of that dispatch was that this was an atrocity. Perhaps it was, and perhaps it wasn't. Russia is free of czarism today, and people who plot to restore czarism are enemies of liberty, whether in Canada or Russia. The loss of four Russian grand dukes is of no more account at this stage of world history than the passing of four Russian peasants, and the world doesn't need to be told how many of them have passed out in the last few years, victims of a bloody autocracy. And any special concern for grand dukes in Russia will not add to the success of labor in this country.
And today it is solemnly recorded in one of your contemporaries that the Duchess of Marlborough, passing London Bridge, picked up some ordinary, common working girls and gave them a ride home. Could snobbishness go further than to spend money in cabbing such drivers? And snobbishness, including all titles and distinctions, is also stifling the deaths of Canada.
In the meantime, while two London ecclesiastics are quarrelling over dogmas of the fourth century, the workmen of London are crowding another little church in the east end to hear a man who is proclaiming that the kingdom of heaven is at hand and doing his part to bring it. Yours truly,
A CANADIAN FIRST.
