WOMAN: As She Appears for the Public Eye in the News of the Day

Scitly Takes to Balloons. LONDON, May 31.—Furlingham, the erstwhile centre of fashionable amusements, has now taken the lead in ballooning, society's latest recreation, and Saturday was the scene of an interesting international aeronautic contest, in which twelve British, thirteen French, three German, two Belgian and one Swiss balloons competed. The geographical conditions of the United Kingdom being such as practically to forbid a long-distance contest, the committee in charge decided upon a point race. Maidenhead was chosen, a distance of about thirty miles. The most interesting feature of the contest was the number of ladies who made the ascension. In addition to the English women, who included Lady Ashley, the Hon. Mrs. Ashton Harbord, Mrs. and Miss Brabazon and Mrs. Capper, wife of Col. Capper, several French ladies specially crossed the Channel for the purpose of making the trip in the air. The band of the Royal Horse Guards, at the balloon was set loose, played the National Anthem of the country which it represented. The weather was hazy and the wind very light, and the race a competition of skill in the search for helpful currents, in which the British competitors, with their local knowledge, had a distinct advantage. The balloons varied greatly in size, from the Belgian Loretotte, of a capacity of 20 cubic metres, to the French Cognac, of 2000 cubic metres, but a valve defect prevented the Cognac from ascending at the last moment. The largest English balloon was Pollock's Valkyrie, of 1688 cubic metres. There was an exciting incident at the start of the race, the Belgian balloon, Emulation de Nord, striking a tree in the grounds. The pilot, Albert Crombe, instantly threw over all his balloon, but succeeded in clearing the obstruction, but his car took with it two large branches of the tree. The aeronauts plucky continued the race. The winner proved to be the Valkyrie, which made the descent very easily after 20 weeks from the winning post. Griffith Brewer's Lotus, also a British representative, finished second. The third prize has not as yet been decided.

LILLIAN RUSSELL HAD LUCK AT THE RACES

Actress About as Fortunate at Woodbine as She is on Stage as Heroine of "Wildfire." If Lillian Russell wants to abandon the stage on any future occasion, she will be able to make a comfortable income selling tips for the races. Anyone who has seen "Wildfire" can easily imagine that great operatic comedienne and society actress does not need to feign her enthusiasm for the racetrack. It is interesting to know, however, that her enthusiasm in real horseflesh is a genuine emotion. Woodbine week gave her a splendid opportunity to exhibit it. "I went four times," she told a World man on Saturday afternoon. "We had arranged not to have a matinee to-day if it had been fine, and I would have gone again," she confided. "Yes, I did very well and made a good deal of money. You see, I know the horses from watching them at the different tracks, all except the 2-year-olds, and they run more consistently than the others." "On Thursday I had five winners, and I would have had six, but my good stay for the first race, the driver Eidorado, tho, and I heard them calling him the winner as I got in my carriage." Thursday's winners were Sandal, 2 to 1; Ragman, 5 to 2; Caliboy, 2 to 1 (an appropriate one for Miss Russell); Photograph, 1 to 1; and Sponsor, 10 to 1. "The racing is very straight at the Woodbine," continued Miss Russell, "and that makes it easier to pick them. No, I had no mascot. Someone gave me a rabbit's foot," she added, rather consciously, but she evidently preferred to rely on the form book. "The Woodbine is a beautiful little course," was another hearty verdict. "It reminds me of Nice and the French courses. Nice is not quite the same, but the ladies walk about in their long trailing dresses, and it is more select than the American tracks. At the Woodbine they don't mix the people up so much. It is very nice, and that makes it easier to pick them to do it at Belmont. It is general splendid to see it going on. I am glad with his suite coming on the course. Does he attend the meet at Hamilton and Montreal?" she asked. "Miss Russell does not know whether she will be back in Toronto next season, as she has made two visits this year, but she will be back in the first week of the tour has been a great success, and Miss Russell's manager admitted having cleaned up $30,000. The tour closes next week. It is intended to re-write the third act of "Wildfire" and bring it up to date with some more comedy. The second act is flawless, and the big climax is about the finest thing in the literature of racing drama.

AT THE THEATRES

For the pastoral plays to be presented by Ben Greet and his splendid English company at Toronto University from Wednesday to Saturday next week, Mr. Greet has departed from his usual custom, and will print the names of the actors taking part. Among the excellent artists with him are Miss Irene Rooke, who will be seen as Rosalind, Olivia, Juno and Helena; Miss Agnes Scott, who will play the part of Everyman; Allen Leiber, Stanley Drevitt, Redmond Flood, G. Browne, Sydney Greenstreet and George Vivian. The company numbers twenty-four. The sale of seats will begin at Tyrrell's bookstore on Saturday morning. Patrons of the Gayety Theatre will receive with pleasure Rose Sydel and her "London Belles" Burlesquers. The company, which numbers nearly forty people, will appear in what is said to be the most laughable of the season's burlesques entitled "The Prince of Petticoates." There will be an abundance of bright musical numbers, introducing a chorus of twenty or more. The burlesque has two acts, and the olio composed of eight high-class vaudeville acts. Percolated with the never-fading desire to please the people of Canada, the author, J. M. Barrie, and her part of the most popular play which he has written, "The Admirable Crichton," will be presented by the Imperial Troupe of the Hanlan's Point. Miss Viola Knott will enact the delightful role of the daughter, Amy, in the play. Isabel MacGregor will play the "daisy" part, and Marion MacDonald, late leading woman of the "Bonnie Brier Bush," will play the part of the "daisy" part. Ernest Trux, considered the best actor upon the American stage, will play the part of the "daisy" part. The play opens to-night at the Princess. The one best bet in the way of burlesque this week is the offering at the Star Theatre, "The Prince of Petticoates," being the attraction. As a special feature they offer for the first time in Canada the Tommy Burns and Jack Palmer fight, which took place in London on April 10, and only shown in one other city in America. The battle consisted of a number of which are clear and distinct. Another notable feature of this organization is that of Ampere, who has himself as the wizard of electricity. Miss Rose Melville, who is completing her ninth consecutive tour in "The Hopkins," comes to the Grand this week. Her first visit to the city in eight years, more comedy than tragedy, she is said to be the most popular play which has been staged in twenty years. Each season she has an increase in interest in the fortunes of the show, and, oddly dressed country girl of Posey County, Indiana; the girl with the funny pig-tails, the staid pianoforte and the snake-tongue dance; the girl with the speech of a snail, and the girl who originated the character, nine years ago, has played in every city in the United States and in nearly all the larger cities of Canada. For this week's attraction, the Hanlan's Point management have much pleasure in announcing the Mikado's Imperial Troupe of the Hanlan's Point, which is composed of ten members, all of whom are the most skillful in their line to be found in the world. Their performance lasts for one and one-half hours, and will be given free every afternoon and evening. The troupe consists of Barry and Wolford, Montgomery and Moore, Emil Hoch & Co., Herbert Cyril, Foresto and Dog, the Kinetograph, the Six Bonaccetti. The Royal Alexandra Theatre, beginning this evening, the Imperial Opera Company will enter upon its presentation of "The Mikado," the most successful of the long list of popular summer season, with an elaborate revival of "A Runaway Girl," one of the most entertaining of the long list of popular theatrical comedies, which have been performed at Daly's theatres, New York and London, since the first production of the play. The piece is presented here by arrangement with George Edwards of the Gayety Theatre, London. Special attention is promised in the chorus and ensemble work, which is most exciting and picturesque in this production, while the locale of St. Pierre Convent, Ajaccio and Venice, provide admirable opportunities for elaborate scenic environment. To-day and all this week at Shea's Theatre the dainty and popular English comedienne, Lily Lena, who will head the closing bill of the season, which will also include the Melkoff Troupe theatrical managers, Emil Hoch & Co., presenting "Love's Young Dream," a new play by the long-time popular Montgomery and Moore, Foresto and Dog, Herbert Cyril, Barry and Wolford and the Kinetograph. The World is asked to correct a statement in The Sunday World. Miss Dot arranged to join the company of Ernest Shipman, the well-known New York theatrical manager, and not those of the Frohmans, as stated. Seaside Beach will be the centre of interest to-night, as the theatrical season is winding and the big east end park is coming into its own. The first of the comic page supplement pictures, and the Buzz attraction which will receive visitors for the first time to-night. Don't miss the "yupp, only eighty odd bottles left." Buy early a bottle to close out at Michie's.

LADY MINSTRELS JAILED

Six Members of Troupe in Trouble at Norwich. WOODSTOCK, May 30.—(Special).—Six members of the Ladies' Minstrels, an organization that was to have appeared in Norwich on Thursday night, are in jail doing short terms for theft and vagrancy. When the company struck Norwich the six minstrels, four of whom are girls, deserted the show and carried off several suit cases of articles that belonged to the show. They got about four miles out of town when the police arrested them. They were taken before the Norwich magistrates and were sentenced to 35 fines and one got a $25 fine and three months. None of them had any money, so they were all brought down to Woodstock jail.

From Circus to Stage

From the sawdust ring to the lyric stage is somewhat of a leap, but had it not been for the intervening intervention of a fond mother, it is more than likely that Miss Elgie Bowen, the young prima donna of the Imperial Opera Company, now playing at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, might now be dispersing her talents in the three-ring canvas topped amusements of the circus instead of appearing as "Dolly Varden" or pretty "San Toy." Of course, it all occurred when Miss Bowen was quite a child. She had been to see the Docks Circus some years ago while they were in Chicago, where her mother conducted a conservatory of music. The wonderful feats of the acrobats and clowns and performers amazed the child until a tight rope walker appeared on the scene—everything which had gone before was dwarfed in little Miss Bowen's estimation. Immediately she arrived at home she began to plan how to become a tight rope performer. Without taking her family into her confidence she quietly rigged up the large hall of the conservatory so that a rope stretched from one beam to the other side of the room. Then a curtain stick was wrenched from its moorings and she soon transformed into a balancing pole. In less than a week Miss Bowen had found the way and shocked her much astonished parents by an exhibition such as had never before been attempted in the music room. To dissuade the young woman from her ambition as a circus performer she was permitted to learn dancing and soon became an adept of the clog step; in fact, in a short time she had done well enough to assume the direction of a chorus of amateurs. Her theatrical career was evidently inevitable and she has served a long apprenticeship in dramatic as well as lyric work, there is no doubt; but what the young woman will soon take her place among the light opera stars of the country.
