

TABLE of the value of STERLING Money at New-Brunswick, calculated to the Ninth part of a FARTHING.

STERLING.				NEW-BRUNSWICK CURRENCY.
£	s	d	q	£	s	d	q	9th
0	1	0	0	0	1	1	1	3
0	2	0	0	0	2	2	2	6
0	3	0	0	0	3	4	0	0
0	4	0	0	0	4	5	1	3
0	5	0	0	0	5	6	2	6
0	6	0	0	0	6	8	0	0
0	7	0	0	0	7	9	1	3
0	8	0	0	0	8	10	2	6
0	9	0	0	0	10	0	0	0
0	10	0	0	0	11	1	1	3
1	0	0	0	1	2	2	2	6
2	0	0	0	2	4	5	1	3
3	0	0	0	3	6	8	0	0
4	0	0	0	4	8	10	2	6
5	0	0	0	5	11	1	1	3
6	0	0	0	6	13	4	0	0
7	0	0	0	7	15	6	2	6
8	0	0	0	8	17	9	1	3
9	0	0	0	10	0	0	0	0
10	0	0	0	11	2	2	2	6
20	0	0	0	22	4	5	1	3
30	0	0	0	33	6	8	0	0
40	0	0	0	44	8	10	2	6
50	0	0	0	55	11	1	1	3
100	0	0	0	111	2	2	2	6
200	0	0	0	222	4	5	1	3
300	0	0	0	333	6	8	2	0
400	0	0	0	444	8	10	2	6
500	0	0	0	555	11	1	1	3
1000	0	0	0	1111	2	2	2	6

AMUSEMENT.

Two Irishmen who were badly wounded at the Battle of Barrosa, happened to lie in the field near each other; and while the Surgeons were examining their wounds, one of them made a great outcry; when the other, with considerable non-chalance, sang out "What are you at that; what a roaring you keep! do you think there's nobody kilt but yourself?"

A person in —, boldly advertises, that he is in possession of, and will employ the BLACK ART to get his living. The civil magistrates have not deemed it advisable to interfere, since the fellow applies his art only to bobbs and shoes, and in such a way, that he puts his customers on a respectable footing, without any injury to their soles.

AMUSEMENT.

A man going into a barber's shop to be shaved, popped his head through one of the squares of the window which was made of oiled paper, and asked, "Is tonsor within?" Strap, pushing his pate through another square, answered "Just gone out, Sir."