Boys Take Prominent Part in On Factory Construction This Offering and Responding To Toasts.

later still another individual.
Rev. N. S. McKechnie, speaking on

He advised the boys always to play

this toast.

Father, Son & Co.

"Father, Son & Co.. Specialists in Citizenship." was the last toast of the evening. Charles Folks of Talbot Street Church, told the boys how they could live better lives. Rev T. S. Roy emphasized the importance of citizenship. He thought that the franchise was being treated too lightly nowadays. He expressed his objections to persons voting for a certain party because their ancestors did so. No party, Mr. Roy remarked, could be right all the time. In the schools, although there was every other kind of course, there were not any courses in citizenship. The average individual was supposed to fall right into his place by some instinct or luck, and make a good citizen.

The toast to "Our King and Country" was spoken by D. H. McDermid and responded to by Harold Porter of Egerton Street Church, Rev. T. S. Roy gave a much appreciated solo. The entertainment was brought to a close with the singing of songs popular with Y. M. C. A. and Tuxis groups.

able banquets of the season when they met in Talbot Street Baptist Sunday absorb a great deal of interest in this school on Thursday evening.

After the inner man had been satisfied, a series of toasts in which the boys took a very prominent part were proposed.

Speaking of "Our Training," T. H. Yull of Maitland Street Church declared that the boy could be trained for church work, but the man could not, as the man worked out a way of his own. The Brotherhood movement was helping greatly in the training for the church. Many men were becoming more active in their religious life as a result. Ross Warner also spoke on this subject.

"Father Through the Boy's Specs" was discussed by a boy, Frank Hockney. He was of the opinion that every boy should make a pal of his dad, and should take him wherever he went. Dr. J. F. Bryant, talking on "The Boy Through Father's Specs." compared the western front up to that time.

The infantry advanced so fast over the ridge that the artillery, with the exception of a few of the more advanced heavy guns, was out of range at noon on the 9th.

It was after this time that the Canadians paid so dearly for the capturing of Vimy, as the infantry had very little artillery support for the next two days, and, being on the offensive, they came in for a great deal of heavy shelling by the Hun, as he retired with his guns to the Hun, as he retired with his guns to the Avion-Mericourt-Fresnoy line.

Kindly Inspector Reunites Family; Gets Husband Job

> Detroit, April 9.—Inspector William Good Thursday reunited a family that has been separated since the husband and father deserted his wife and child in Cleyland, sayeral, washe are and father deserted his wife and child in Cleveland several weeks ago.
> Michele Michetti, alias Pietro Leone, left his wife and child in Cleveland without telling them where he was going. He came to Detroit, but was unable to find work, and did not communicate with his wife. Wednesday the wife heard her husband was in this city and came here and asked Inspector Good to find him. He was located at 433 Wilkins street, and when members of the bomb squad trought him before Inspector Good and his wife, he broke down and wept.
> Inspector Good secured Michetti a job in an automobile factory, and he promised to take care of his family in the future and not desert them again.

Work on Medical School Books HARDWARE PRICES STILL ADVANCING

Hardware and Metal, April 10, wi with them a library that will be fully catalogued and quite up to date in its arrangements and equipment.

The collection of bound medical journals is one of the particularly valuable sections of the library, and is being added to continually. At the meeting of the university library committee yesterday it was reported that on the part of the students there was a steadily growing use being made of the current medical journals.

Work on the arts library has gone ahead well this last year, and the purchases of the last two years, is now practically all catalogued on the most scientific lines. From now on, until the fall, special effort is to be directed to the task of cataloguing large sections of the Barnett collection, which is housed at 313 Cheapside street. At least two members of the university library staff will be at work on the Barnett library all summer, and the books put through in that time will then be incorporated in the general library of the arts department. In view of the importance of the modern language work a special addition is to be made to this section of the library, the books being imported direct from France.

Hardware and Metal, April 10, win say:

The situation which has developed in iron, steel and wood materials is believed to be the main factor for the persistent advances which are being made on hardware commodities. Nearly all lines of woodenware have been marked up this week, including step-ladders, washboards, clothes pins, clothes bars and dryers, etc. Manufacturers have decided to make only two grades of stepladers, in order to increase production. Paris green and arsenate of lead have advanced. Higher prices have also been mamed on shovels, spades and scoops as well as extra handles for same.

Other lines that have advanced in price are: Bake and ironing boards, as seriely beautiful to the price are: Bake and ironing boards, safety fuse, firreware, well and floor thimbles, some lines of builders' hardware, sash weights, lawn fence, series well as extra particular to the fact of The situation which has developed in sheets, bar iron, oil stoves and ovens and canvas belting.

Trade in nearly all hardware lines is very brisk. Spring lines are all moving freely and merchants generally are well satisfied with the business offered. Prices are very firm and the scarcity of supplies is becoming more pronounced each week. Collections are very good idea, which met with such great success both here and in England during the late war.

The committee realizes that there are many young men in the city who are friends and like to stick together, and the officers of the regiment are determined to assist them. The company rooms will be encouraged to be looked upon as club rooms, and the men will be welcomed every night in the week. It is the intention to make the re-organized regiment both social and athletic centres, as well as military.

Young men who join the regiment will be given the opportunity to select the company and platoon they wish to join, and as far as possible the junior N. C. O.'s will be selected from their number if they have the qualifications.

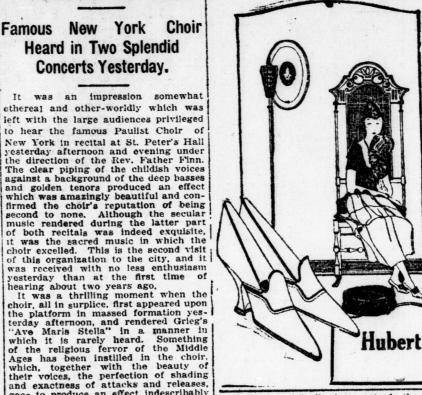

Arrangements are pending whereby rooms at the Armories will be furnished as club rooms, and the men will be encouraged to use them as much as possible. Informal dances and other gatherings of a similar nature will be encouraged, and as a result it is expected that the regiment will soon be up to strength.

Owing to the majority of the men who will join having had plenty of experience as soldiers, it is not thought that much time will be taken up in elementary training, and therefore it will not be long before the more enjoyable parts of training will be indulged in to the satisfaction of all.

Plans for the regiment will be outlined by Lieut.-Col. Eric Reid at the Spring training and early schedules of the Vacant Lot Easeball Association have been completely disorganized. A few attempts have been made to hold preliminary games on some of the league's several score of diamonds, but these have in every case been checked by the falling snow or the low temperature, which removed all the joy from the game. Master Thomes Huber, another small member of the choir, with an exceptionally fine voice, was heard in Godard's "Florian Song" to the delight of the audience. In the evening the program was divided into three parts, mediaeval church music, modern church music and secular music.
